Rhonda -

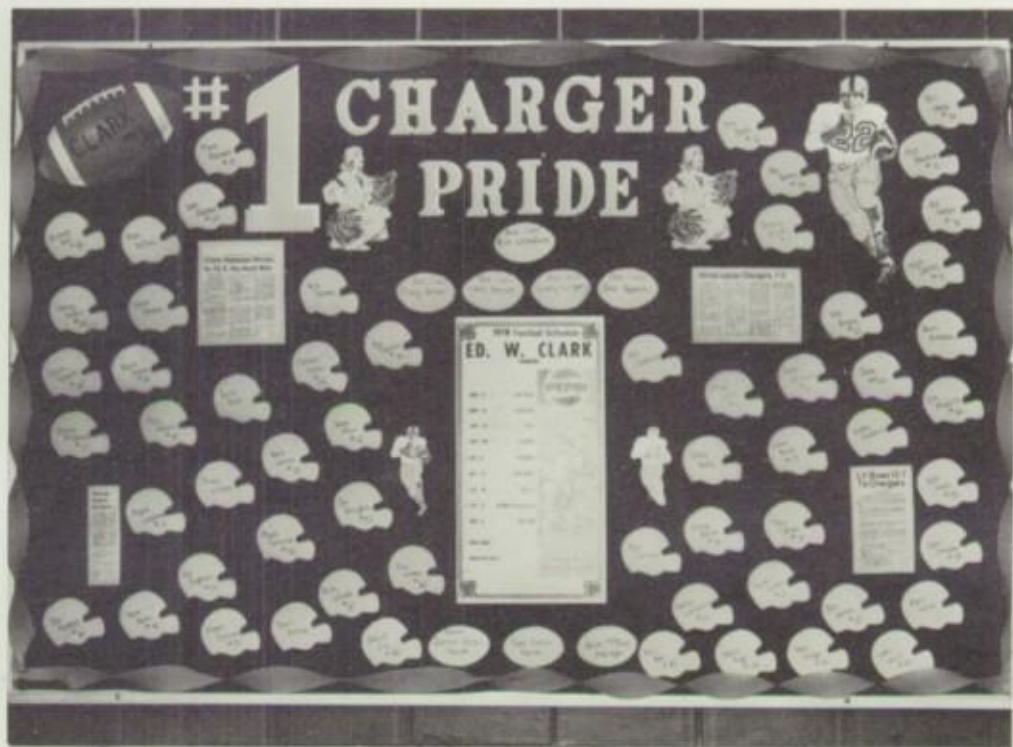

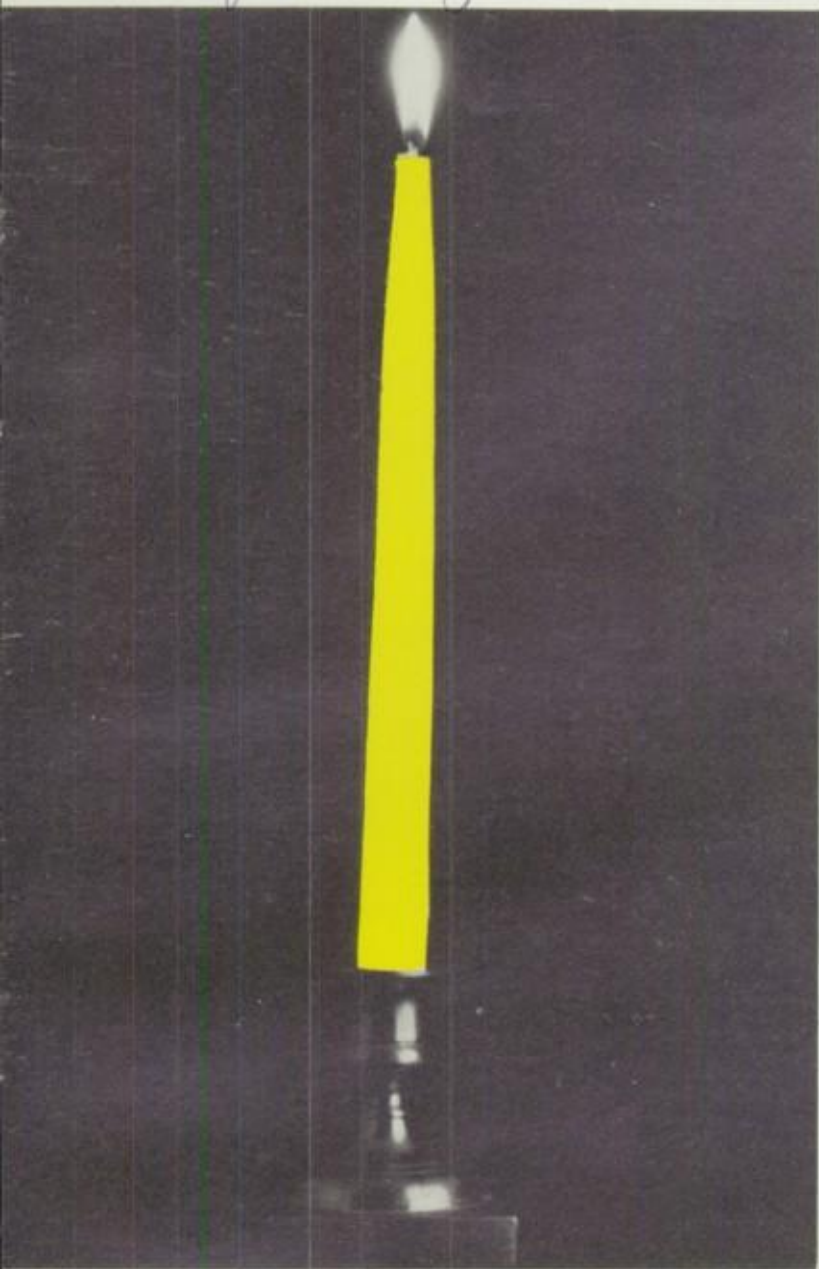

I REALLY HAD A GREAT YEAR - ESPECIALLY WITH SUCH A REALLY GREAT FRIEND. YOU PROBABLY THE MOST DARING PERSON I KNOW. AS FAR AS SAYING STUFF IS CONCERNED. YOU WERE THE GREATEST IN ENGLISH. THROUGHOUT THE YEAR WITH YOUR MOUTH RUNNING CON-STANTLY! I'LL ALWAYS REMEMBER OUR

FUN TIMES - EX - Do you have the chocolate water fountain - (Did ya ever know it was called "the chocolate war?") Poor Mr. Myers had to live through me, you, & Marge. What a combination. How you and Scott were always fighting or shall I say arguing with each other. Marge boy she really liked Scott huh? And what she saw in M.C. or maybe pinna bendes.

And that good ol' chuda chest. And who could forget "Joline, Joline, Joline, Joline!" (You're not quite a Dolly Parton ya know. Did you really like Steve Abbott, should I say - Sherlock?) Is that rather much more appropriate? You were always asking him all these questions about stuff ABOUT Sherlock. (Like he really knew!) That librarian is really a crackup huh?

"Excuse me?", Do you have the chocolate water fall? And the day you went up to that homely looking kid and asked him that. And when M.C. went by and you go - Isn't that who you like marge!? I'll bet she was really feeling chunky as all hell! A new

The pie-eating contest brings both fun and messy faces to the hungry contestants.

Chargers experience the time of their life during Homecoming

"The Times of Your Life" was the theme chosen for Homecoming '78. The week was filled with various activities ranging from dress-up days to lunch time activities. Combined with anticipation and excitement, spirit filled the school.

The dress-up days such as Roman, Little Kids, and Costume Day brought much participation from the student body. The many contests — bubble blowing, pie eating, grape eating and root beer guzzling — increased the feeling of competition during the lunch hour. On Tuesday night the powder puff teams — Vance's Villains, coached by Vance Sutton, and Ireland's Angels, coached by Pat Ireland — met in combat. The game ended in a 14-14 overtime tie. The game, plus the added laughter from the lettermen initiate cheerleaders, made a good time for everyone.

The climax of Homecoming, the assembly and game, brought many alumni back to see the Chargers beat Gorman, the first time in five years Clark has won its Homecoming game. During the enthusiasm-filled assembly Van Vereen and Henry Thorns received the title of Mr. Football.

The dance held in the Convention Center on Saturday concluded the busy week.

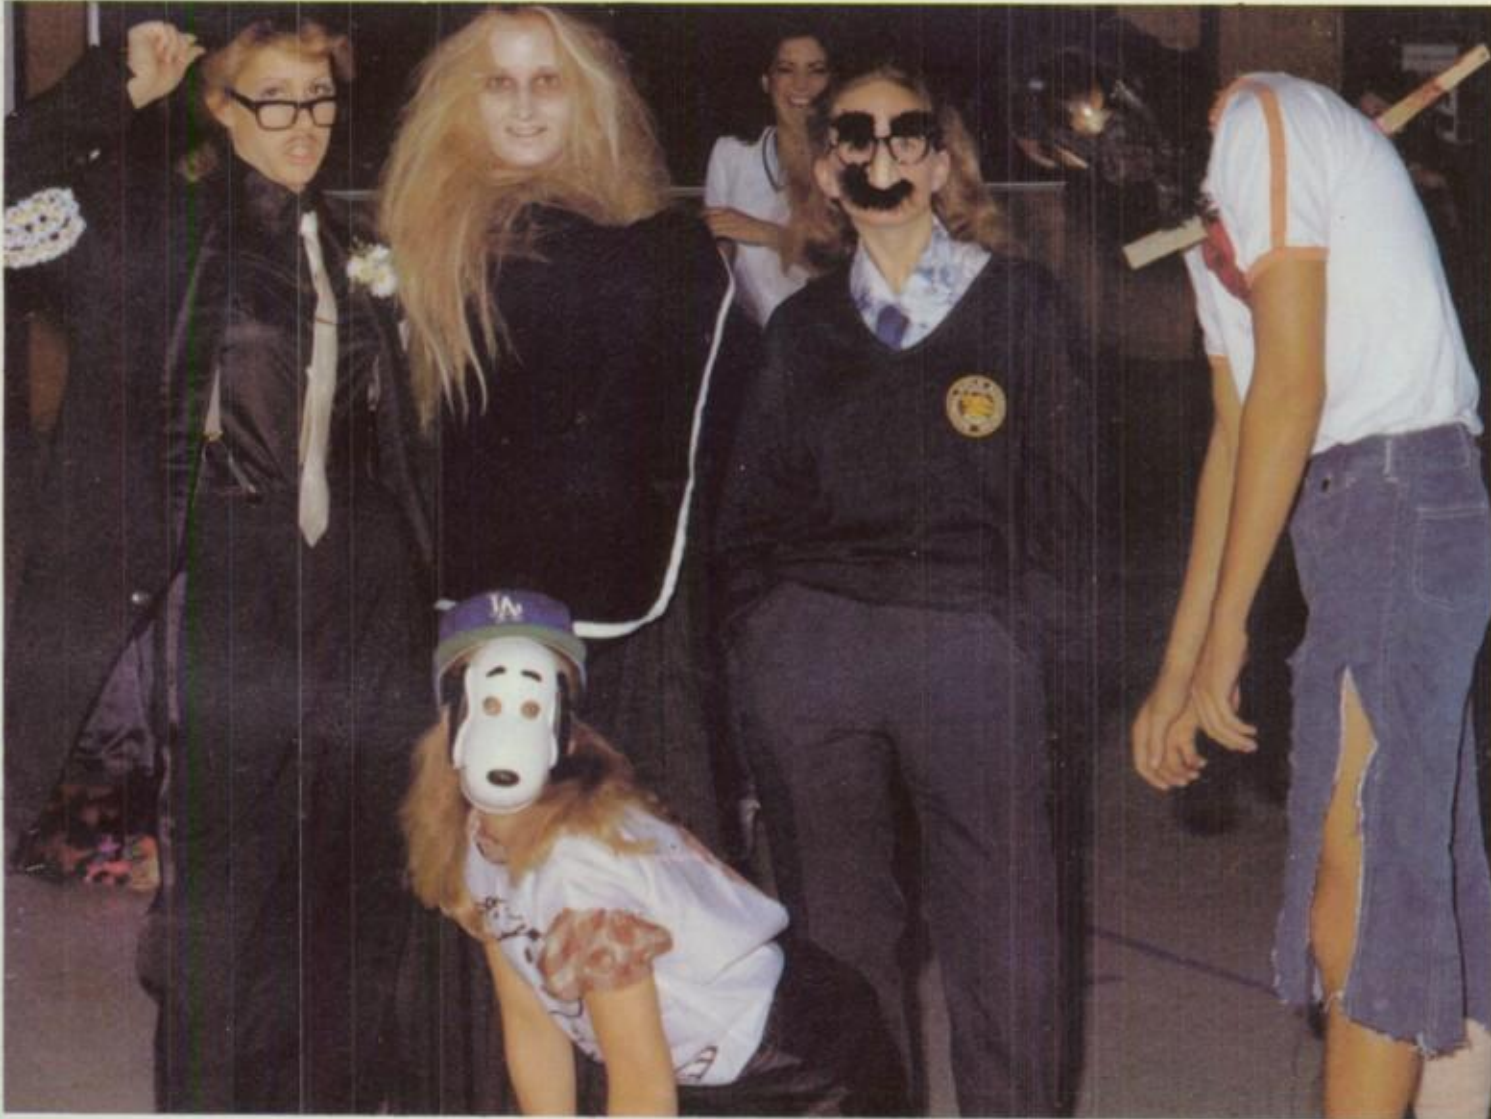

An enthusiastic supporter of dress-up day, "Moses" watches over activities in Clark's hallways.

Fists clenched, Tonette Spinuzzi and Stacy Rudin follow the action of the powder puff game.

Adding life to the game, letterman initiates take on the role of cheerleaders.

As assorted and creative characters, students participate on Costume Day.

Cheerleader Diane Whitt escorts Don Purdue and Tony Shaw through the customary tunnel.

Entertaining the crowd, Allison Kirkland and Stephanie Lawson sing their version of "The Times of Your Life."

Receiving the title of Mr. Football, Henry Thorns and Van Vereen accept the award from Val McClure.

Traditional assembly builds pre-game spirit

Building enthusiasm for the Gorman game, Carolyn Evans cheers at the assembly.

Carnations represent the traditional Black and Gold day.

Cheerleaders perform a comedy skit for the crowd's enjoyment.

Seeing Kathy and Sir Henry together, Jack flies into a fit of rage.

In a moment of affection, Sir Henry and Kathy talk of their life on the moor.

Grief-stricken, Mrs. Barrymore tells Sherlock Holmes of her brother's plight.

Sir Henry, perplexed by the curse, questions Holmes and Watson.

Thespians present thrilling production of Holmes Drama

The Clark Drama Department's first production of the year, "The Hound of the Baskervilles," was performed on November 1, 2, and 4, to enthusiastic audiences with a full house on opening night.

Set in an old victorian house, the Sherlock Holmes mystery involves the curse of a hound that has been troubling the occupants of Baskerville Hall for many years.

Upon the grisly death of Sir Charles Baskerville, Lady Agatha and Sir Henry, her nephew, call upon Sherlock Holmes to unravel the mystery.

The ensuing events of the play, directed by Ms. Carroll Statom and Lance Malone, created an atmosphere of suspense and intrigue, keeping the audience's attention.

Capturing Holmes' interest, Lady Agatha relays the grisly death of Sir Charles.

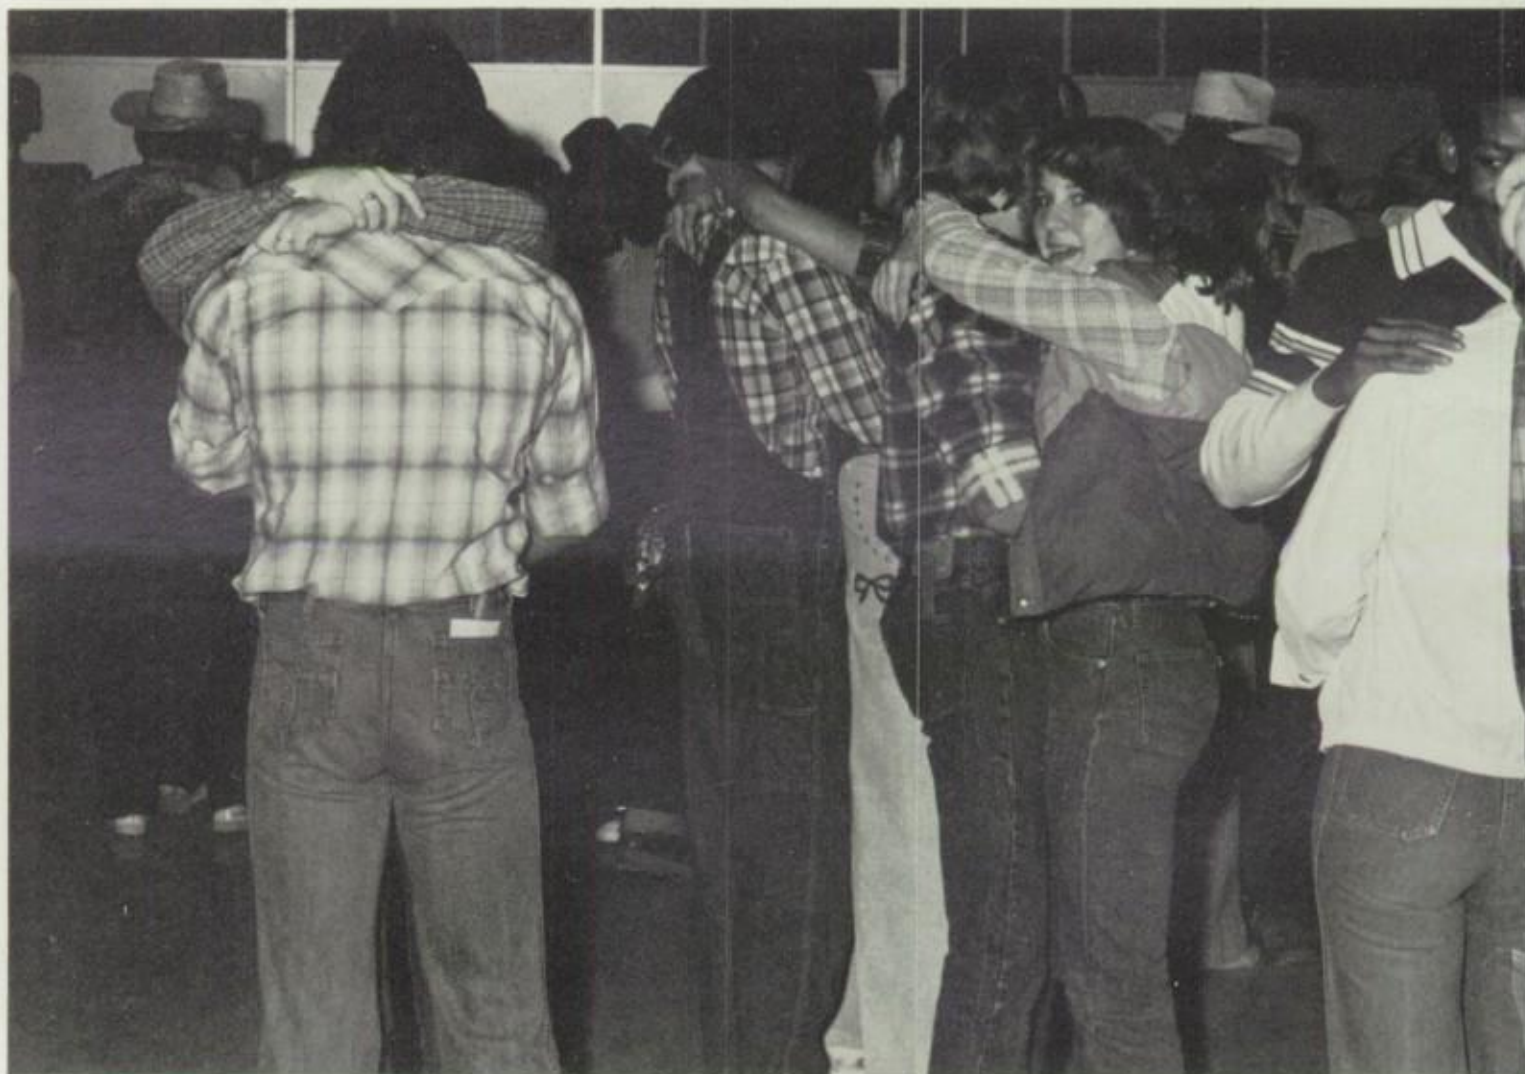

Frightened by rumors from the village, Perkins describes the hound to Dr. Watson.

Participants enjoy change of routine at Sadie Hawkins

Reminiscent of days in Al Capp's Dogpatch, the Sadie Hawkins dance provided a chance for the girls to ask their favorite boy for a date. Once in the cafeteria, couples could be married in a traditional country ceremony performed by Coach Doug Clarke as Marryin' Sam. Bales of hay along with saddles completed the hillbilly background for pictures. Scott Gentry, KENO radio personality, provided music for the evening.

Dressed in typical Dogpatch style, Sunny Oftedal portrays the character of Daisy Mae.

Taking advantage of the occasion, the girls ask their favorite guy to dance.

Sharing a good laugh, Marcus Christensen and his date enjoy each other's company.

The relaxed mood of the dance allows Tim Manus and Brooke Oftedal to make themselves comfortable.

Caught up in the atmosphere of Sadie Hawkins, Monica Nolan and Gino Wideen are married by Coach Doug Clarke.

With his nose to the ground, an initiate attempts to push a penny across the cafeteria floor.

Displaying his obvious assets, Jim Mikulich shows the light-hearted side of Lettermen's Initiation.

Initiates Elizabeth Makowski and James McLin cater to the wishes of Dennis Nolan.

Preparing for the day's activities, Pat Ireland paints up initiate Carnell Smith.

Lined up for the penny-pushing race, initiates show their determination to be a part of the Lettermen's Club.

Lettermen Vance Sutton conducts Demetrius Lynch and Jim Mikulich in a hallway concerto.

Initiates entertain teachers, students with funny antics

Traditions continued as the yearly lettermen's initiation took place in the halls of CHS. A major change in the activities was the addition of girls who were allowed to be initiated into the club.

Dressed in strange and unusual costumes ranging from babies diapers to sophisticated ladies wear, the initiates sang in garbage cans, pushed pennies down the hall with their noses, and performed other various acts of humiliation. Veteran lettermen ordered the initiates to push them to class in chairs and lounges, and just generally wait upon them.

Portraying "killer children," thespians perform in the annual Christmas scenes.

Holiday festivities spread excitement among all students

Bringing in the Christmas season, students participated in the various yuletide activities that were made available to them.

Creatively decorated Christmas trees adorned the main hallway throughout the week. The Senior Class captured a trophy for the best overall tree in the annual Christmas Tree Lane competition.

Elf Day and Red/Green Day were just a couple of the dress-up days during the week. During lunchtime various contests took place as contestants drank cider, ate jumbo cookies, and licked candy canes. The thespians provided enjoyment for all in the Christmas scenes.

The Christmas assembly on Friday presented a wide range of entertainment, including music and skits. Another attraction was the addition of visitors from Child Haven as guests of the Senior Class. They brought love and joy to all those involved with them.

Caught up in the holiday mood, the choir entertains the student body at the assembly.

Assembly emcee Van Vereen announces the winners of Christmas Tree Lane.

Participating in the Christmas scenes, thespian Robin Tornberg writes a letter to Santa Claus.

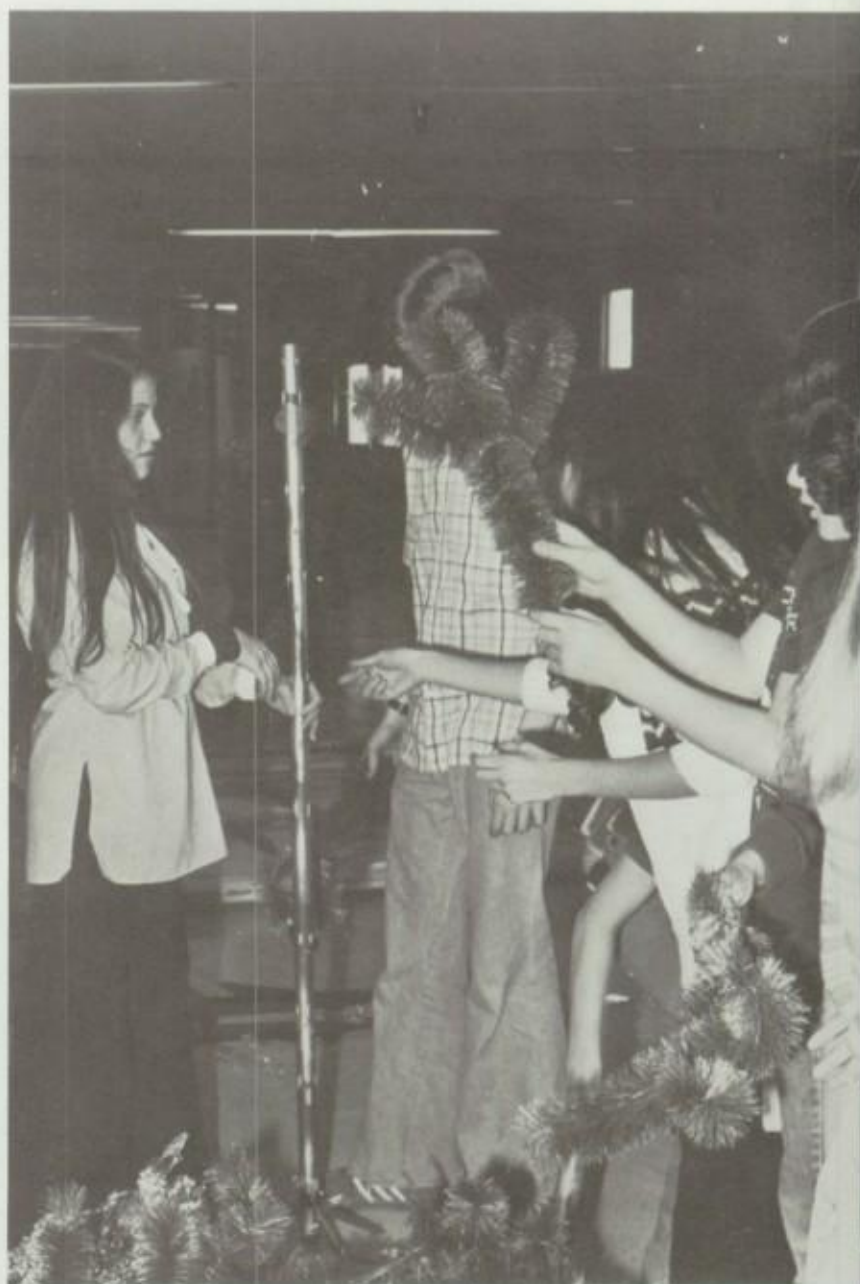

Mouths open wide, arms outstretched, voices vibrating the gym, students perform Clark High's version of "Twelve Days of Christmas."

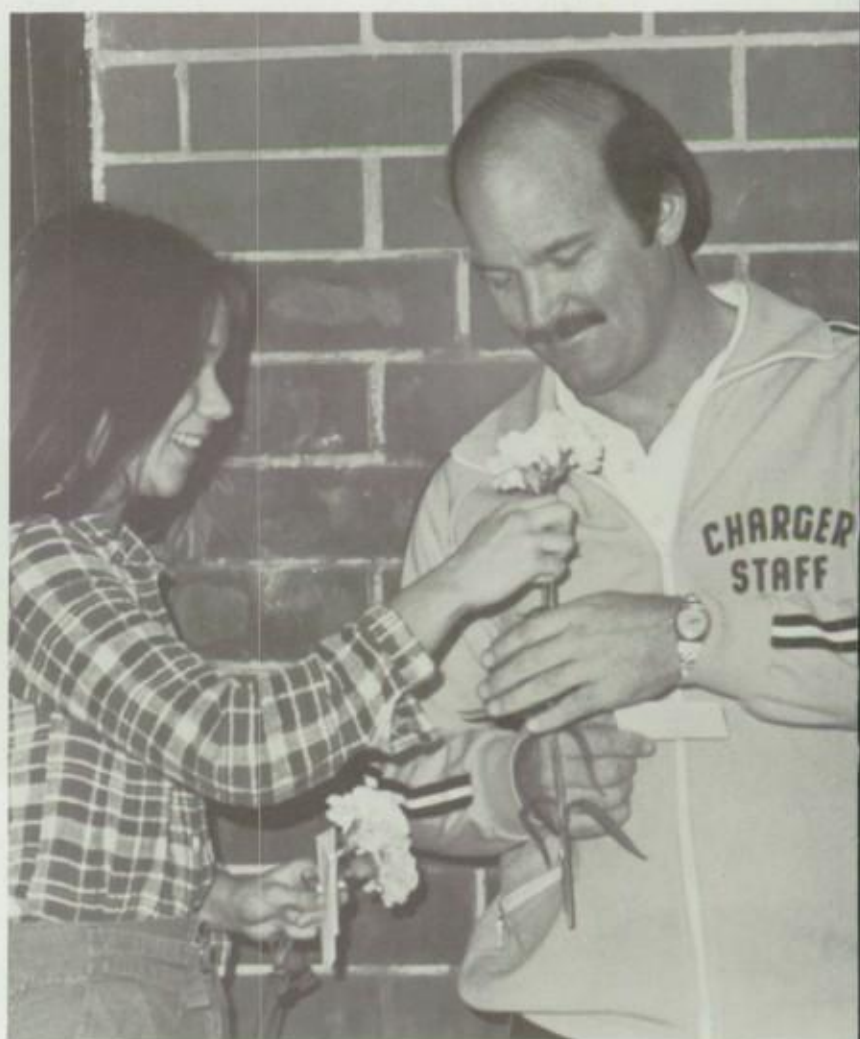

Sparkling decorations highlight trees, school

Varsity cheerleaders make ornaments for their tree, which later took the trophy for best decorations.

Preparing their entry for Christmas Tree Lane, drama students all pitch in.

Presenting carnations to Coach John Apperson, Carol Warren helps raise money for the Drama Club.

Decorating the senior tree, Kathy Speck contributes toward a prize-winning entry.

The luncheon sponsored by the French Club adds variety to the Christmas season.

Depicting the hit movie Animal House, the Honor Society tree contributes humor.

Children, contests
help make season cheerful and bright

Santa makes this child's visit to Clark a memorable one.

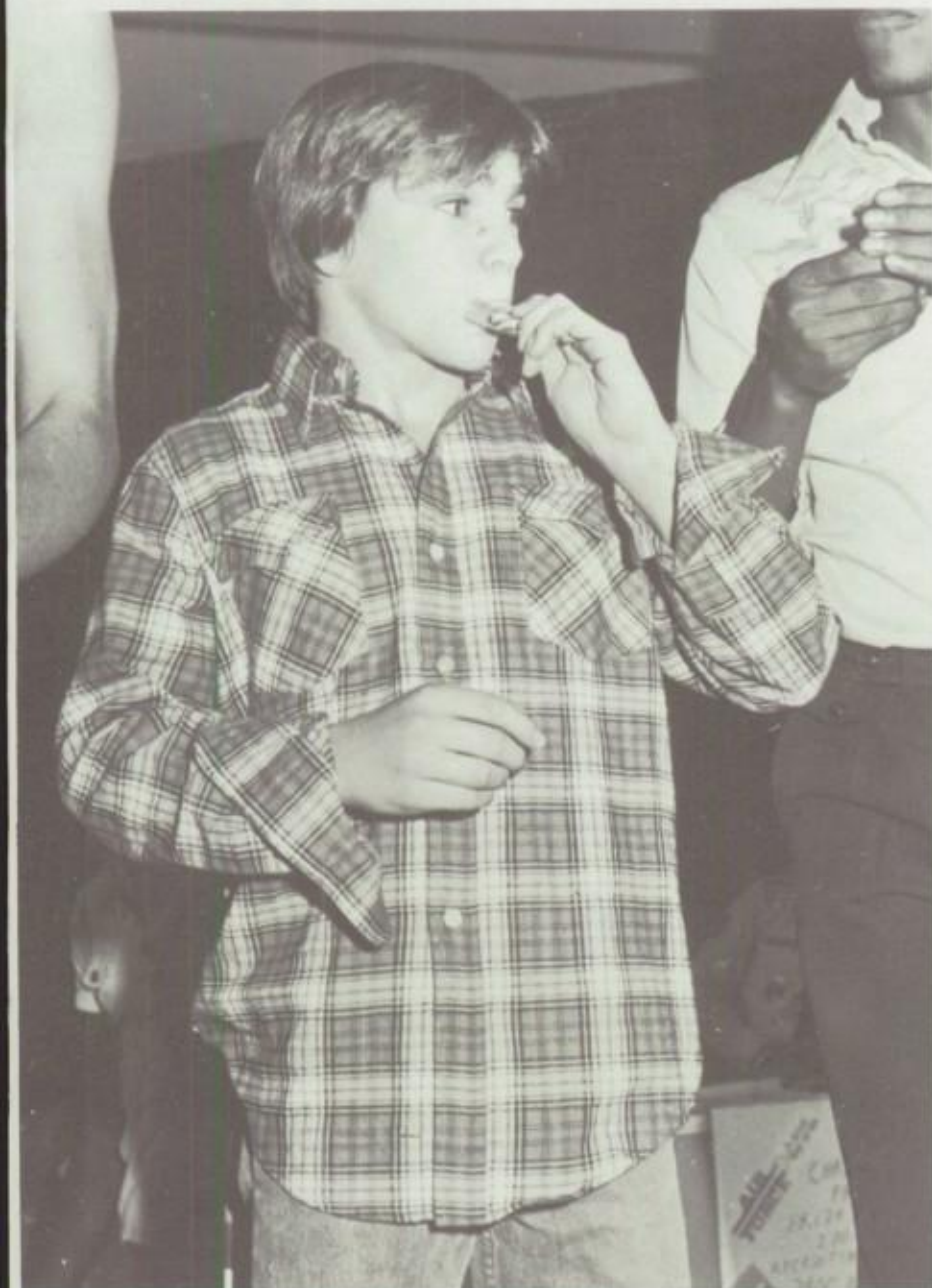

Sharing the joy of Christmas, Daren Bryant helps entertain visitors from Child Haven.

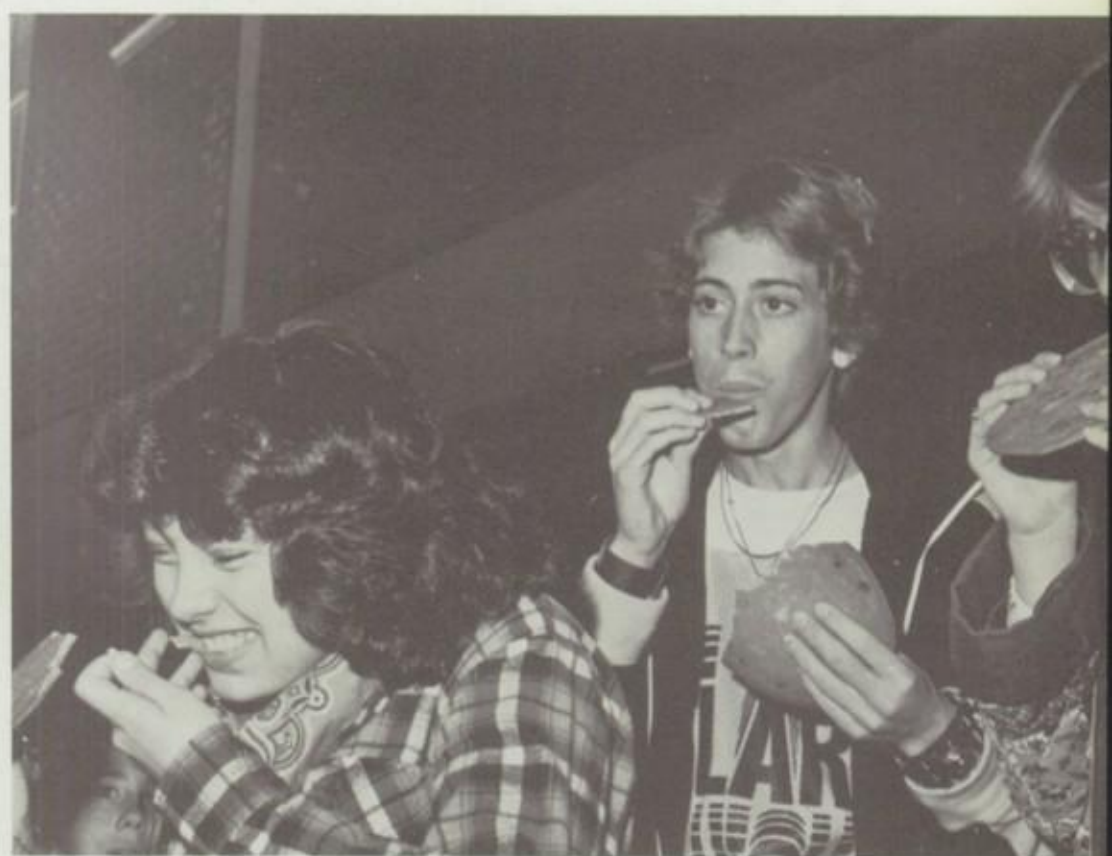

Senior Kim Line and her young guest find that toys appeal to all ages.

Seniors as well as the children show enthusiasm at the Christmas assembly.

Competing in one of the lunchtime contests, Gregg Hanson devours his candy cane.

Mouths stuffed with cookies, CHS students participate in Christmas activities.

As family members make fun of her tiny brassiere, Abbey looks away in disgust.

Teenage problems become humorous in CHS production

In January, the Clark High Drama Department presented the second production of the year. The comedy, The Impossible Years by Bob Fisher and Arthur Marx, deals with the problems between parents and their teenage children. The play takes place in the home of Dr. Jack Kingsley, who is writing a book on coping with the "typical adolescent teenager." The cast includes colorful characters such as a hippie, a dumb "jock," and a typical pesky little sister.

With full houses on opening and closing nights, the production delighted the audiences. The play was directed by Ms. Carol Statom with assistance from Shelly Panico and Miriam Partridge.

Miss Hammer, Linda's P.E. teacher, discusses Linda's problem at school with Dr. Kingsley.

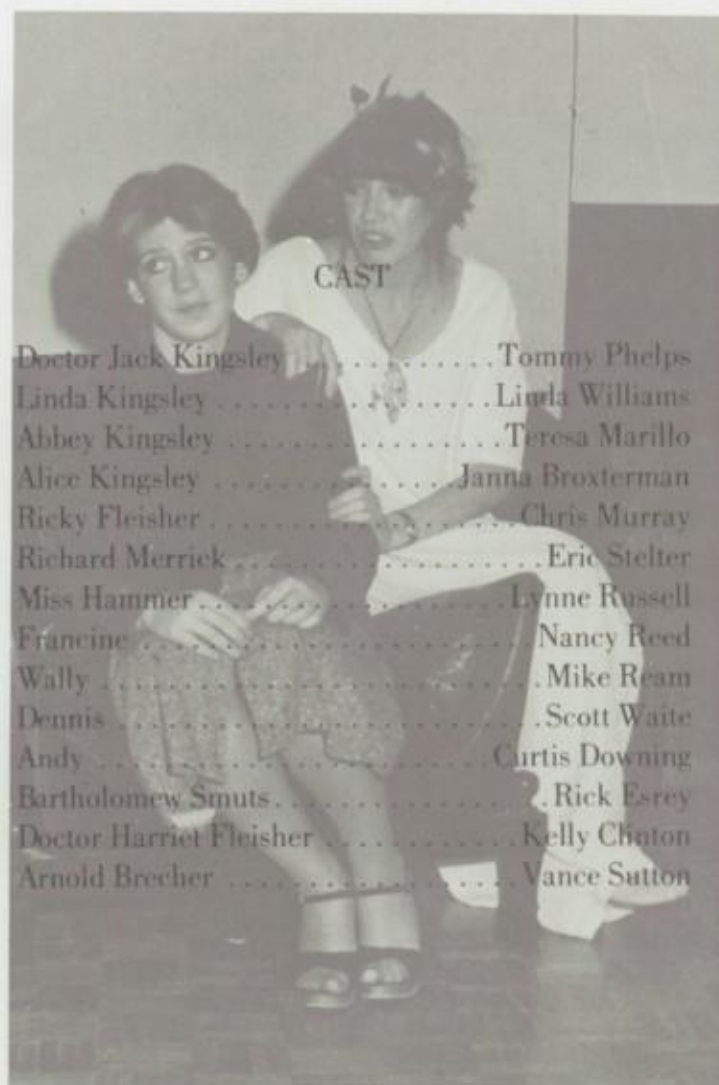

Concerned over her behavior, Dr. Kingsley gives Linda fatherly advice.

Believing that Bartholomew Smuts has been Linda's lover, Dr. Kingsley attempts to pry the truth out of him.

Interested in her welfare, Richard Merrick explains to Linda that she must start acting more mature.

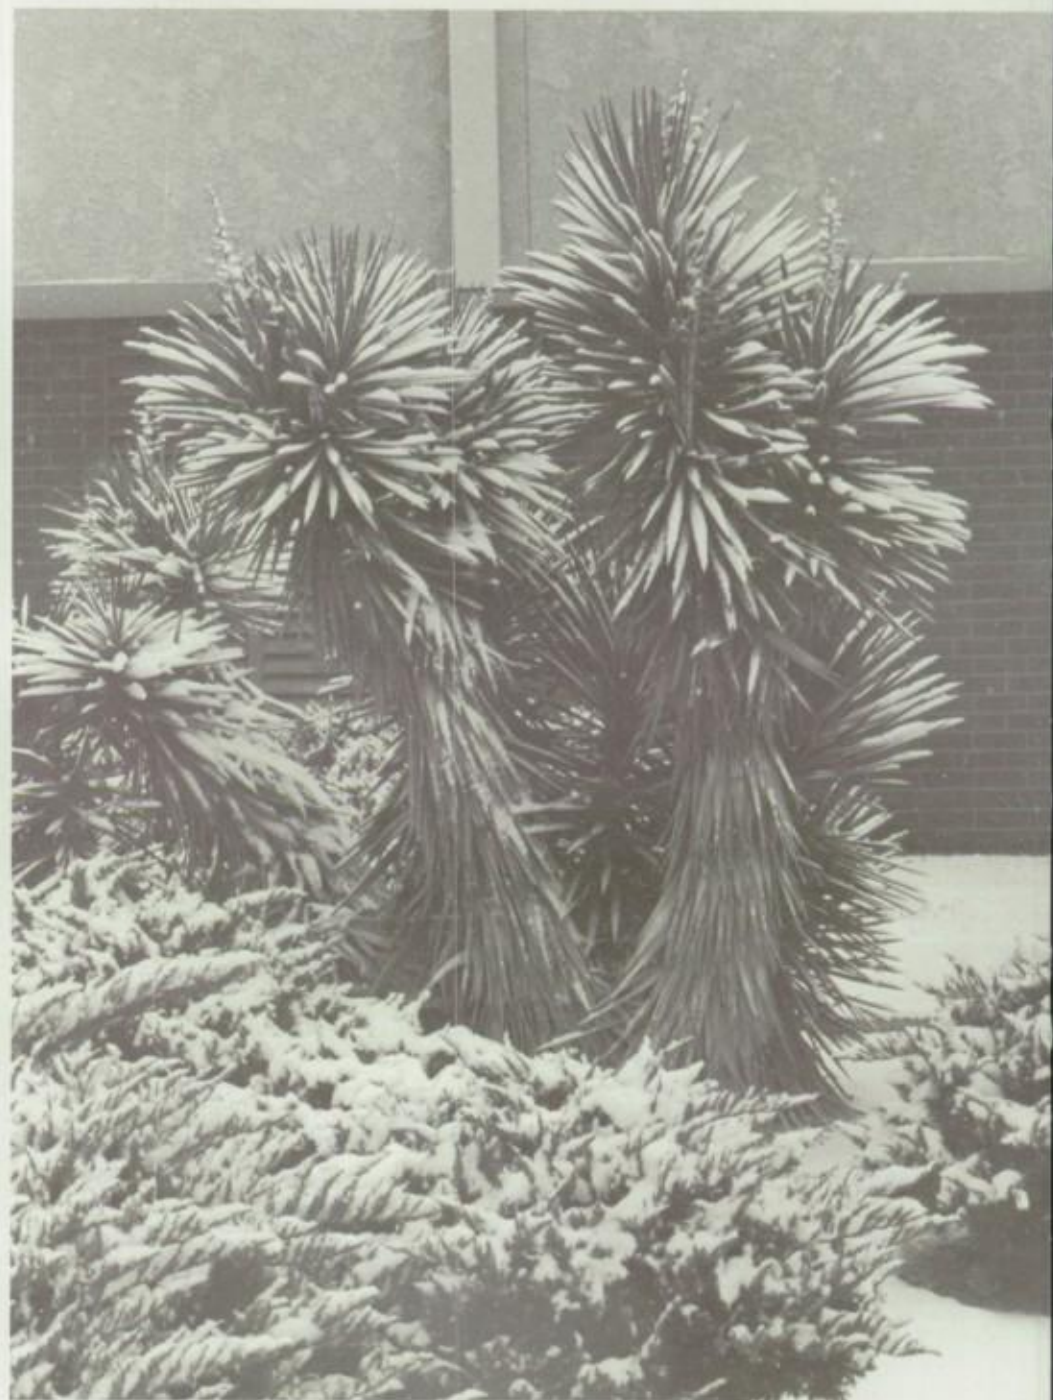

Snowfall generates pleasure, fascination with frosty scenes

Snowballs flying, toes freezing, icicles forming delicate patterns, flurries of snow brought the winter season to an end.

On January 28, 1979, Las Vegas experienced the joys of snow for the first time in five years. Following the valley's second biggest snowstorm in recorded history, Clark County schools were closed for the first time ever on February 1.

Taking advantage of the special occasion, Clark High students engaged in snowball fights, snowman construction, and enjoyment of the picturesque scenes that the snowfall created.

While motorists were annoyed by the inconvenience, children and the young-at-heart delighted in the snow-filled playland.

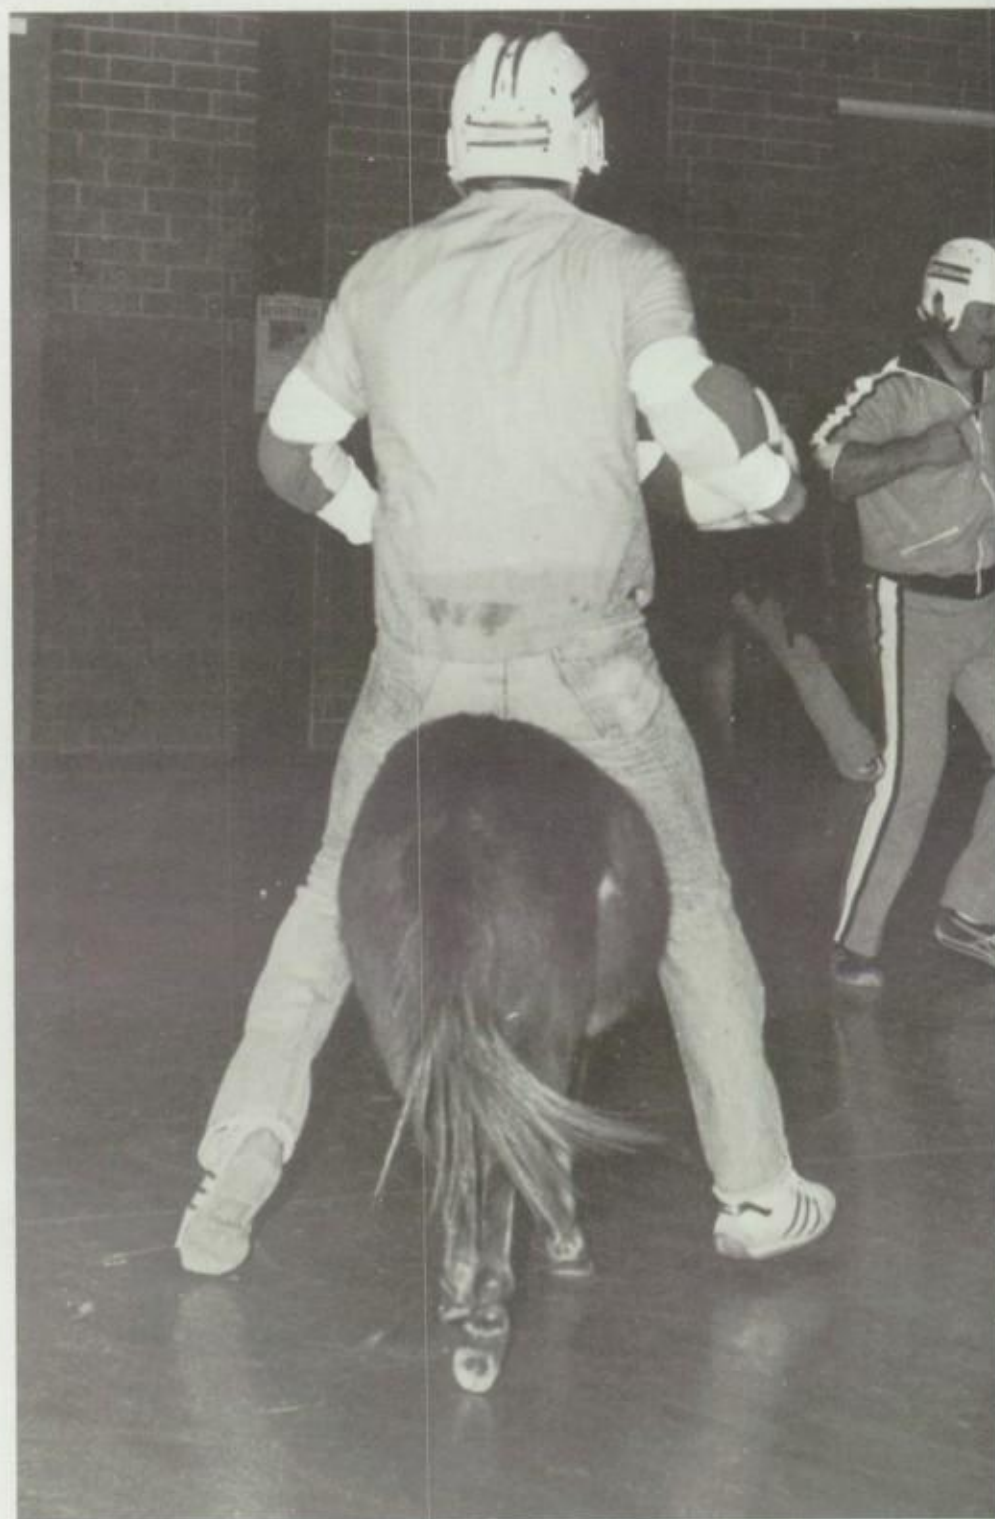

Aiming for the basket, Glenn Strueber tries for two points while other players wait for the rebound.

Donkeys supply fun for all competitors in humorous game

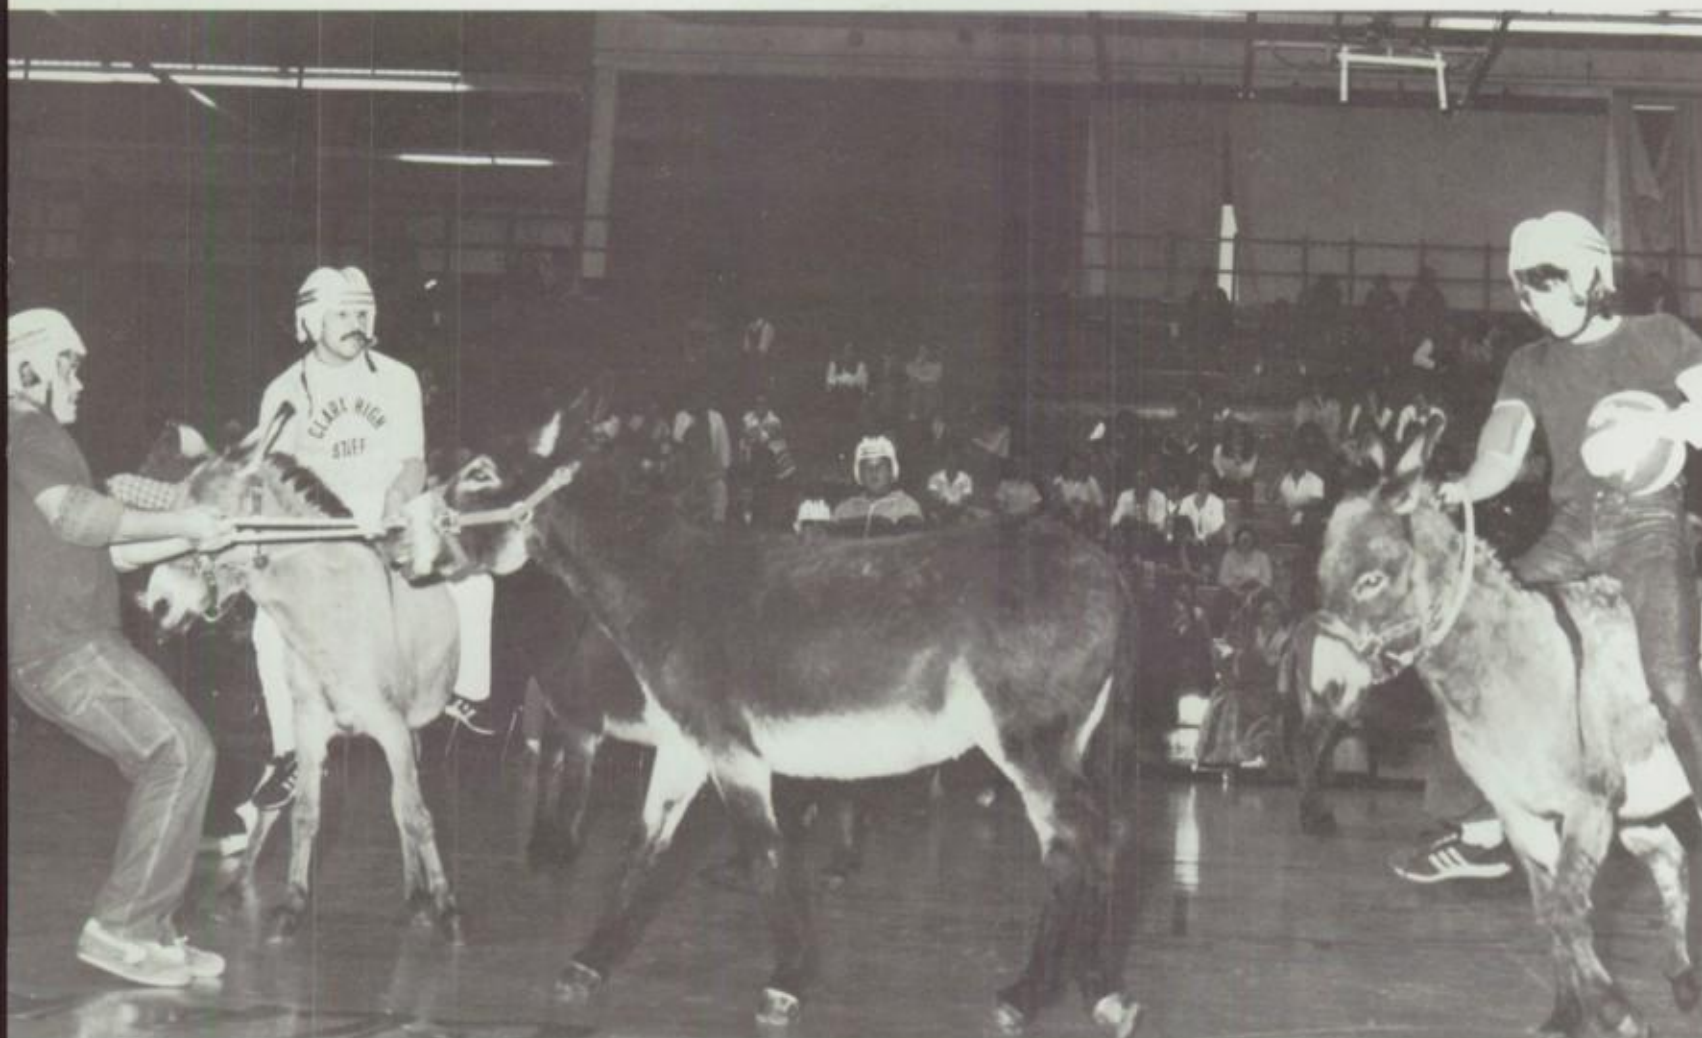

Sponsored by the Varsity Club, the yearly donkey basketball game took place in Clark's gym on February 9.

In the first game, the lettermen and coaches competed with the coaches coming out on top. Then the teachers and Executive Council played in the second game with the teachers winning by one point. The final play-off between the teachers and coaches ended up in a tie; but in sudden death overtime, the coaches achieved a victory.

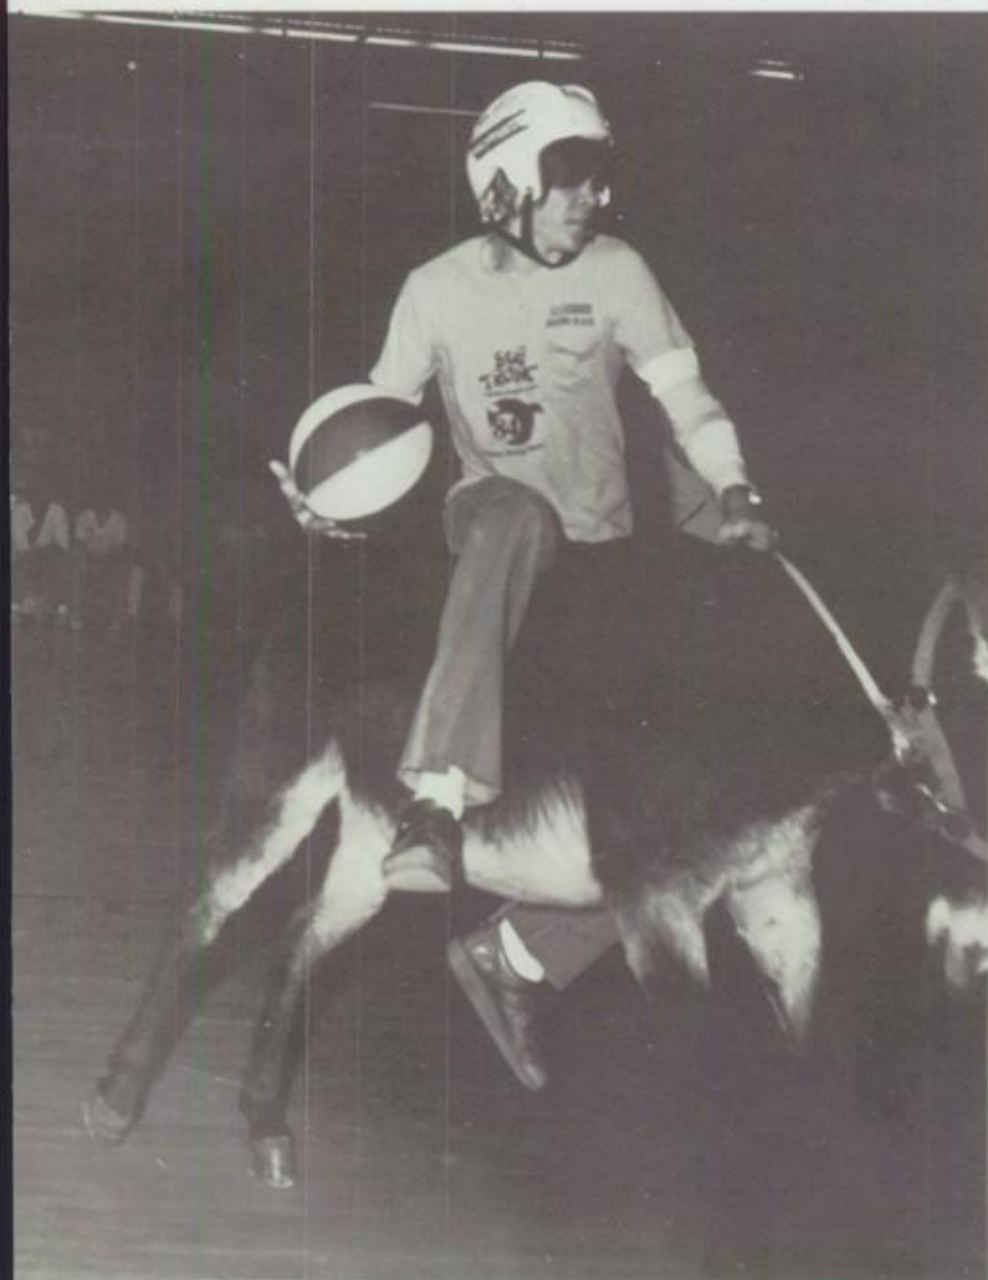

Both participants and spectators enjoyed the rough-and-tumble competition. Although each team was set on victory, the donkeys had different ideas. The stubborn donkeys challenged the players to keep their seats and ride until a basket was made. These antics brought laughter from the crowd and sore muscles to many players.

Feet dragging, Coach Bowler weighs down a donkey which is one size too small.

With a mind of its own, this donkey refuses to cooperate with player Mark Woodman.

Scott Burley, trying to maintain his balance, clutches his mount.

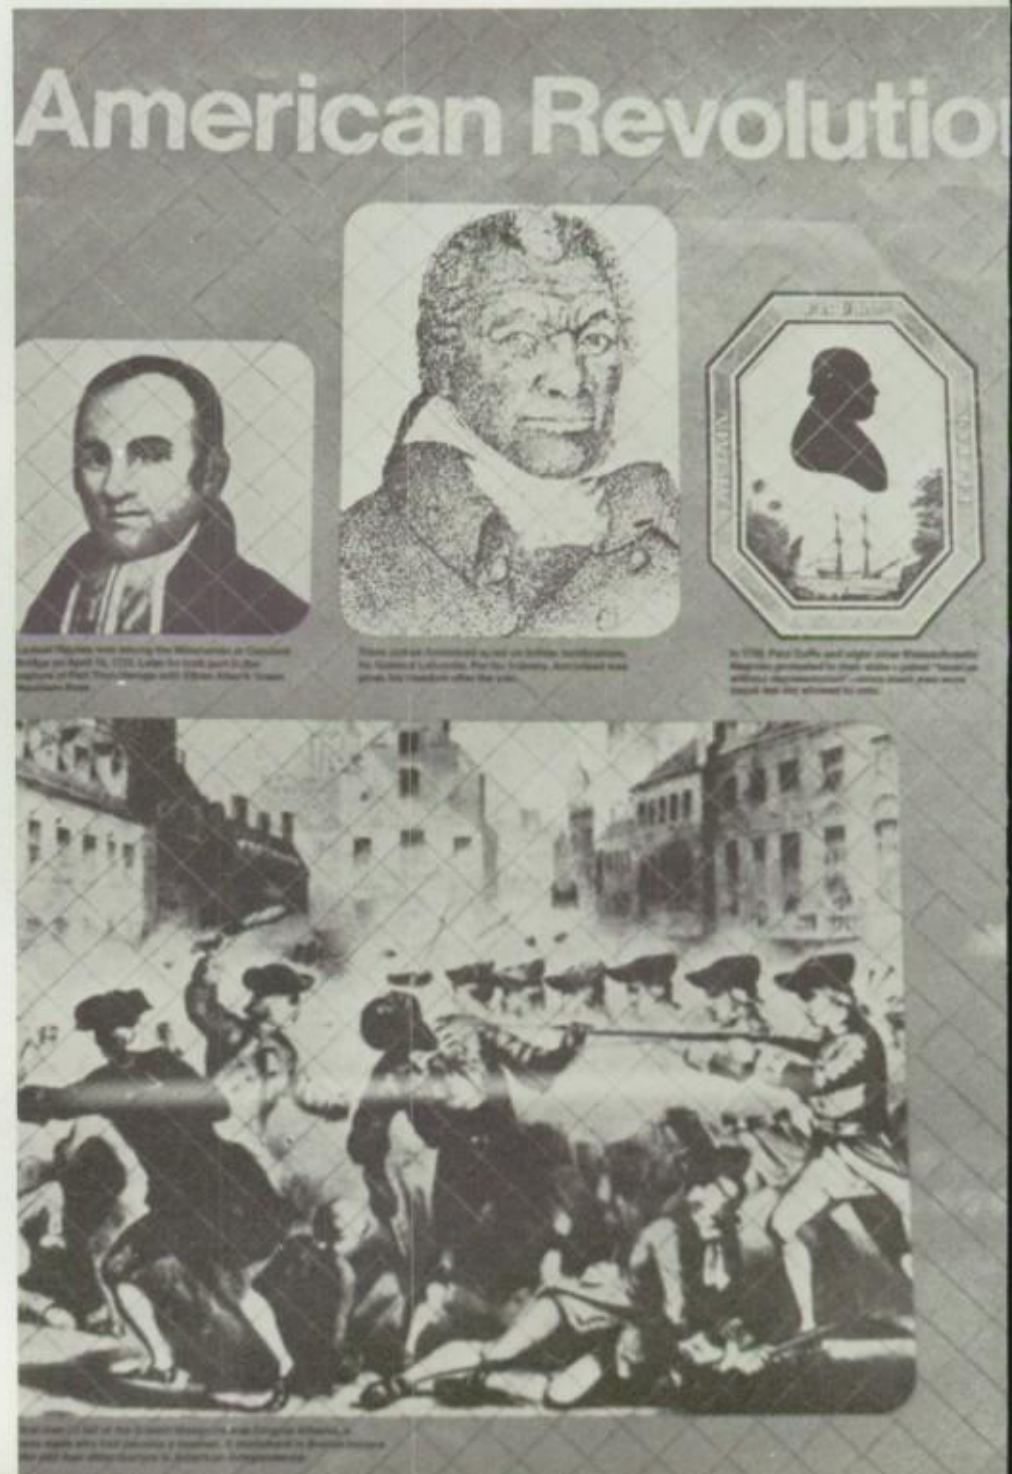

The picture of sorrow and woe, this donkey silently contemplates his misfortune.

Showing their gratitude for help from faculty members, Lisa Daniels, Jackie Jones and Carolyn Carr make a special presentation at the assembly.

Allison Kirkland and Stephanie Lawson entertain the crowd with their songs.

Acting as emcee, Tonya Williams, dressed appropriately for the occasion, narrates the contribution of Black Americans.

Students remember their rich heritage during history week

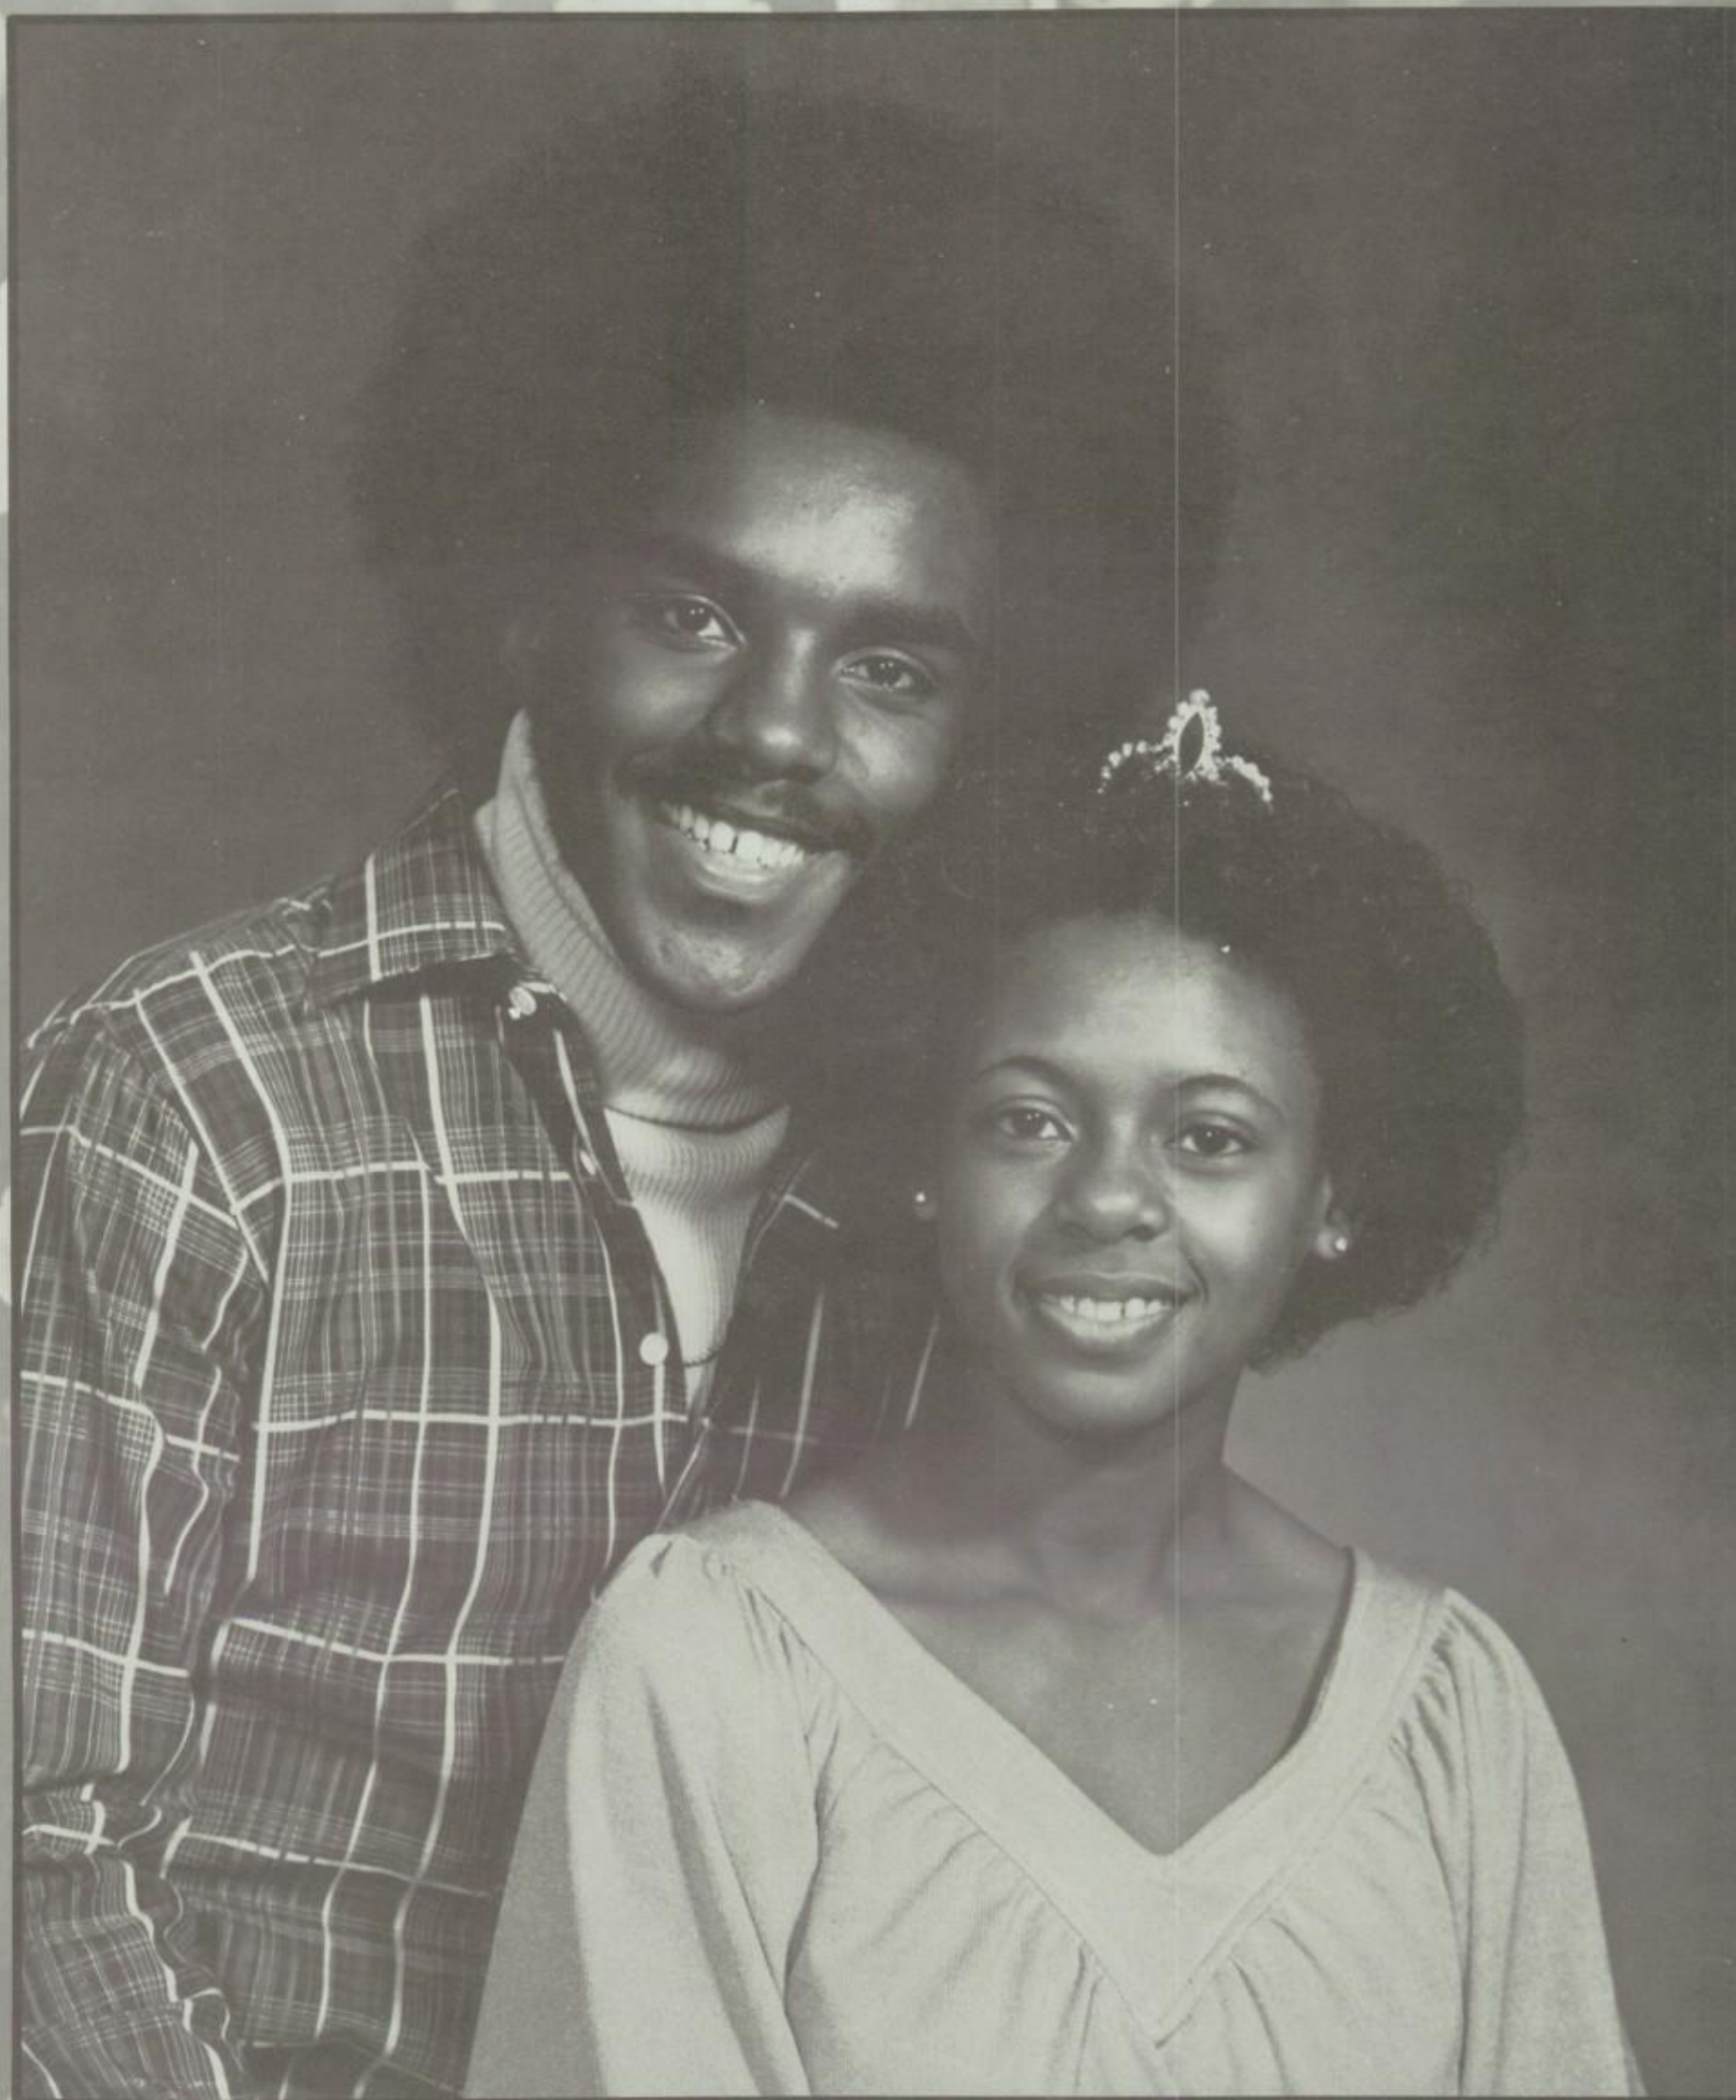

Demonstrating pride and involvement, students participated in the numerous activities during Black History Week. February 12-16 was the week chosen to celebrate and honor the contributions of Black Americans. Heritage and Career Day were just a couple of the events planned on the week's busy schedule. On Wednesday night, members of SOUL Club and Human Relations Club presented a fashion show and dinner, which was attended by over 400 guests. Displays in the hallways featured historical contributions of famous Black Americans.

The week ended with an assembly on Friday dedicated to a special Black woman, Harriet Tubman. Entertained with songs and dances, the audience enjoyed the well-organized event. Seniors Van Vereen and Sheila Shelton were honored as Afro King and Queen 1979.

With rhythm and enthusiasm, the Spirit Girls "get down" with the tunes.

displaying his affection, Jeff Simmons tries to bite Tera Ellenburg's hand.

Spanish Club hosts third Girls' Reverse

Completing the season of winter activities, the Spanish Club sponsored the third annual Girls' Reverse dance. The girls enjoyed the privilege of asking their favorite boys, who in turn, relished the fact of not having to pay. Several students from other area high schools came as guests.

This year's dance was held at the Elks Lodge. Music was provided by Dynamic Sound Company with special entertainment from Joe Condon, who performed a novelty act. Crowding the dance floor, Clark High students welcomed the opportunity to attend G.R.

Exchange students, Forum finalists have winning status

Clark hosted four foreign exchange students during the 1978-79 school year. Two visitors came with the Youth for Understanding program: Margareta Lejdstrom from Stockholm, Sweden, and Merja Karjalainen from Kajaani, Finland. Guests with the World Experience program were Rebecca Sarabia from Ensenada, Baja, Mexico, and Sun Tae Park from Asuncion, Paraguay.

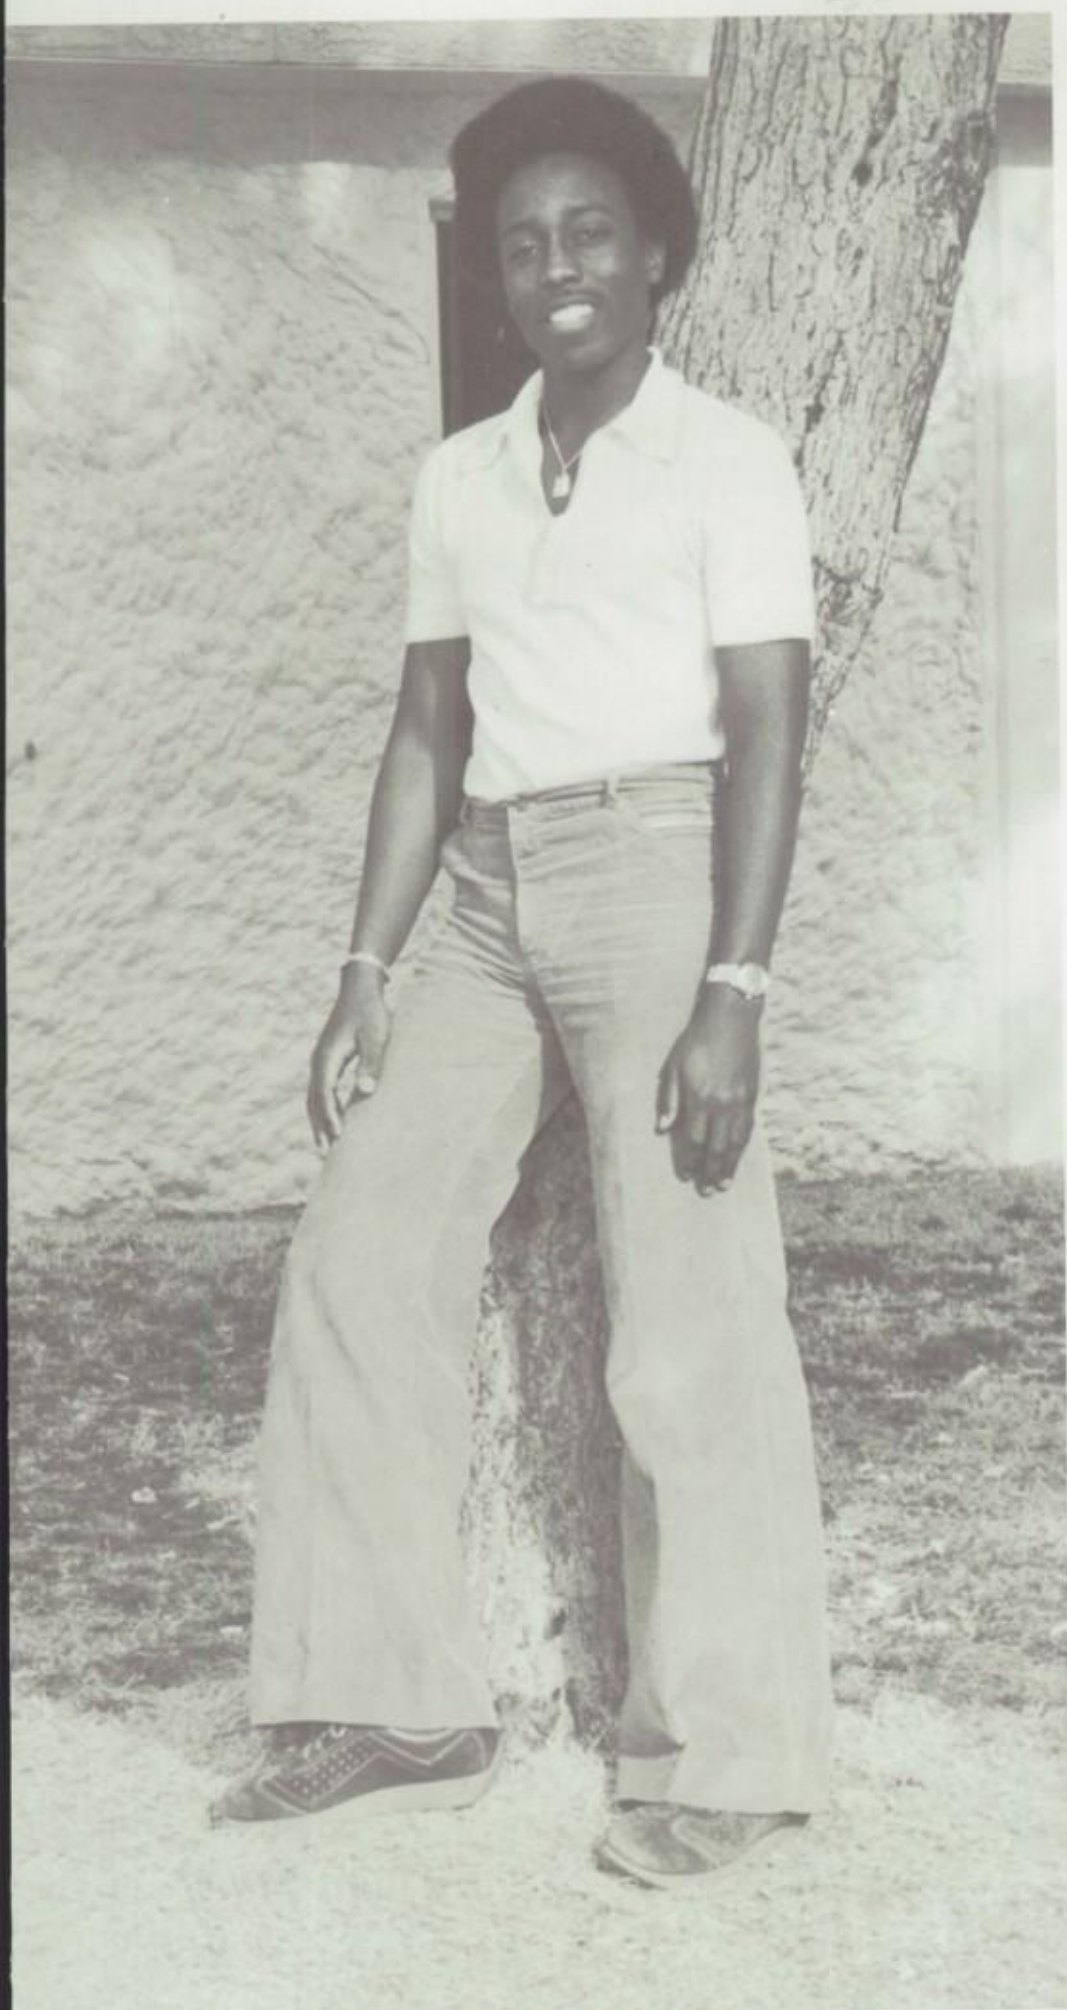

Representing Clark as finalists of the Sun Youth Forum were Gary Robinson, Jeff Kemple, and Michele Ashworth. Along with students from every school in Clark County, they participated in an all-day session of discussions sponsored by the Las Vegas SUN. Each of the seven discussion groups selected two participants to summarize their views, and Clark's finalists all appeared on local television. Gary summarized the topic "Inside U.S.A.," Jeff spoke for "School Daze," and Michele presented her group's views on "Cops, Crime, and Courts."

Foreign Exchange Students: Merja Karjalainen, Sun Tae Park, Margareta Lejdstrom, Rebecca Sarabia.

Gary Robinson

Gary Robinson wins scholarship awards, variety of honors

Gary Robinson, a Clark High School senior, has a most impressive record of accomplishments to his name.

His list of credits includes being a National Merit Scholarship finalist and being selected as a state finalist in the Century III Leaders Program, an award which includes a $1,500 scholarship. This year Gary was vice president of Student Senate, a member of the Executive Council and treasurer of National Honor Society. He was also drum major and vice president of the Clark band.

Gary attended Nevada Boys' State in the summer of 1978 and from there was elected one of the two delegates to Boys' Nation.

Gary visits Senator Paul Laxalt during his stay at Boys' Nation in Washington, D.C.

Government class wins food drive title

This year in the first annual district-wide food drive sponsored by the Human Relations Clubs, Mr. Jiles Reiley's first period government class was the victor at Clark.

Of the 1,200 cans collected, this class contributed 793 cans. Mrs. Priscilla Adams's class was the second place winner with 115 cans. Popular foods seemed to be string beans, candied yams, and various canned soups. The food went to help 21 needy families have a better Thanksgiving. As the prize for winning the contest the class chose to have their picture in the yearbook.

Creativity blossoms with arts magazine

This year the creative arts magazine took a new name, Reflections. The main contributors to the magazine were Mrs. Loretta Adams's first and second hour creative writing classes. Items which were considered for publication included short stories, poetry and pictures. Ms. Adams, the coordinator of the magazine, with the help of her creative writing classes, edited the pieces. Those contributions selected were the work of students with literary talent throughout the school.

State delegates gain knowledge, insight of political behavior

After a rigorous investigation by Clark's scholarship committee, nine men and three women were chosen to represent Clark in Boys' and Girls' State. Sponsored by the American Legion and the American Legion Auxiliary, they spent a week in June in northern Nevada, the boys at Fallon Nevada Air Station, the girls at Clear Creek Youth Camp.

The major concern of these programs was to teach young citizens the functions of democracy through mock government. Though the boys' program was aimed at a more military outlook than the girls', both were centralized at teaching one thing: to educate youth in duties, privileges, rights, and responsibilities of American citizenship.

Girls' State Delegates: Daren Bryant, Donielle Freedman, Kim Line.

JV Varsity Quiz

Varsity quiz teams feature fast recall

The two Varsity Quiz teams devoted their efforts to quick recall of factual information. Practicing with the aid of an electronic buzzer system, the teams prepared for competition with sessions on Tuesdays and Thursdays. The groups were coached by the husband-and-wife team of Mr. and Mrs. John Harrington.

Mr. Harrington advised the senior group, which had five players returning from last year. The team competed with other Clark County schools in a season which began in September and continued through March. Some fine matches were televised on KORK-TV. Mrs. Harrington coached the younger JV group.

Honor Society aids community services

National Honor Society is a group of students who maintain a 3.5 grade point average throughout their high school career. Besides raising money for various charities, they also helped out with many community services, including a project with senior citizens.

Members assisted with school projects such as registration and, with the Counseling Department, sponsored the Christmas Coffee in which seniors from previous years came back and answered questions about college life.

Their annual blood drive in the spring provided all Clark students with an opportunity to serve the community.

Competition in chess brings forth interest

The Chess Club was a very small but competitive club. They competed against other schools to prove themselves as capable chess players. Coach Louis Wong recognized that the elimination of activity period cut his club membership severely.

The reduction of members did not, however, diminish the group's enthusiasm for the ancient intellectual challenge of chess.

CHARGER Editors Susan Pomo and Carolyn Gerst; CAVALCADE Editors Tina Marie Stammetti and Michele Dupont.

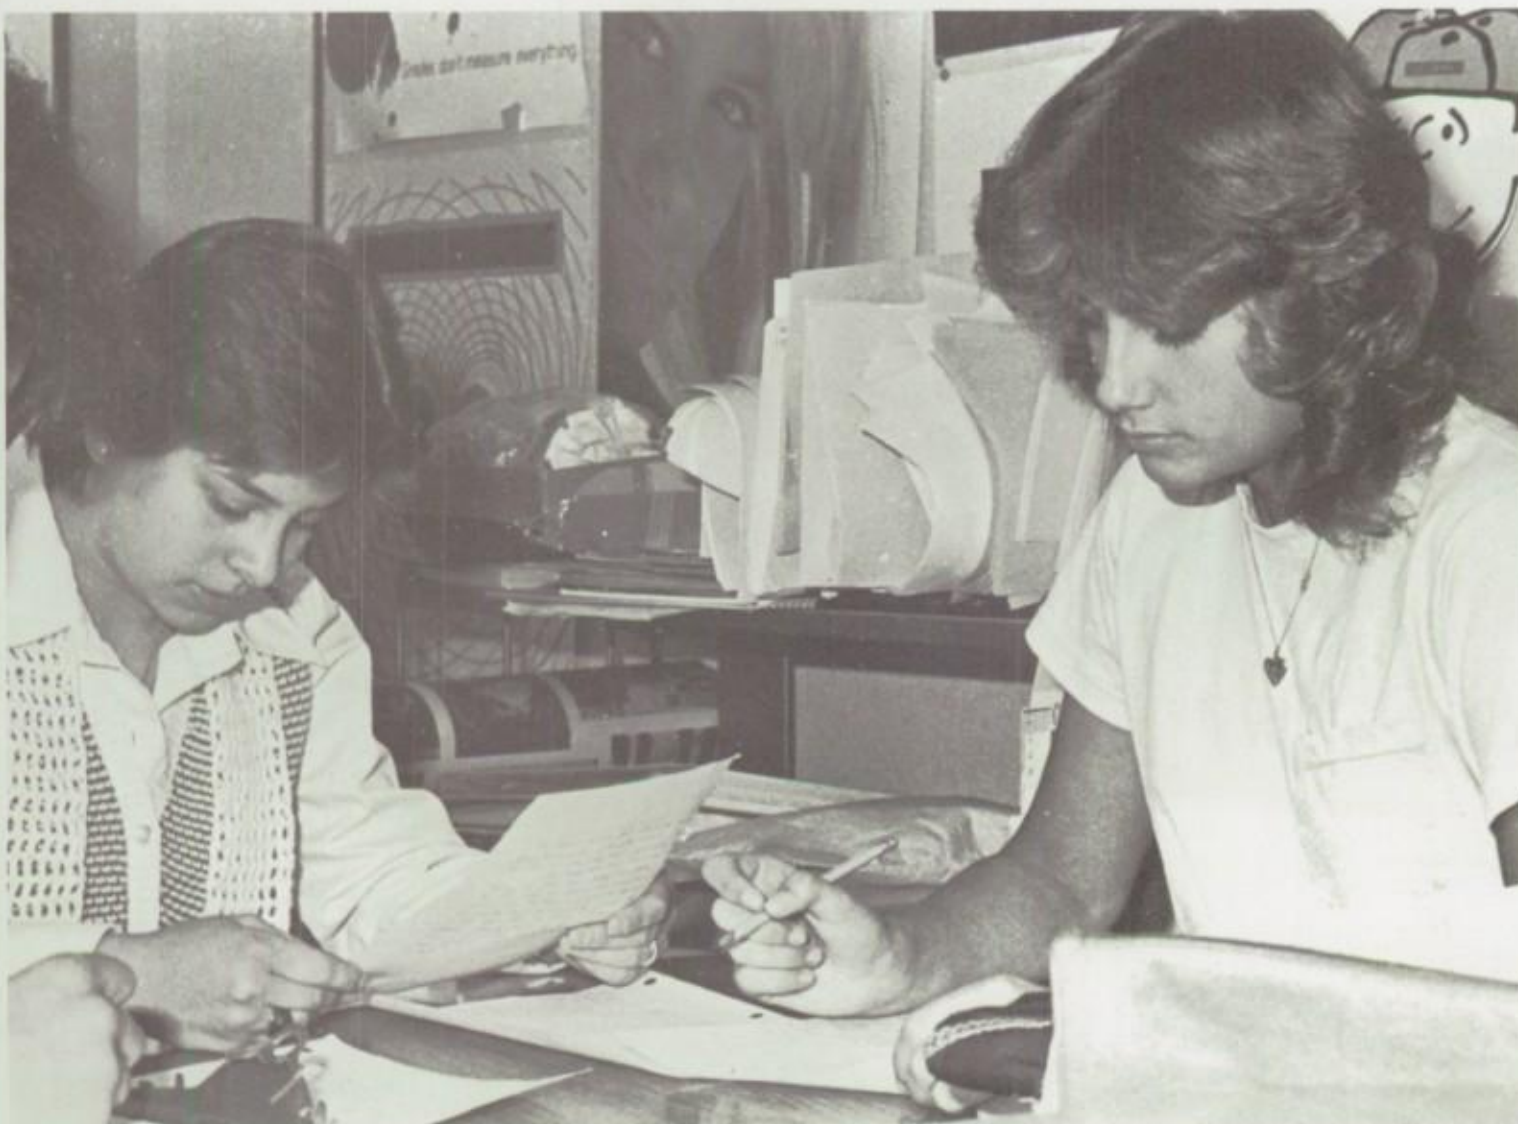

Cavalcade co-editors Tina and Michele make final selections of yearbook candid.

Publications editors provide leadership for student staffs

Bringing together varied experiences and skills, four students assumed the top editorial positions in Clark publications. They were responsible for all major decisions regarding the content and graphic design of the newspaper and yearbook.

Susan Pomo and Carolyn Gerst headed up a young CHARGER staff, supplying day-to-day supervision for all ten issues of the paper. Susan attended a journalism workshop in Santa Barbara before the school year began, and both girls engaged in summer planning sessions. Their editorial topics ranged from the need for increased graduation requirements to an examination of athletic recruiting in high schools.

As CAVALCADE co-editors, Michele Dupont and Tina Stammetti used their past experiences on the yearbook staff as a base for making the decisions required in producing a 368-page book. They began considering theme ideas more than a year before the book's publication.

Charge co-editors Susan and Carolyn work on rough drafts of newspaper stories.

Novice journalists assemble yearbook

CAVALCADE staff members worked diligently to prepare the three major deadlines required by the publisher. Their hours were spent designing layouts, selecting pictures, interviewing, and writing copy. In addition, they were responsible for the sale of advertising to help meet the cost of publication, swollen by inflation.

The staff photographers, who contributed hours of their time recording games and activities on film, also spent a large amount of time in the darkroom producing all of the black-and-white prints in the book.

The 1979 CAVALCADE, the largest yearbook in the school's history, becomes a record of one slice of time shared by Clark's 2,800 students. For the 30 staffers, it is a tangible example of their journalistic effort.

CHARGER staff records school year with tabloid format

This year's CHARGER staff, under the supervision of Mrs. Judi Hale, delivered a variety of social and school-oriented activities through ten issues of the CHARGER newspaper. The staff also enjoyed working with a student teacher, Steve Clark from UNLV, during the first semester. With co-editors Susan Pomo and Carolyn Gerst the staff completed each four- or eight-page issue and the senior edition without failing to meet their deadlines. The staff also competed in the Review Journal journalism contest with other high schools of the Las Vegas area.

Lettermen provide amusement, laughs for CHS hallways

A change in tradition came about this year when the previously all-male Varsity Club had females eager to join. The Varsity Club still followed the traditional initiation of new members, in which the girls also participated.

The Varsity Club also sponsored the lettermen's jail in which students paid a fee to have "warrants" issued to "arrest" other students. Another popular project was powder puff football during Homecoming week.

Hi! Well
this year was a bummer. You were not as wild as last year which was a bummer also. Well I hope in 10th we'll have all our classes, so we can be wild like in 5th we'll love a wild summer.

Pep Club members encourage athletes

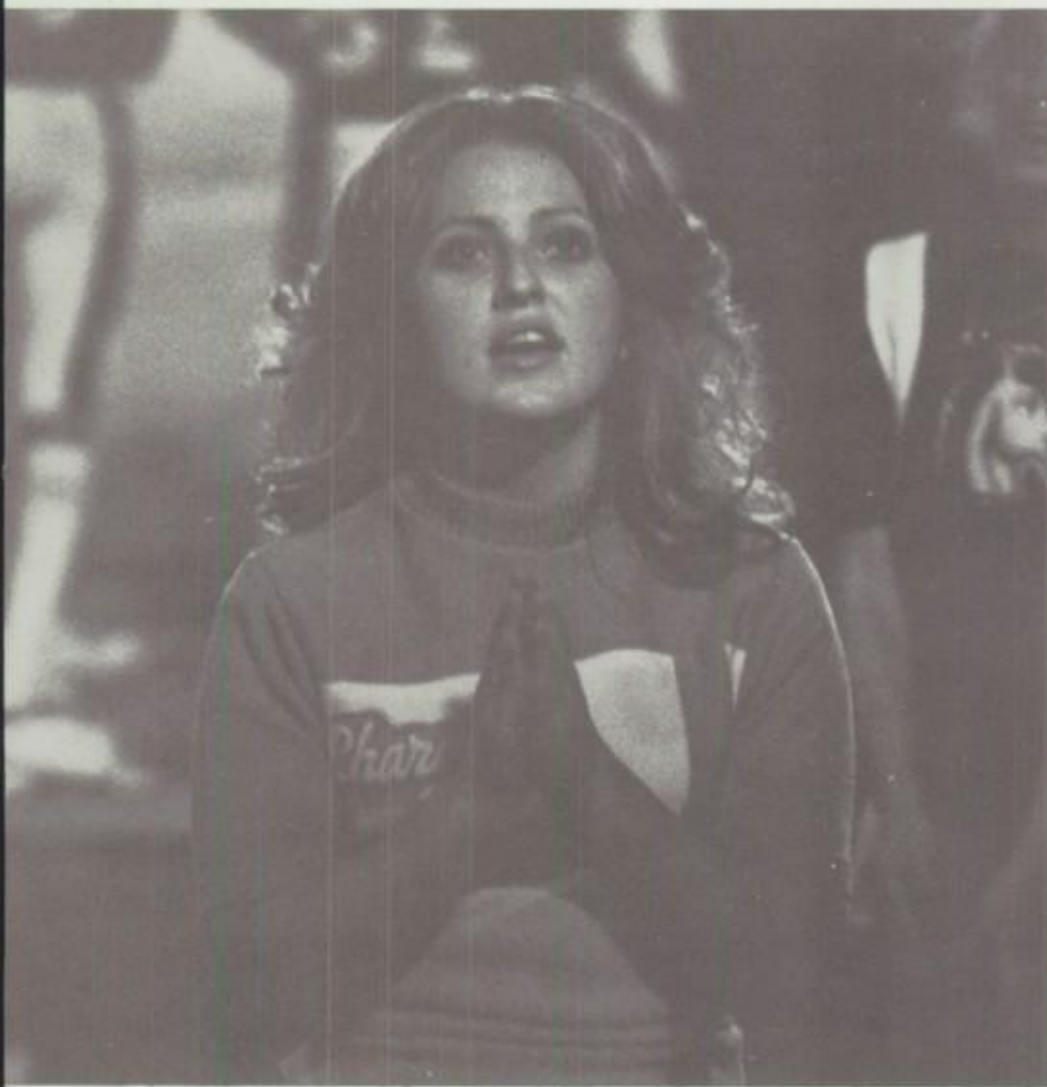

The newly formed Pep Club, a 20-member group, dedicated its time to enhance the student body's spirit at assemblies and games. The girls were very active but had some difficulty in finding transportation to the games away from home.

Mrs. Brenda Crosby, their advisor, was excited about the good strong turn-out. The major point of stress within the group was the lack of funds, since all items for the club must be purchased by the members.

The selling of spirit buttons during the basketball season was the only fund raiser the group conducted.

Cheerleaders add spirited excitement to sports activities

Led by head cheerleader Val McClure, the 1978-79 varsity squad worked to build support of school athletics. Time and thought are required of the cheerleaders to perform cheers, learn skits, and plan assemblies. Fund raising is a necessary part of every squad's responsibilities, too.

The girls, who were chosen in the spring of 1978, attended camp in Santa Barbara, California. At camp, the squad was in the top four of the five hundred groups that attended camp. After practicing over the summer, the cheerleaders returned to Clark with two spirit sticks and many ribbons, including the superstar squad ribbon, which is awarded only to squads that show excellence in cheering.

CHS spirit groups show enthusiasm

After many hours of practice and being judged, six girls were chosen to represent the Sophomore Class as junior varsity cheerleaders. In addition to performing at JV games, the squad aided the varsity cheerleaders in assemblies; one of their most popular entertainment forms was the presentation of skits. They also worked to raise money for new uniforms.

Chosen in the fall, the freshman cheerleaders also helped to provide enthusiasm from the Freshman Class at assemblies and games.

The Clark mascots were all members of the Las Vegas Comets. Their gymnastic exhibitions at assemblies and games provided exciting entertainment for those who watched.

Songleaders alter performing style; precision stressed

The 1978-79 Clark songleaders undertook the most changes in their history as a group. For the first time, a sophomore was added to the squad. Reverting to more precision rather than dance, the squad added a certain distinguishable flare in executing routines. At summer camp the songleaders earned, as usual, a superior rating. Returning senior Debbie Benedict, the head songleader, provided a new look by stressing rhythm, precision, and team spirit within the squad.

Flagtwirlers present precision routines

The Clark High School flagtwirlers practiced endlessly throughout the summer and the school year to achieve complete unison in their routines. In early morning practices, the girls worked in order to provide entertainment for the crowds who watched them at assemblies and half-time shows.

During the summer, along with practices, the girls attended camp in Santa Barbara, California. At camp, the girls won the spirit stick along with a superior ribbon and many individual ribbons. The squad was advised by Miss Theresa Conerly, who was the only advisor to accompany the girls to camp. The squad was led by Michelle Nelson as head.

Cavalaire display creative routines; audience responds

The 1978-79 Cavalaire began their season early in the summer when they attended Santa Barbara Drill Team Camp and took a superior rating. Team captain and three-year veteran Linda Olson drilled the girls constantly in an effort to produce the utmost in quality performance.

Their early morning rehearsals with the "Million Dollar Band" kept the girls busy. Receiving an overwhelming amount of applause for their comical "King Tut" routine, the group continued to create popular numbers. In mid-November their efforts brought them a second-place trophy at the Nevada Drill Team Competition in Clark County. The squad won a check for $500 with their first-place gobbler in "The Great Turkey Race." Mrs. Linda Evans advised the group for her second year.

Tall Flags, rifles combine efforts in precision drills

For the second year at Clark, the CHS girls' rifle squad brought forth an exciting combination of talent and dexterity. Las Vegas's only girls' rifle squad, led by Janet Laduke, did well at camp in Long Beach, winning a first place trophy and twenty first-, second-, or third-place ribbons. The five-member group, along with the Tall Flags, also accompanied the band to the Fiesta Bowl in Phoenix, Arizona.

The 17-member Tall Flags group with Kelly Smallwood as leader also did well at Cal State Long Beach, winning a first place trophy at competition night and 22 first-, second-, or third-place ribbons.

Musicians concentrate efforts and talent for Fiesta Bowl

The "Million Dollar Band," under the direction of William F. McMosley, was selected by invitation to compete in the 1979 Fiesta Bowl parade and field competition in mid-December in Phoenix, Arizona. This meant that the members would have to extend marching season by one and one-half months longer than usual. Due to the poor weather, the field competition was canceled, although the band performed in the parade which was on national television.

The group earned the name "dancing band" with their rhythmic routines at football games. The band also entertained at basketball games.

Jazz Band I and II competed at the Reno International Jazz Festival and the highly acclaimed Burbank Jazz Festival.

On the agenda for the symphonic band and concert band were a spring tour plus the annual competition in district and regional festival.

Though band is a team effort, many individuals excelled. Gary Robinson and Eunice Fujimoto were nominated for the Stan Keaton Jazz Award. In marching band, Eunice and Ted Candalino were semi-finalists in the 1978 McDonald's All-American Band Competition. As always, Clark individuals' efforts helped make up a major percentage of the 1979 Clark County Honor Band.

Choral musicians project solid tone

The Choral Music Department, under the direction of Mrs. Kathy Hayes, offers a variety of groups for students to join.

This year's Girls' Glee, being the largest in a number of years, performed in many concerts throughout the year. Joining them was Concert Choir, an 85-member group that performed any music from folk to classical. Mrs. Hayes was rather proud of the potential of the glee and choir: "With a little work they can be the best in the county."

Madrigals are a select group of choir members who perform music from the Renaissance age. They are well known for their costumes, which give them the appearance of walking right out of the past.

The Counterpoint singers and band concentrate on the modern sounds of music. They appear at separate concerts throughout the year.

This year's fund-raising activities included selling fireworks during the summer, having a car wash, and hosting the Renaissance Faire and Dinner in December.

Executive Council sponsors activities throughout year

Under the leadership of student body president Van Vereen, the Executive Council worked throughout the year to plan activities. The council consisted of 15 members, 10 of whom were elected the previous spring. Among these members were the presidents of each class. The council also supervised all sales and activities that went on through the year.

Some of the activities that they sponsored were several disco dances, Homecoming week, Christmas week, and the Christmas dance at Jubilation.

The girls were in charge of the scoreboard and the clock. They also supplied wrestlers with refreshments during tournaments and matches. Advised by Mrs. Andrea Johnson, the Wrestler-ettes held car washes and candy sales to obtain money for uniforms, which they made themselves.

Soccer Bunnies bounce into season

This year's squad of 30 Soccer Bunnies aided the team by keeping individual and team statistics, keeping score at the games, and bringing oranges and water to keep soccer players refreshed and ready for action. They also acted as a pep squad to keep morale high.

The requirements for being a Soccer Bunny were rather rigid. The girls first turned in an application and were then interviewed by the club officers. After this the applicants received teacher recommendations on citizenship, grades, and school attendance. A knowledge of soccer rules was a must.

DECA introduces plans for future

The Distributive Education Club is a national organization dedicated to expanding students' knowledge of the business world.

Mr. James Hoffman, DECA advisor, contributed his class time to educating his students in the fields of job interviews, sales, cash register procedures, marketing, and advertising in their first year. Then in DECA II he concentrated on management and public speaking. Later in the year these studies were put to the test at the State Leadership Conference in the competency-based events in which several Clark students participated.

Once again, after several years, a Clark student held the title of state president. This title was held by Jon Bradley, a junior, who was also DECA chapter president.

This year's activities included helping Bonanza start a new chapter, attending western regional, state, and national conferences, and serving a Thanksgiving dinner to a needy family. Their fund-raising activities included candy and bake sales and a car wash.

They also made and sold novelty items and helped with inventory at Diamond's. Group members also enjoyed the Employer-Employees' Banquet.

Business students investigate careers

Speakers from all walks of the business world addressed this year's FBLA members as they prepared for a variety of careers. Touring business and accounting offices, the members were given a first-hand look at the many aspects of the business world. The group also had a Career Day for employers of the area to talk with Clark students. Members also compete in state and national contests in accounting, shorthand, typing, office machines, and other business courses. Human Relations builds brotherhood

The Human Relations Club stressed brotherhood and learning to communicate with others. Group members discussed different cultures with the hope of better understanding other people.

The club's main thrust was community service. Planning the food drive for Thanksgiving was the biggest project they undertook this year. Over 1,200 cans were collected and donated to 21 needy families in the Las Vegas area. Black History week was another project the members undertook. They helped to plan skits, and many members were also participants in the fashion show and assembly.

CHS German Club investigates culture, plans social events

The main goal of the German Club this year was to bring students closer to the German culture. Members included students who were currently enrolled in German classes and those who had previously taken the course.

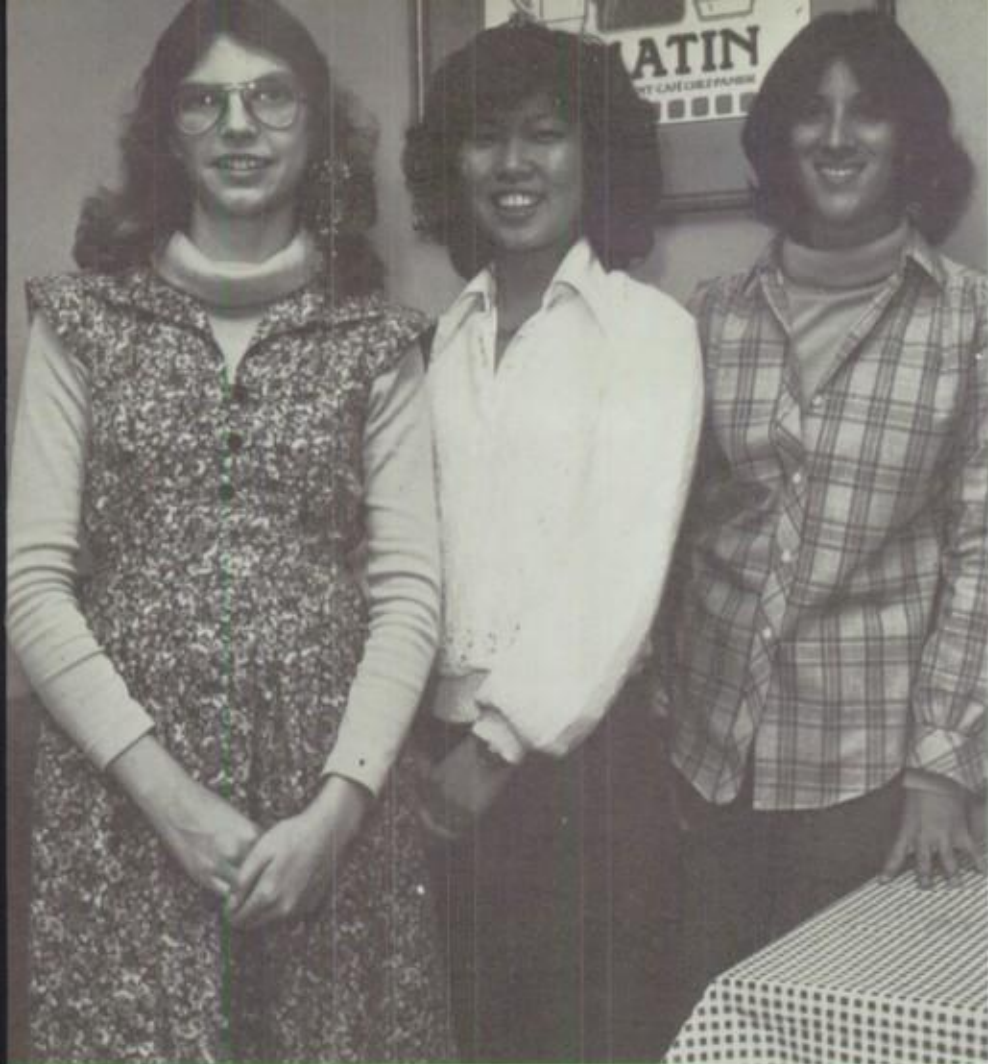

The club with their advisor, Mr. Robert Graetz, planned a variety of social activities for all students who wished to participate. These activities included a Halloween party celebration in traditional German style and a banquet with a typical Bavarian menu.

French Club enjoys variety of projects

The French Club worked to promote an understanding of France's culture and customs. Members participated in a luncheon for which each student prepared a French dish. Many desserts and specialty items were included in the buffet.

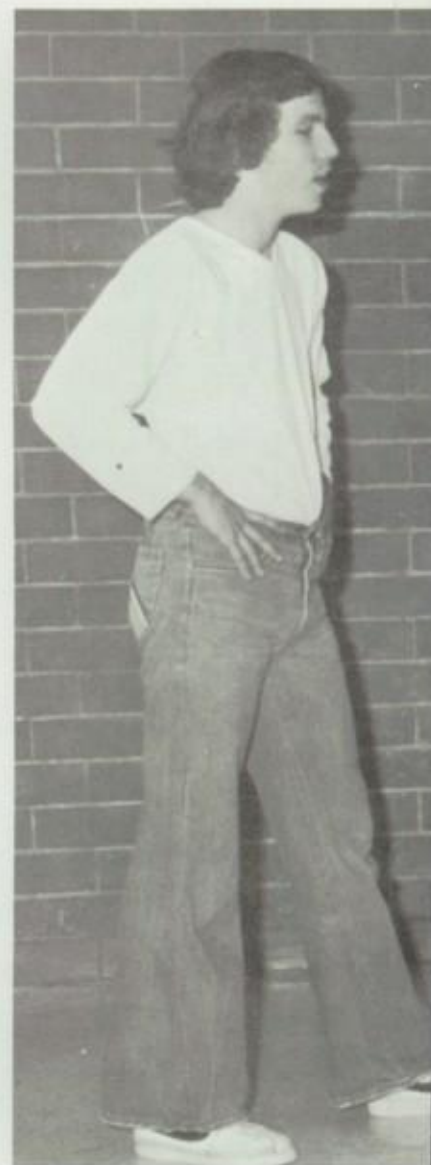

The group raised money by selling candy, jewelry and advent calendars. This money funded other projects, such as a French dinner for club members. Mrs. June Hop, the club's advisor, worked to organize an international dinner for all of the foreign language clubs in school.

A productive year brings many events for Spanish Club

The Spanish Club brings students closer to the countries of Spain, Mexico and other Spanish-speaking places.

Their first school-wide project was sponsoring the traditional Ugly Man Contest, an election in which the winner's title is "purchased" by contributions from the student body.

Group members planned to travel to Magic Mountain in their annual Cinco de Mayo trip.

Sponsoring the Girls' Reverse Dance for the third year, the club hoped to raise more funds than in previous years. The GR is unique in that the girls ask the boys to this semi-formal dance.

Skiers are jubilant as winter supplies snow-filled slopes

Having the largest membership of any ski club in Clark's history, the 145-member group participated in a variety of skiing activities. Advised by Mrs. LaRen Fleming and Mr. Bill Berthold, the club traveled to Park City, Brian Head, Mount Holly and Lee Canyon to ski and enjoy the snow. Other events members competed in included downhill races at Mount Holly and a cross country marathon at Brian Head. Dues for the club were only $1.50 per person; however, each student paid his own way on most of the trips. The club also had several money-making activities, including car washes, cookie sales and the sale of Ski Club T-shirts.

With their entry of a tree on skis in Christmas Tree Lane, the club took first place for most original theme.

Dragonslayers play with fantasy world

The Society of Dragonslayers was a group of about fifteen students who met regularly to play a fantasy role-playing game known as Dungeons and Dragons.

Dungeons and Dragons is a game using no game board or playing pieces. The only tools are sets of oddly shaped dice and rulebooks containing numbers and tables. Paper and pencils are also employed.

One student plays the part of the dungeon master or DM; he holds both the dice and the rulebooks. The other players have the paper and pencils. The dungeon master, by rolling the dice and consulting the tables, weaves for other players an imaginative story in which they are the characters and can affect events. The players try to obtain experience and gold for their characters through various activities, including becoming powerful wizards, slaying ferocious dragons, or robbing deserted or haunted dungeons.

Thespian members spend many hours in their productions

The Drama Club had an extremely busy year. The members worked on two candy sales, made two trips to California and successfully completed their annual Christmas carnation sale. The Drama Club members helped the Theatre Department in many ways. They assisted in preparation of the plays and helped to sell refreshments during intermission.

The club entered a tree in Christmas Tree Lane; the entry drew many pro and con statements about the theme. "It was a very productive year for this club, and it proved to be fun and exciting for all of those who were involved," summarized club president Tom Phelps.

SOUL Club serves with many projects throughout the city

SOUL Club began the year with an ambitious project called the D Street Festival, a neighborhood party encompassing four city blocks which were barricaded from traffic. The group invited other organizations to set up booths and sponsored live entertainment throughout the day. For Clark students the group sponsored a disco dance and several skating parties.

Their largest effort was Black History Week in February. Since the group's purpose is to familiarize everyone with the cultural contributions made by Black Americans, this annual event provided them with an opportunity to meet this goal.

The spirit girls, all members of the SOUL Club, achieved their positions on the squad after appearing before a panel of judges. Their rhythmic dance numbers added entertainment to assemblies and games.

Football team proves Vegas critics wrong

Clark Charger varsity football team rounded out its season with a 7-2 mark over all. Every year the two major newspapers in Las Vegas rate each high school team and make a prediction of their overall season record. Clark was projected to end the season 3-6 and not to show much.

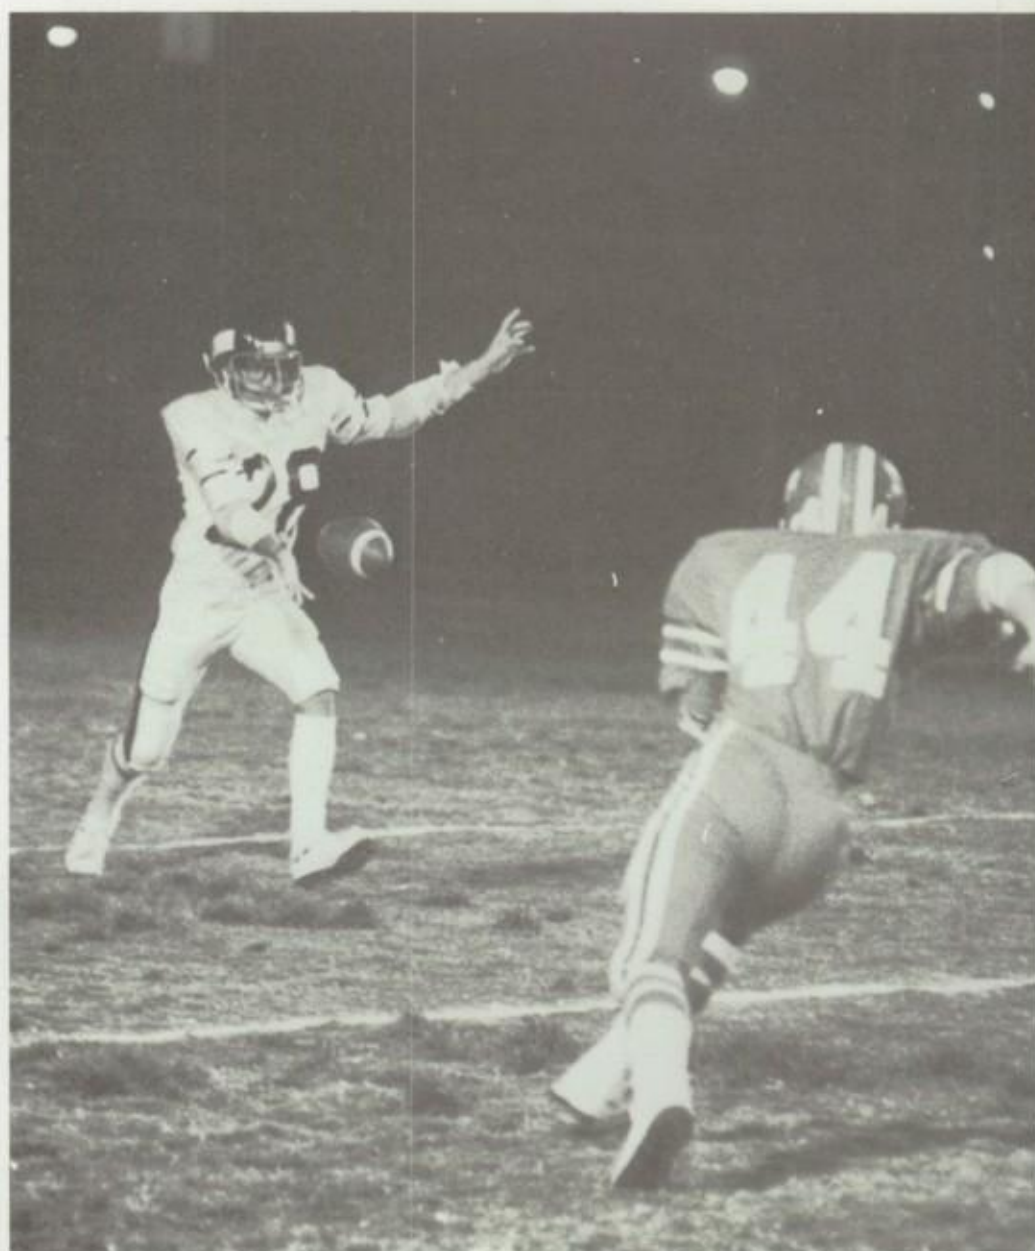

However, the big story for Clark was defense, led by Tony Shaw and Ed Gagliardi. In the first four games Clark held their opponents scoreless. Bonanza was the first team to score on Clark's "D."

Clark's toughest opponents were Chaparral and Valley. In the sixth game of the season Clark met Chaparral in what was a match-up of two undefeated teams. The Chargers fell prey to Eric Jordan and the Cowboys 16-9.

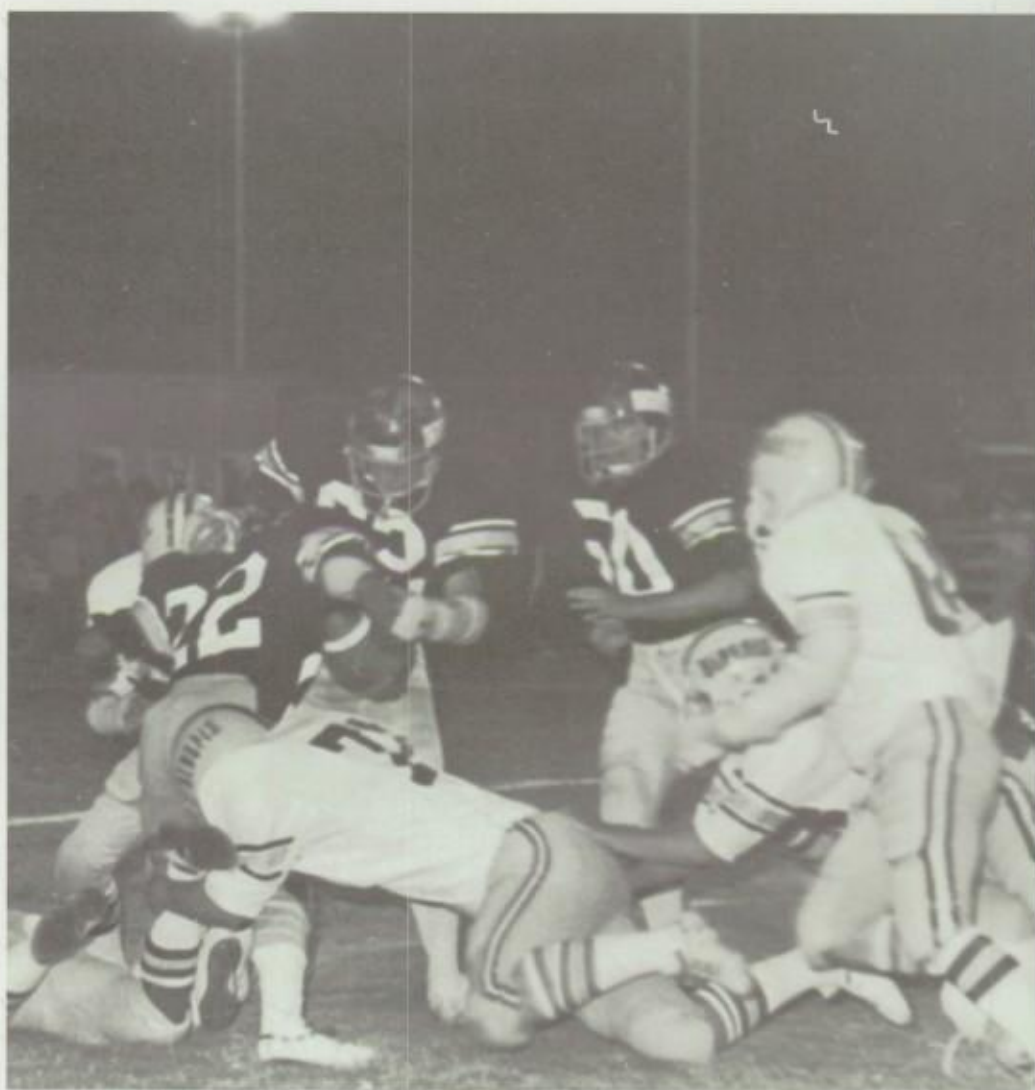

The following week Clark met Valley, another undefeated team. The Vikings beat the Chargers in a hard-fought battle 28-26; this score was more points than Clark had given up all year. Valley went on to become the state champion.

The Clark offense was led by quarterback Dave Williams, with fine running performances from fullback Jeff Hinds, tailbacks Van Vereen and Carnell Smith, and wide receiver Laus Abdo. Playing the offensive line were Kent Larson, center; Mark Woodman and Jim Mikulich, guards; Jim Jones and Rick Lawson, tackles; and Glenn Streuber, tight end.

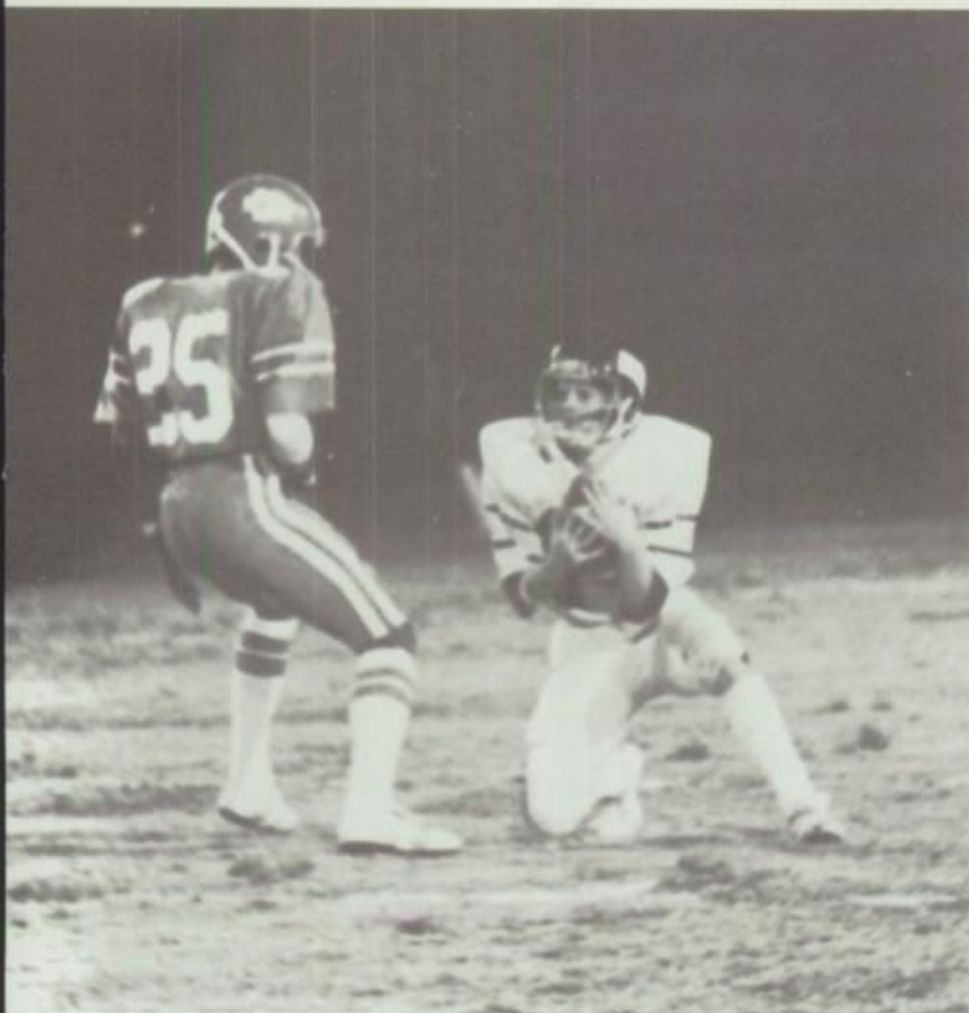

The defense consisted of cornerbacks Pat Ireland, Don Purdue, and Vance Sutton; strong safety Henry Thorns; free safety Tony Shaw; linebacker Aveion Riggs and Ed Gagliardi; nose guard Frank Sullivan; tackle Bill Webb and Joe Turney; and defensive ends Richard Hall and Jim Broughton.

JV gridgers learn formula for winning

"We set out to have a winning season, and I feel we accomplished that goal at 4-4-1. We were competitive against every team we played. Winning Homecoming over Gorman 30-0 and beating Western 28-14 in our last game are the highlights I recall," said head JV Coach Scott Orr.

Leading defensive players consisted of Jeff Glodfelter, tackle; Tim Coleman, lineman; Byron Hack, linebacker; Tim Dixon, noseguard; Vernon Polk, free safety; Ken Gray, defensive back, and two way stand outs: Jeff Wilson, Steve McCauley, and Tony Moreland.

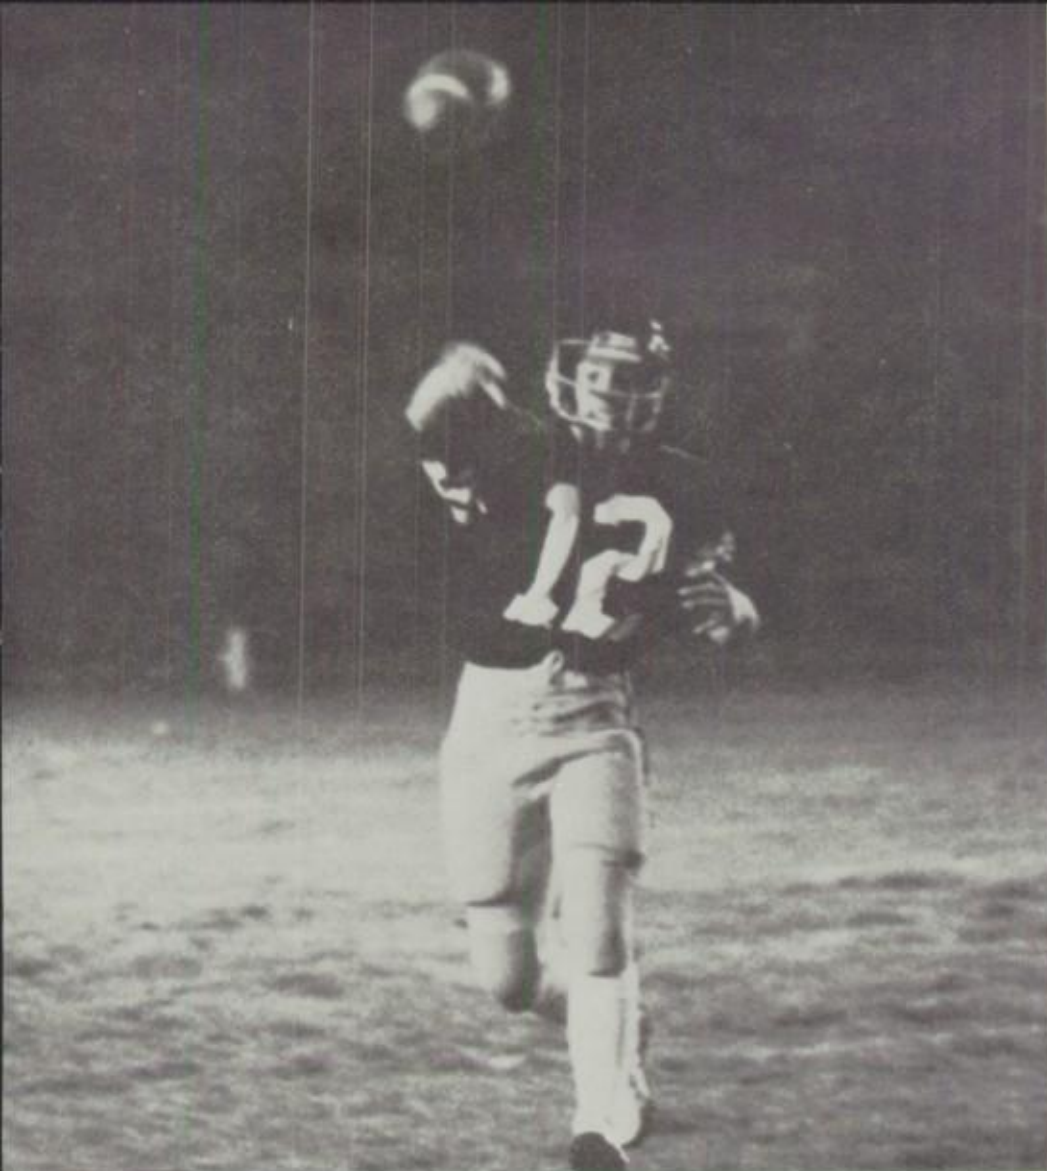

The freshman team, also gaining experience under Coach Nick Bowler, won their first three games. They rounded out the season with a 3-4 record.

Male runners nab sixth place in zone

Lack of participation hurt the Chargers in cross country this year. Last year the team consisted of some 17 male members and six female members, compared to 11 boys and five girls this year.

The boys' team was much improved over last year. They took sixth in zone, beating last year's first place team, Western. Senior Chuck Hertig took sixth in zone, qualifying him as one of the three runners from non-qualifying teams to advance to state, where he took fifth place. This year the Chargers were led by returning lettermen Jeff Demeny, Chuck Hertig, Sam Holland, Mark Quisenberry and Eric Sharpe.

CHS ladies take second place title in zone competition

Also suffering from a small turn-out, the girls' cross country team had to forfeit some of their meets because they did not have enough runners. In spite of this, they placed second in zone. This year the NIAA Cross Country Committee decided to hold a state meet for the girls; the Chargers qualified but did not place. "Sophomore Carolyn Canella and junior Vicki Smith did outstanding jobs on the team," said Coach Bill Berthold.

Boys' tennis takes third state crown

Keeping with his brother Jack's tradition, outstanding junior David Pate led the Clark boys' tennis team to their third consecutive state team championship. David won both the zone and state singles title. The zone doubles crown was shared by Mike Corrigan and Tom Rojas; however, the two lost in the finals at state.

Chaparral was chosen to take the zone and state titles, but the Chargers upset the Cowboys 21½ to 6½. "It was predicted as the toughest match of the season," said the proud coach, Bob Wilcox. "The team came through like champions."

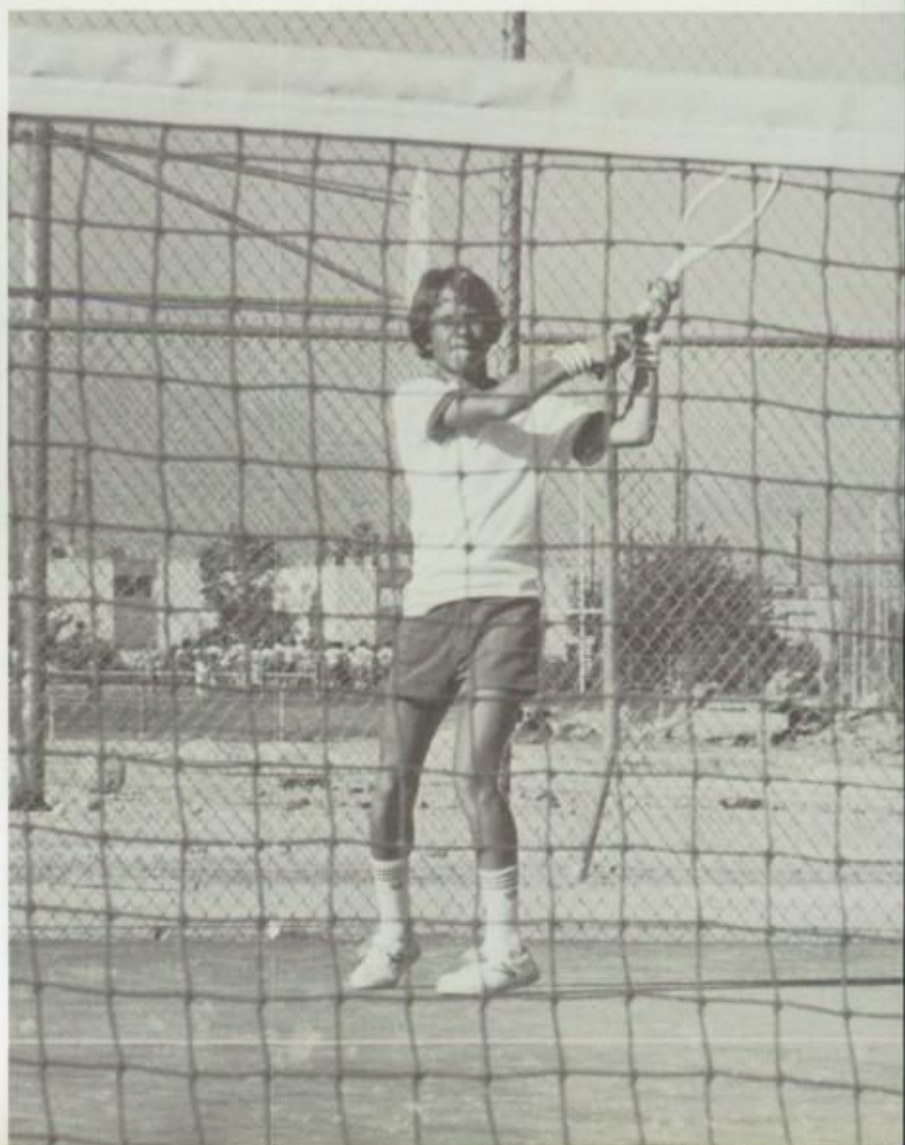

Other key players on the team were John Rhodes, Leon Sutton, Robert Shearing, Mark Harrison, and Chuck Johnston.

The girls' basketball team had an average season with high scoring from junior Cassandra Adams, Connie Murray, and Carol Morgan. "The girls had a couple of good games," said Coach Theresa Conerly, proud that they lost to Valley by only one point. In zone play the squad lost to Las Vegas by only four points. Conerly expressed hope that the team would mature into a state championship contender next year.

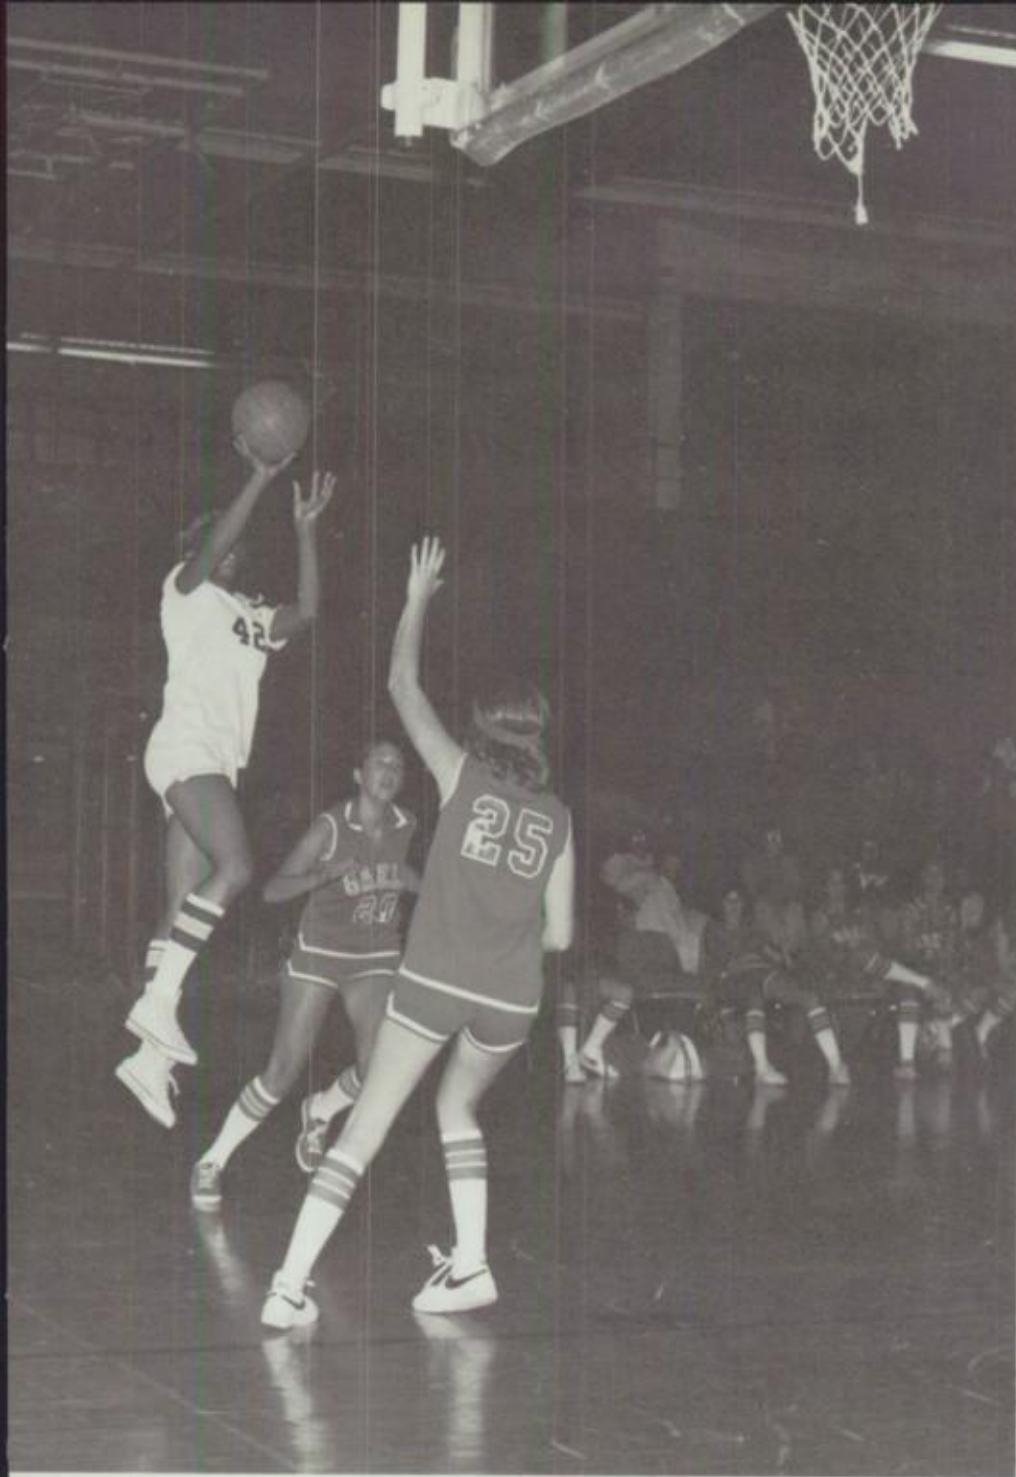

The junior varsity team also had an 8-8 season. The victories came from the outstanding scoring of Kathy Wynn and the ball stealing of Sheryl Williams, Sonya Jordan and Angie Smyth.

Forfeits hurt team; girls' golf rebuilds for next season

The girls' golf team did not have an exceptionally strong season, due largely to lack of experience. "Carrie Johnson, the state champion, played outstanding golf and is one of the best competitors I've ever coached," said Coach Jiles Reiley.

Johnson gained entry into the Guinness Book of Records for hitting 7,649 golf balls in a 24-hour period during the Jerry Lewis Telethon for muscular dystrophy during Labor Day weekend.

Coach Reiley felt the team played with determination and listed Mary Taft as another strong golfer. Her score at zone exceeded the number of strokes to qualify for state by only two.

Cagers win at zone

Under the direction of Head Coach Gary Wheeler and Assistant Coach Travis Bonneville, The Charger varsity basketball team had a season which surprised many pre-season pollsters.

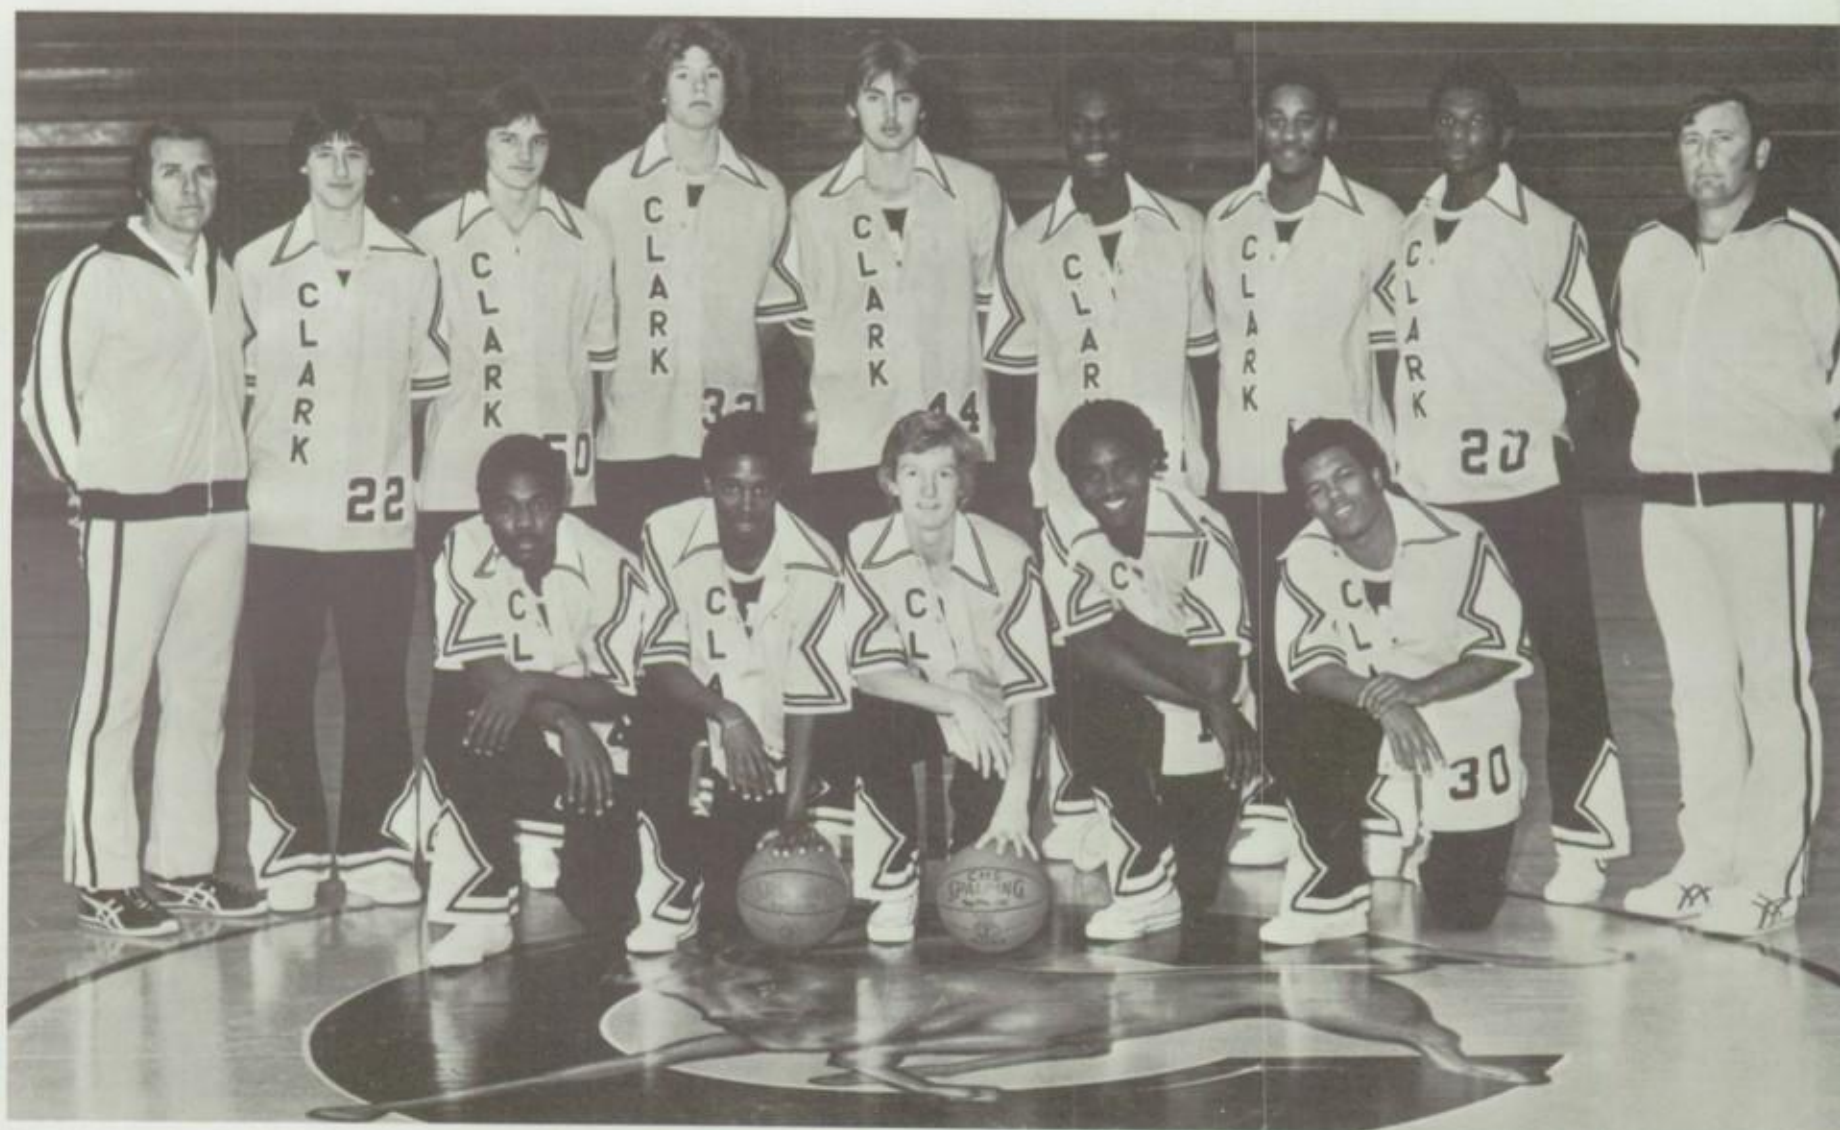

The Team took two competitive tournament titles, the Tri-City Classic in Phoenix and the Capitol Classic in Carson City, during the Christmas holidays. Leading players were seniors Lance Davies, Trent Black, Henry Thorns, Vance Spellman, and Randy Gelhart. Outstanding juniors were Tony Shaw, Gary Flangas, and Carnell Smith.

The Chargers took the Southern AAA Zone Basketball Tournament, playing the best they had all year. Gelhart earned the title of MVP in zone play, and Black received a place on the All-Tournament Team.

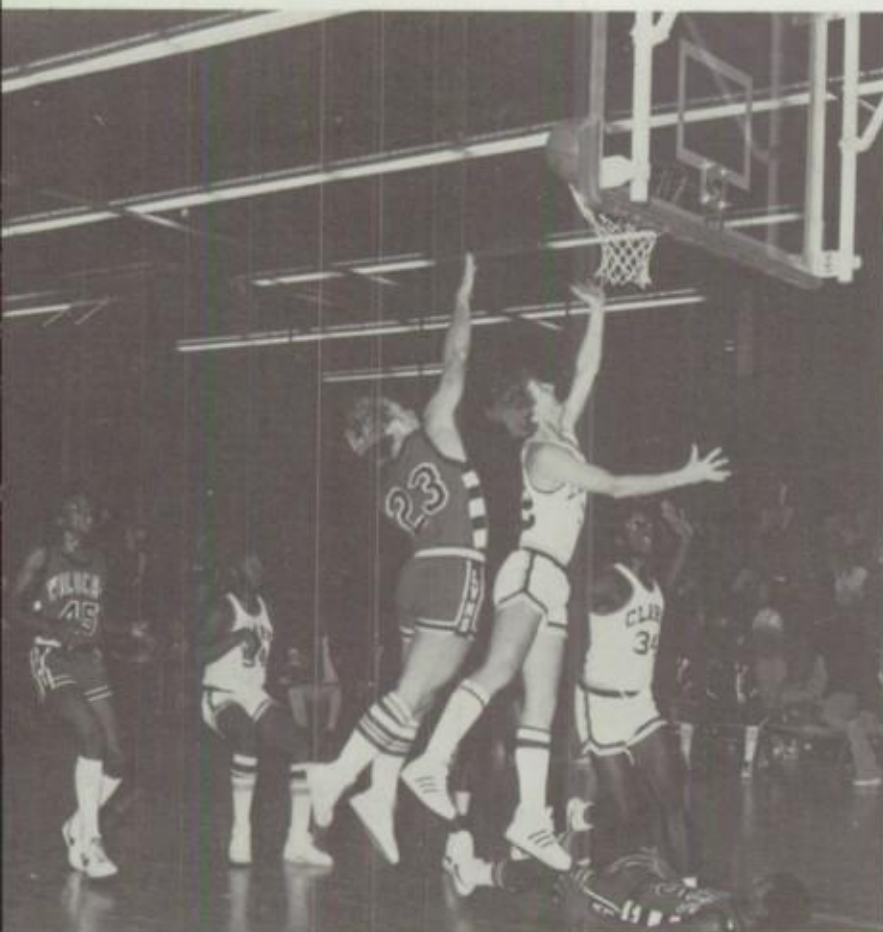

In state competition against Gorman, Clark led the game till the final minutes when the Gaels had a series of breaks, including several turnovers and technical free throw shots. Although Gorman won, Shaw was named to the State All-Tournament Team. Coach Bonneville summarized the game: "We won 29 out of 32 minutes — It was an unfortunate end of the season. In our view, we're still the champs."

CHS JV'ers gain CHARGER pride

The JV basketball team, led by sophomore team captain Randy Plentzas, had a "roller coaster" type of season. This see-saw season of wins and losses was due to the team's building a winning streak only to have it broken by a tough opponent. However, the team's hard work pleased Coach Rich Whitehead: "The players' ability to work together as a team was a great asset. Although this team wasn't as talented as teams I've coached before, they used their intelligence to pull them through tough games." Moving Duane Kendall down from the varsity squad added height and more winning consistency to the JV squad.

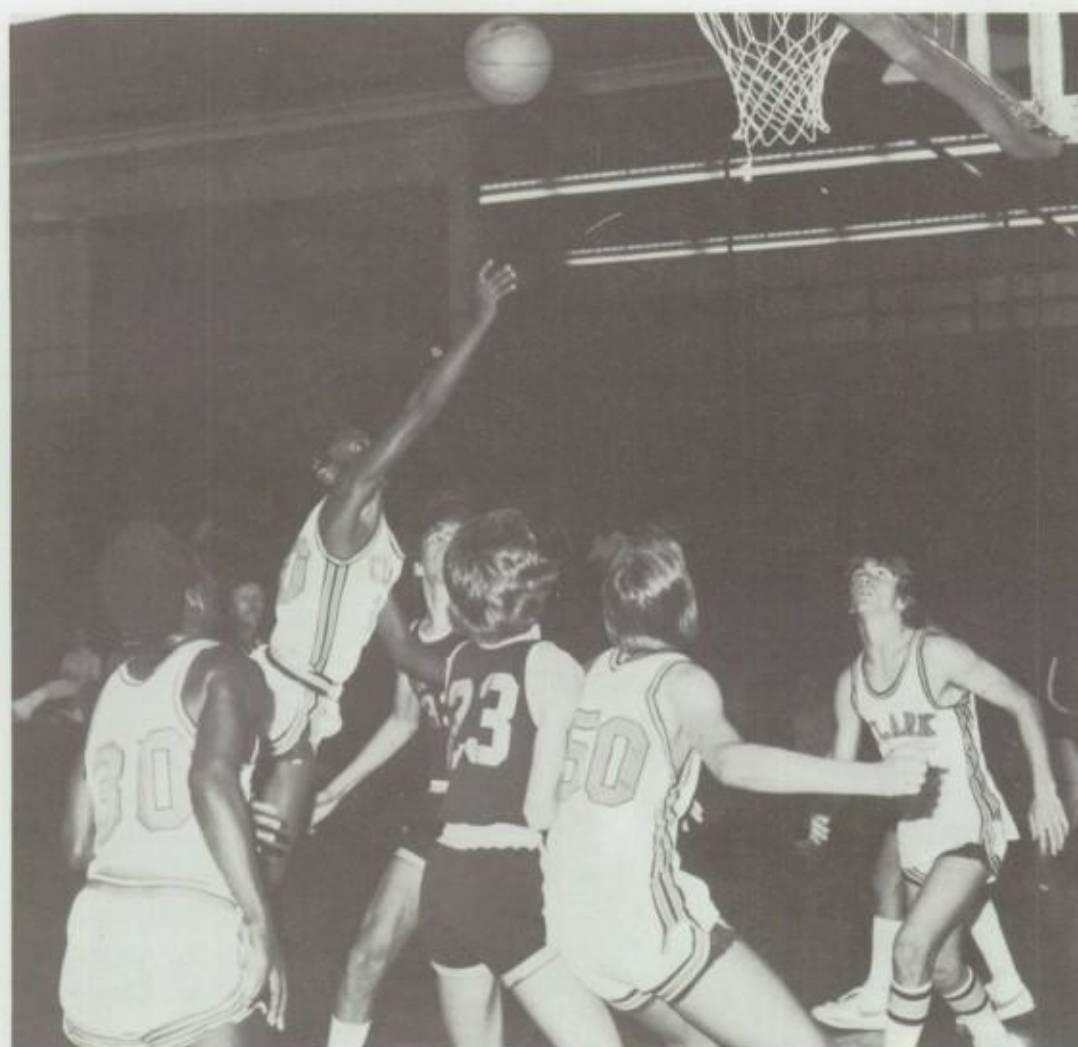

The freshman basketball team had a year of learning. The team's basic concern was to learn the offensive and defensive plays of the junior varsity and varsity squads. Leading players on the team were Steve Justice, Reggie Riggs, Ken Daniels, and Phil Lipka. These players led the team in playing time and scoring.

CHS soccer players busy rebuilding team

After the loss of 17 seniors, first-year soccer Coach Doug Clarke was busy rebuilding his team. Helping in this process were returning lettermen Dwayne Dunseath, Tom Rojas, Tracy Bailey, Louie Schiavone, Eric Stelter and Rob Scible.

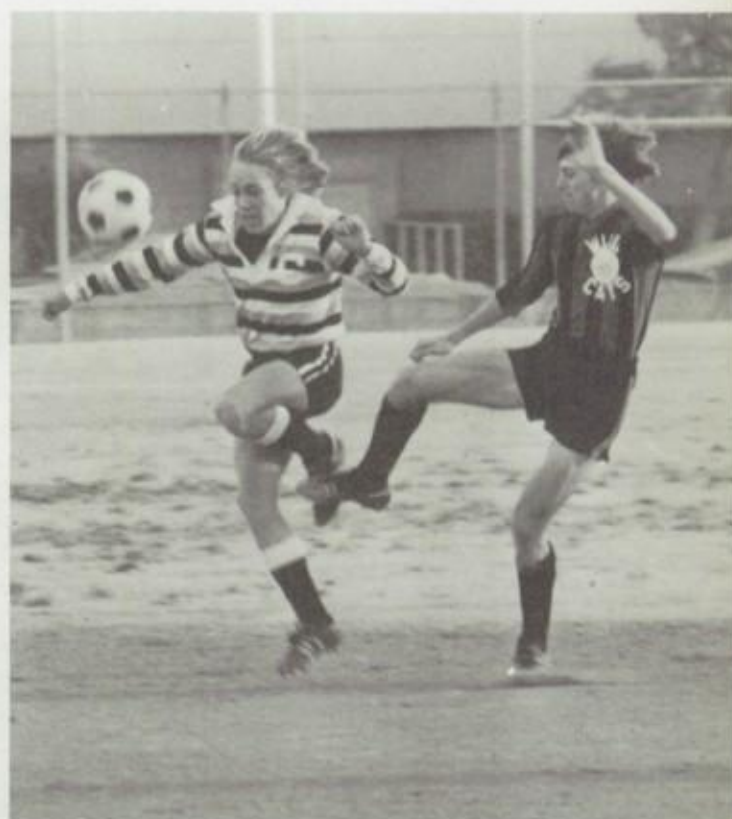

"The 78-79 team started out on the right foot with over 115 people trying out for 22 spots on the varsity team. The success of the team is a tribute to those talented players who tried out," said Coach Clarke.

The attack was led by Tracy Bailey, John Cook, Rob Scible, Ozzie Alvarez, and Tom Rojas. Last year's "most inspirational player" Dwayne Dunseath, along with seniors Tom Rojas and Louie Schiavone became team captains for the '78-79 season.

The defense was led by seniors Louie Schiavone and Ken Twasta, sophomore Jim Sell, junior Chris Broening, and sophomore Paul Starcher playing goalie.

JV soccer squad defensively strong

The JV soccer team rounded out the season with a 8-3-2 record over all. "JV members have a great future for the varsity squad," said Head Coach Andy Warholak.

The Charger squad was strong defensively. The outstanding defensive players were Darren Blitsch, Lauri Wehrsdorfer, and Sebastian Belle. Coach Warholak listed Jim Malley as the highest scorer for the season and Chris Collins as the team hustler.

Wrestlers sharpen takedown technique

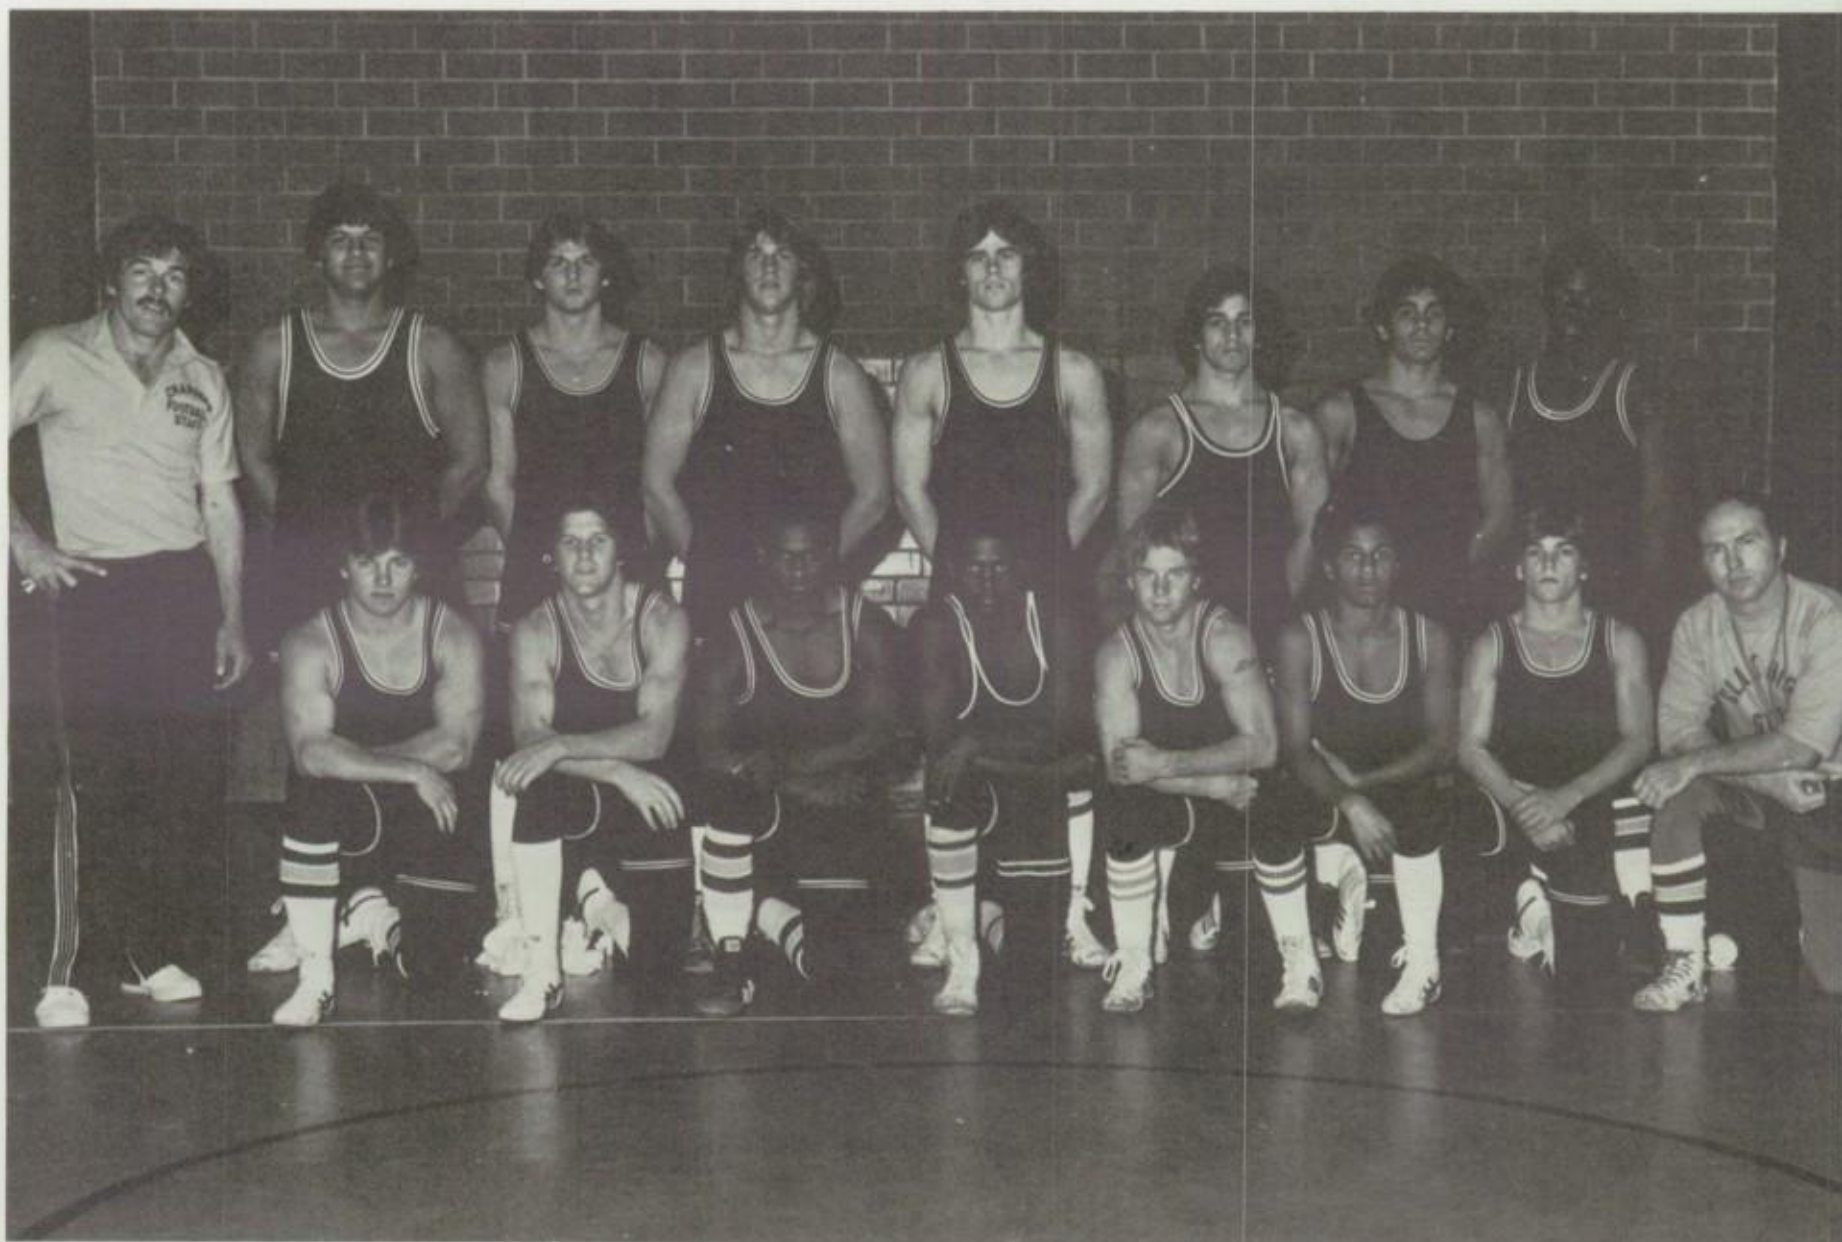

"This year we had a very young, inexperienced varsity team," explained wrestling Coach Duane Loesch as he viewed the year. The team progressed satisfactorily through the season, gaining experience as members competed in more matches.

The Chargers' outstanding members named by Coach Loesch were sophomore Gregg Hanson at 95 pounds, junior Sylvester Green at 127, and seniors Laus Abdo at 133, Gary Villani at 138 and Ken Weber at 177.

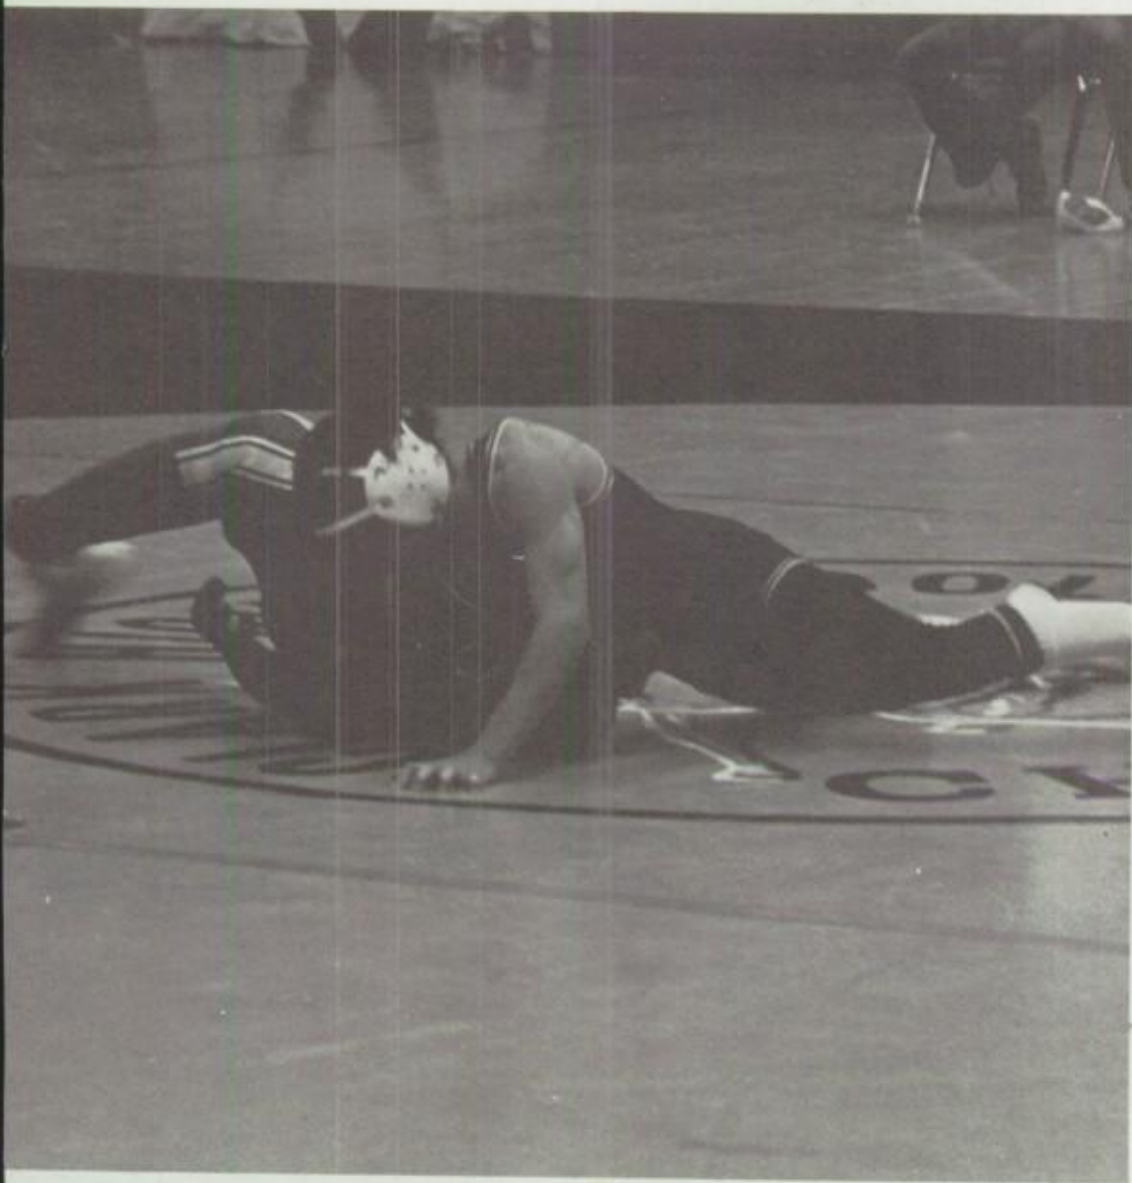

"A bright spot in this year's competition is that the Chargers will come back next year as a more experienced wrestling team," summarized Loesch.

Clark JV wrestlers acquire experience

The JV wrestlers improved steadily throughout the season, having only one experienced wrestler on the Charger team. Coach Duane Loesch felt the team progressed well as the season continued.

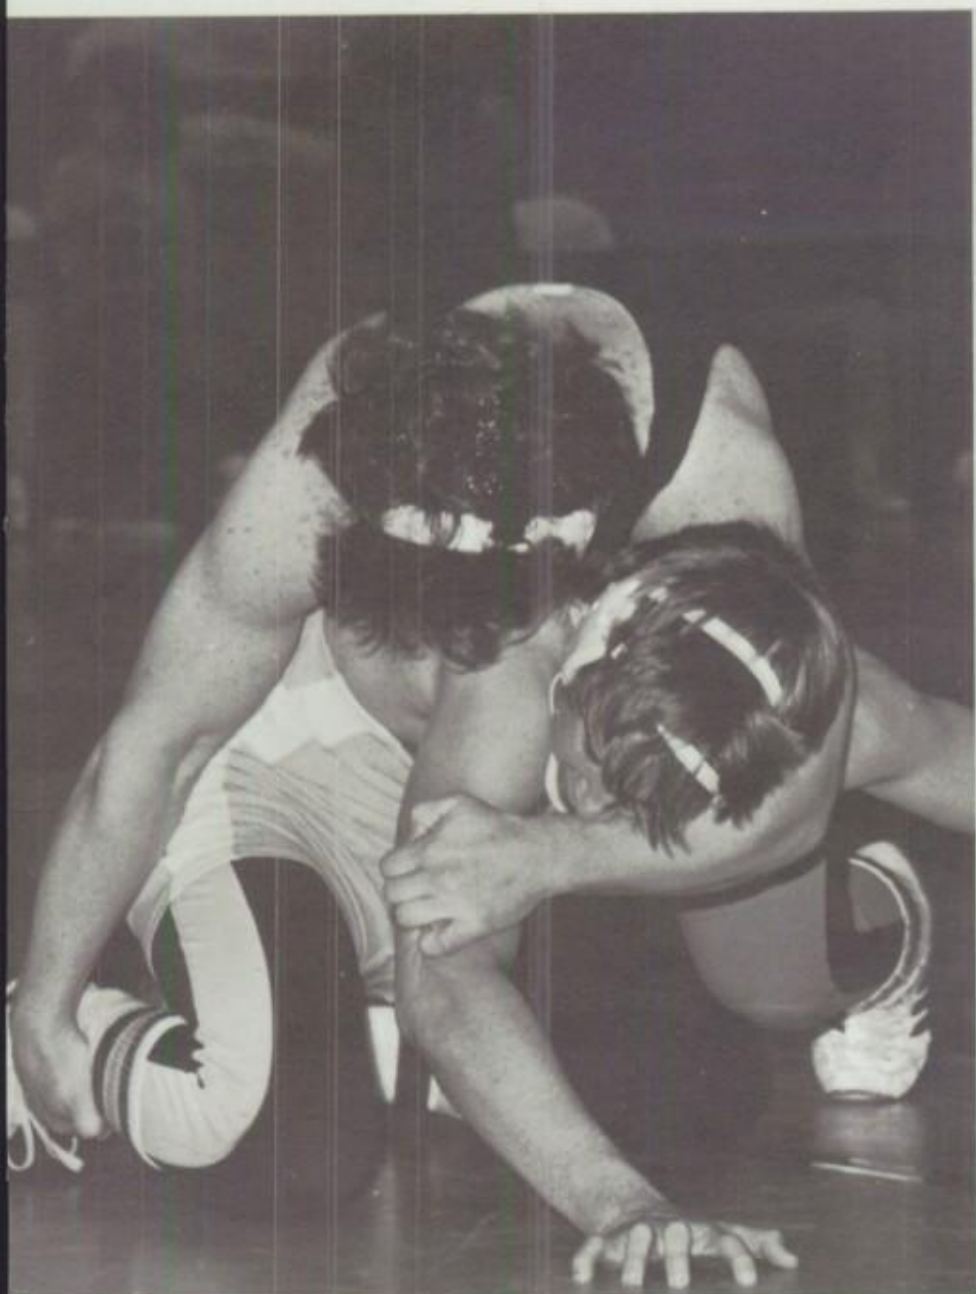

Coach Loesch cited four wrestlers as top individuals: sophomores Rusty Smith at 127 pounds and Jim Tiscareno at 165; and juniors John McLin at 138 and Bob Isom at 133. Isom was the only JV wrestler on the team with previous experience.

Boys' bowling team exhibits skills, pride

"This year, if we could have started the season the way we ended it, we would have a much better record," explained Coach Dave Snyder about his varsity bowling team.

This year's team was out of the race for the first place right from the beginning of the season, though they did make progress. The outstanding player on the team was Captain Robin Burrus, a senior with an average of 176.

"All of the JV bowlers were outstanding," stated Coach Snyder. The team was in first place in the Sunrise Division all year and captured their division title. In a tough match the JV team bowled against Western, the first place team in the Sunset Division; the game ended in a 2-2 split, making it hard to determine the better bowling team.

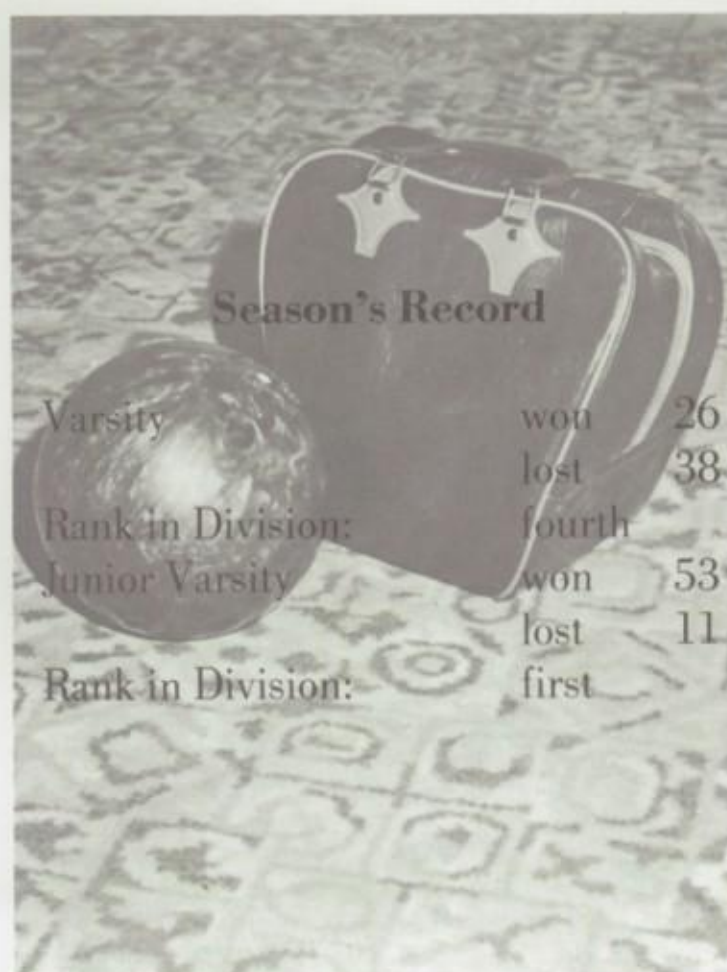

With perfect form, Chuck Hertig rolls the ball.

Girl bowlers place fifth in league play

The girls' varsity bowling team placed fifth out of six teams in the division this year; however, senior Lori Picking ranked fourth in the entire league, which is composed of both divisions. Coach Dave Snyder said, "Lori is one of the best bowlers I've ever coached. She led the team with her experience." The team's major problem was lack of experience.

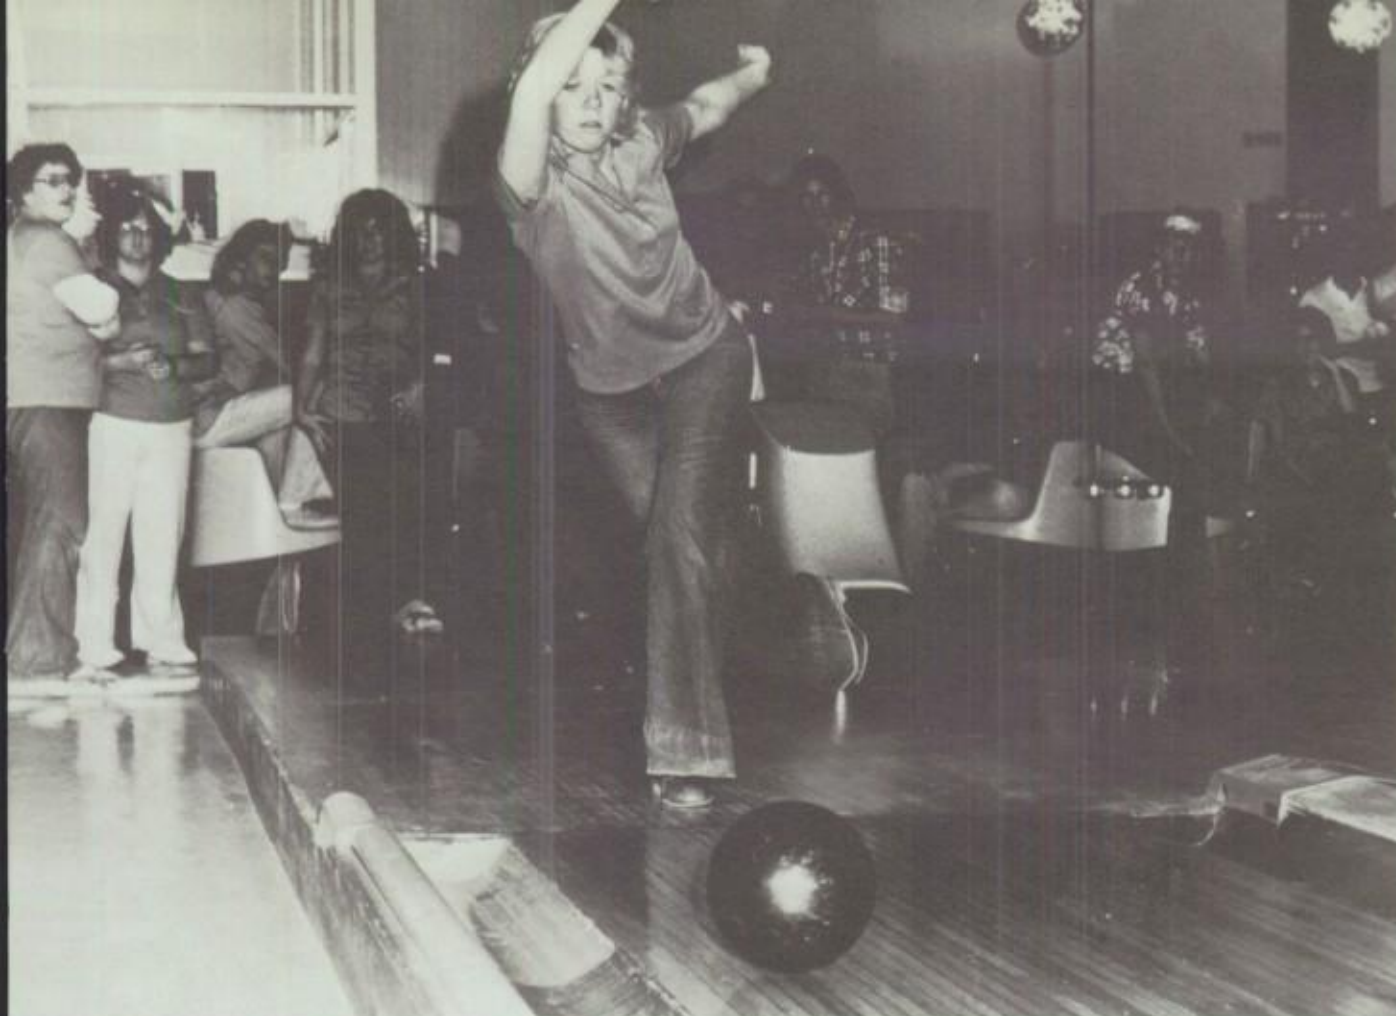

Monica Meng, the most improved bowler this year, raised her average by about 25 points.

Varsity spikers win in tough competition

The girls' varsity volleyball team had an excellent season. Coach Dennis Belingheri, proud of his team, said, "The team's big wins over Basic and Chaparral showed the girls' determination to strive for victory. Giving Valley and Rancho tough games was more than the newspaper critics expected of the team this year; the girls never gave up."

Assistant Coach Bob Kelly, who played volleyball for two years in college, added, "Hard work is what gave the girls victories when the critics said they'd never make it."

Leading seniors Dixie Andino, Vicki Bradley, and Stacy Rudin aided the team with their skills gained through experience. Connie Murray and Kimberly Wallis, both juniors, were strong players with their jumping and setting abilities.

JV volleyball team hustles for victories

Despite a lack of experience, the JV volleyball team hustled through a successful season. Two freshmen, Susan Evans and Dawn Thomas, demonstrated enough talent to move up to varsity play following Christmas vacation.

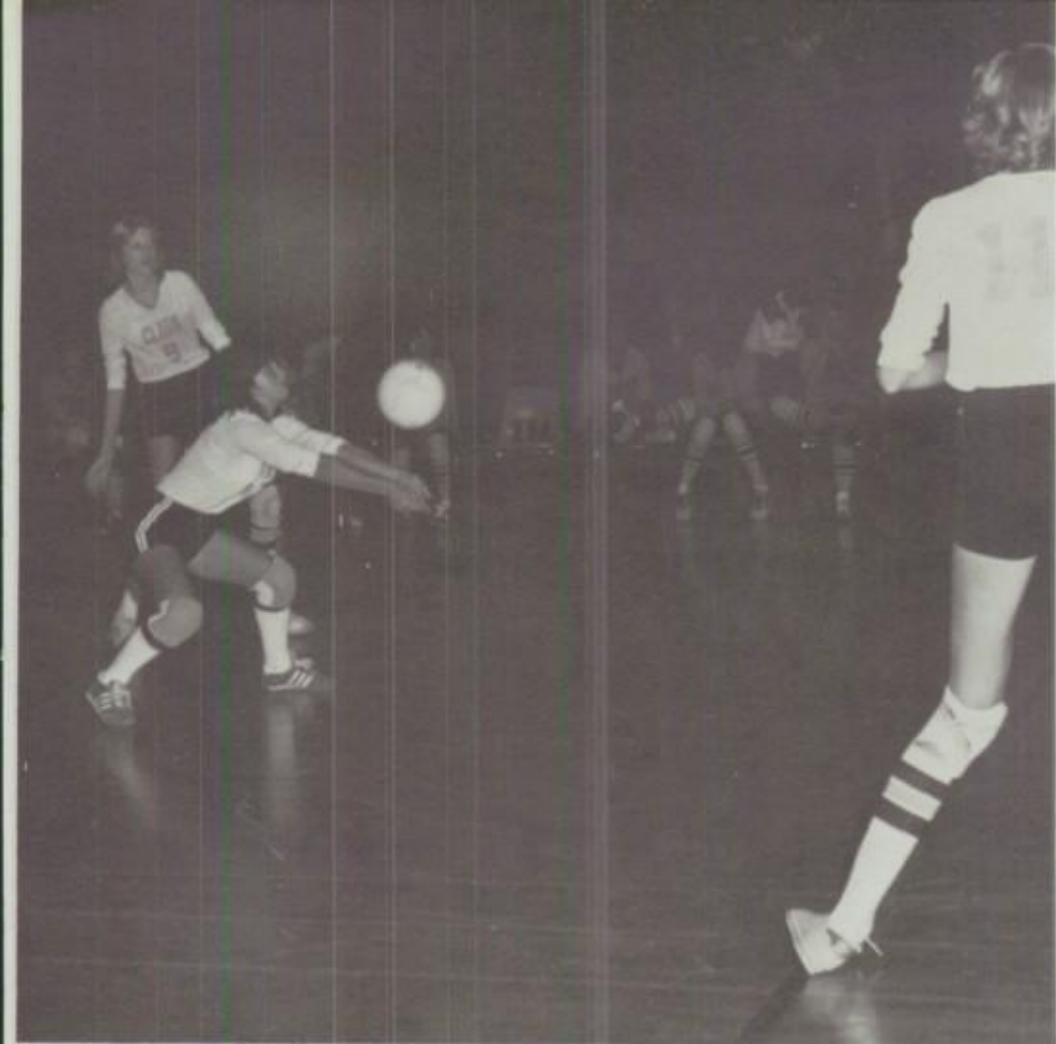

Coach Theresa Conerly gave her opinion of the squad: "The team is very hard working. Even when they were the underdogs, they never quit fighting." Conerly listed Susan Selby, Angela Smyth, Debbie Smith, and Shirley Lyons as players who consistently performed well.

Gymnasts emerge as key competitors

This year was the first time a Clark gymnastics team competed in meets. Although the girls did not compete in inter-scholastic events, they entered meets on Saturday mornings with private clubs in town. They competed in a variety of events, including bars, beam, vault, and floor exercises.

At the end of the season the team entered the Nevada Women's Gymnastic meet; in the class two (intermediate) meet Barbara Boone took third in the compulsory bar routine. In the class three beginning section meet Jeannie Hardy won the uneven bars for her age group. Coach John Apperson worked with the team to increase recognition of the sport.

School services provide assistance in various areas

Giving something extra for Clark, many special services work year round in order to make school a more enjoyable experience.

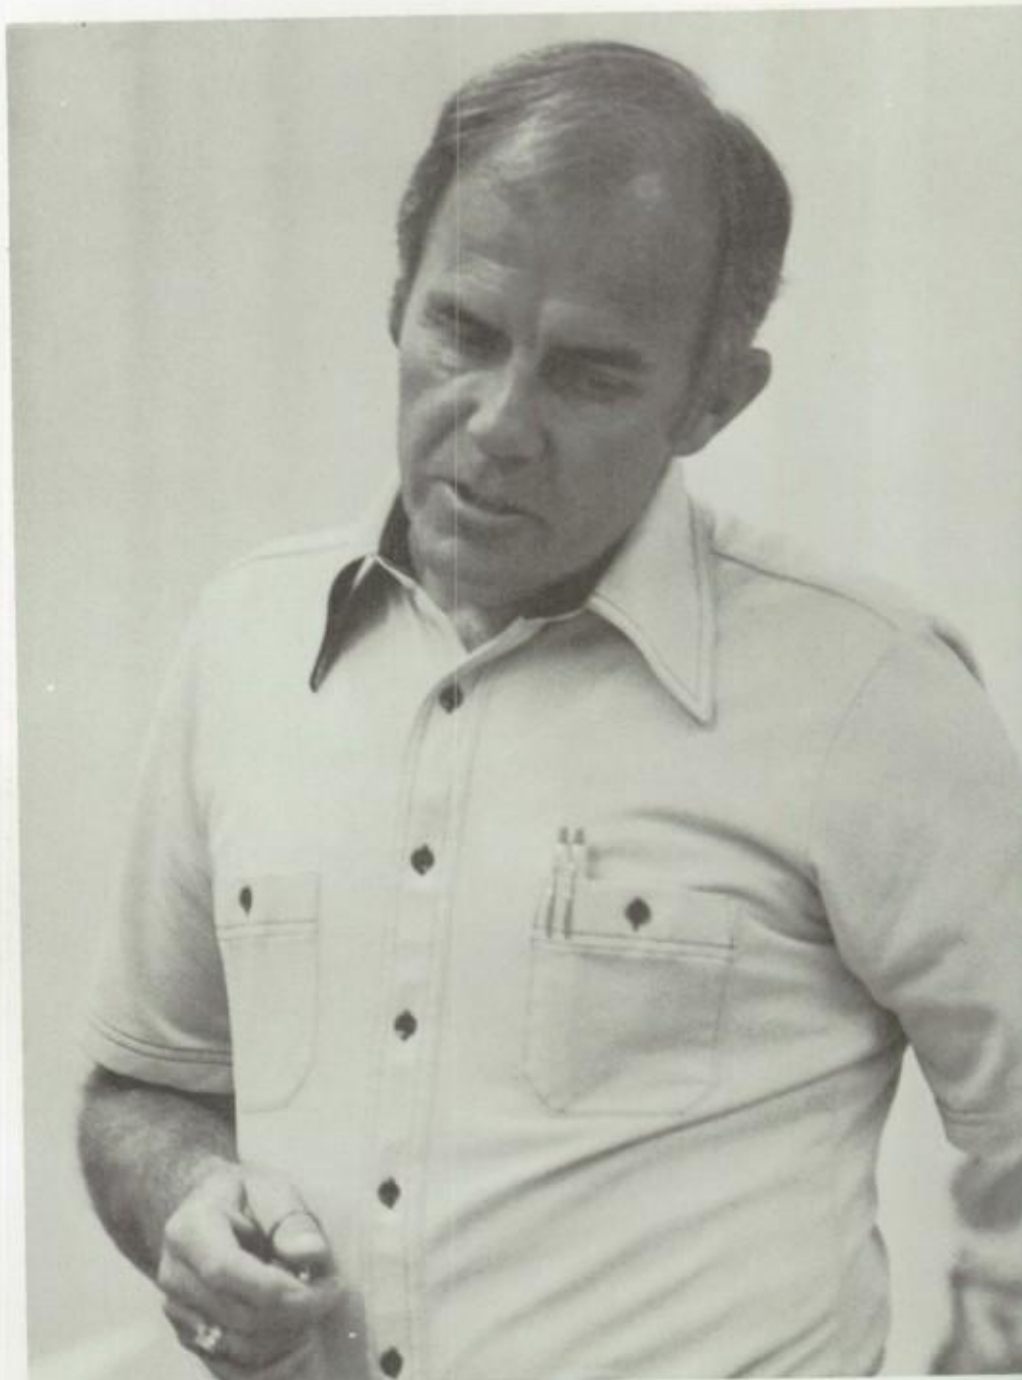

The custodians, responsible for all maintenance of the 7½-acre school building, work shifts varied to keep the physical plant in shape.

The cafeteria staff works throughout the school year preparing both breakfast and lunch to be served to 1400 students daily.

The counseling department aids students in registration, evaluating credits and developing future plans as well as helping students with personal problems.

The library offers various materials, not only books, but films, magazines, and newspapers to assist students in broadening their education.

Graphic art services produce large quantities of printed material such as tickets, programs, and instructional material throughout the year.

Counselor Bob Wilcox answers one of the many questions asked of him throughout the year.

Helping find necessary information, librarian Kathie Clinesmith assists a student.

Sandi Conn of the graphic arts department provides all necessary printed material.

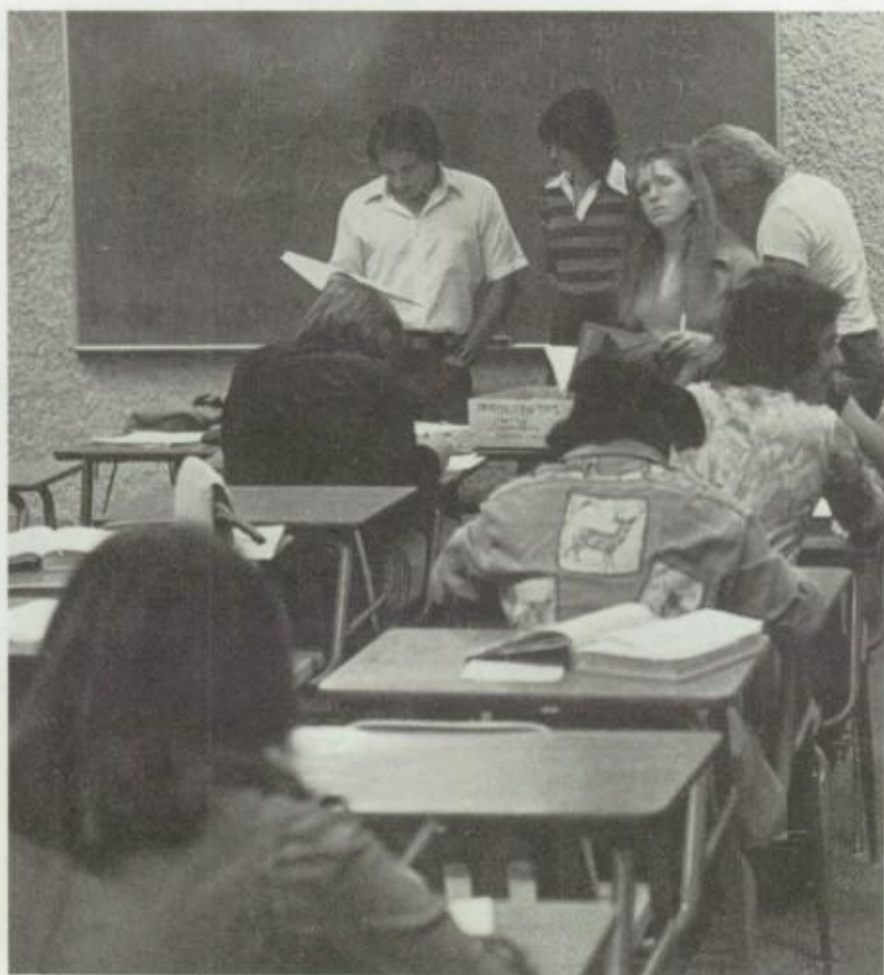

Student cafeteria workers act promptly to serve faculty members.

Building maintenance requires hours of effort from the custodial staff, including Ed Winfrey.

Preparing for the lunch crowd, Peggy Adams makes Super Shakes.

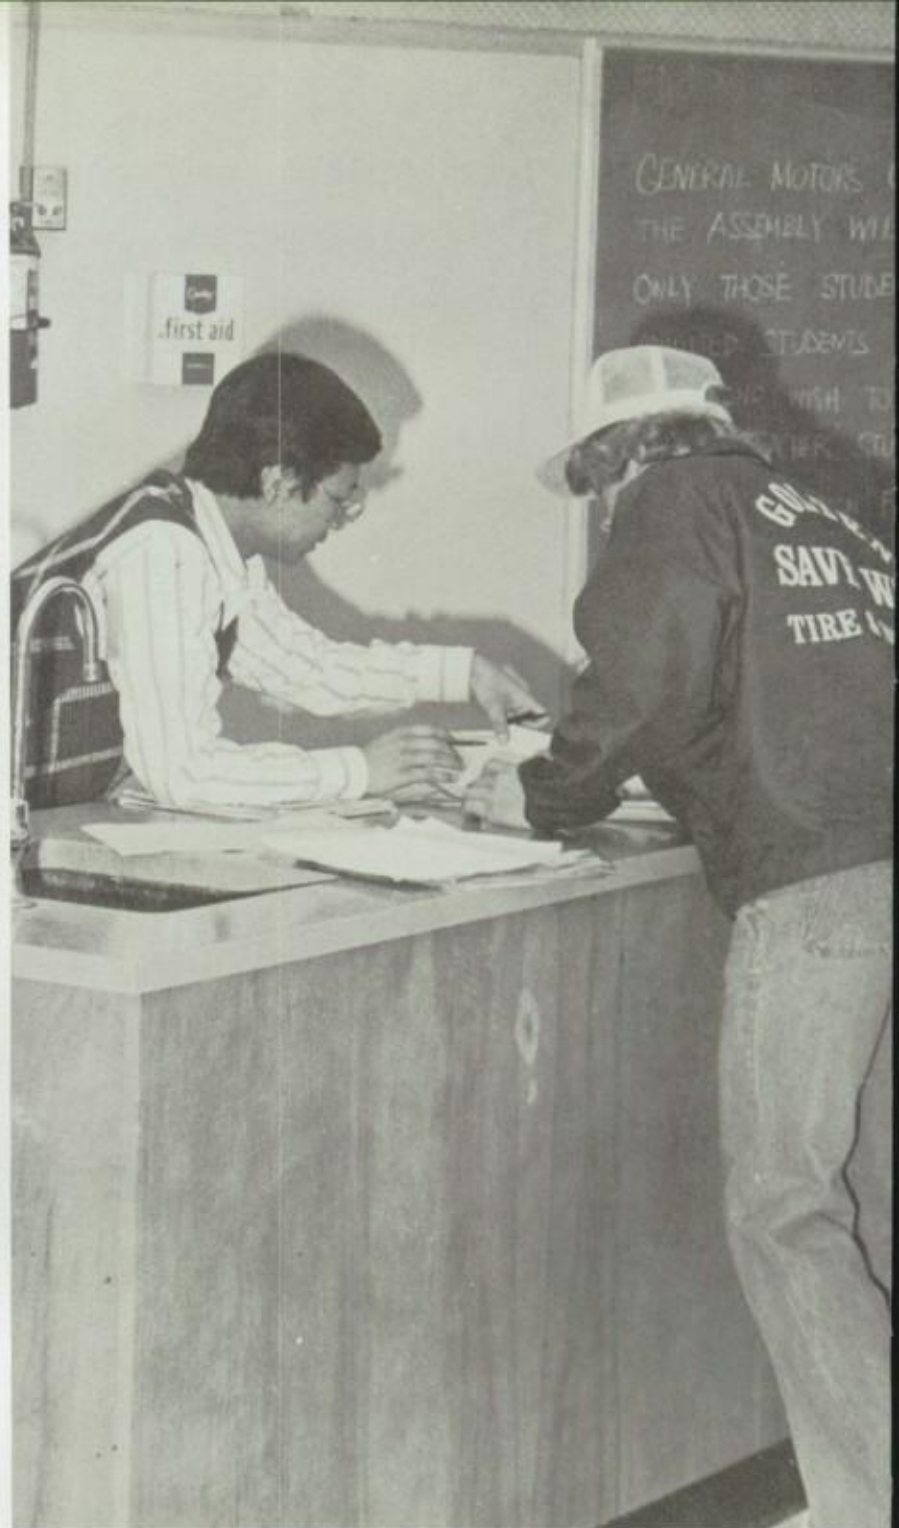

Mr. Dave Snyder discusses test results with a math class.

Educational prep courses prepare pupils for college

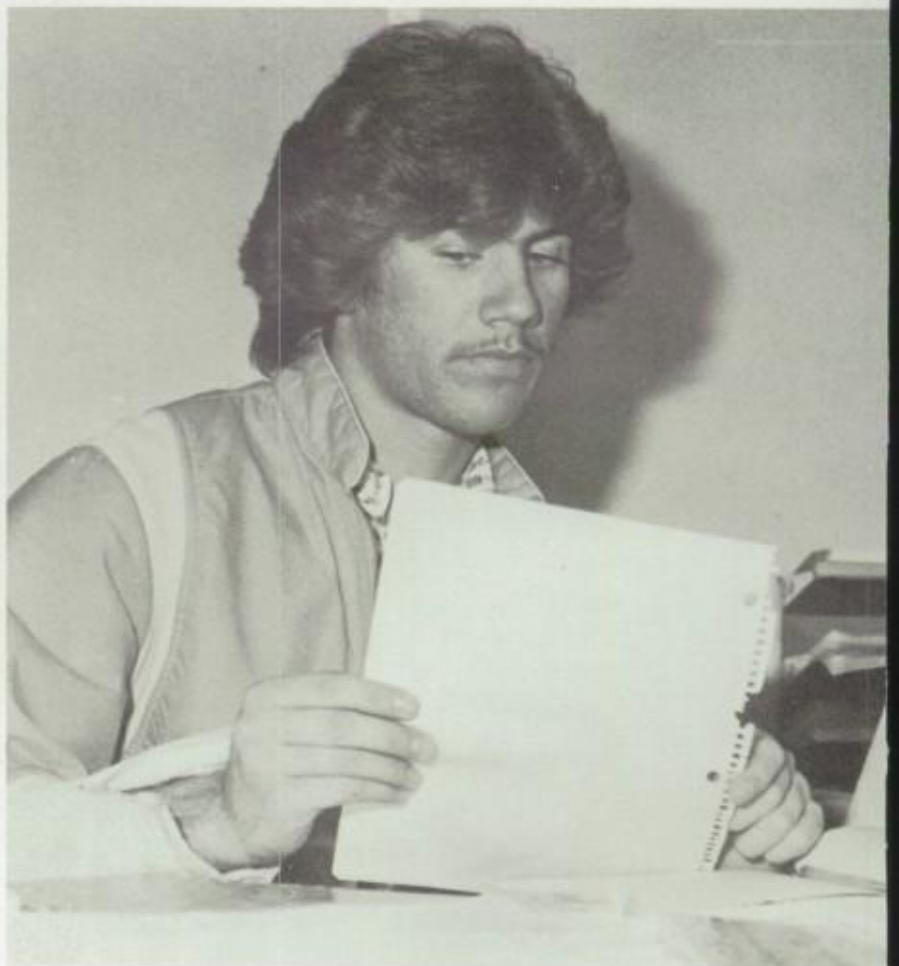

College is one of the key topics discussed by students throughout their senior year. Preparation for college is the focus of many classes at Clark: zoology, physics, rhetoric, trigonometry, foreign language, history, and many others.

The curriculum also included, for the first time this year, a class designed to prepare students for taking college entrance exams.

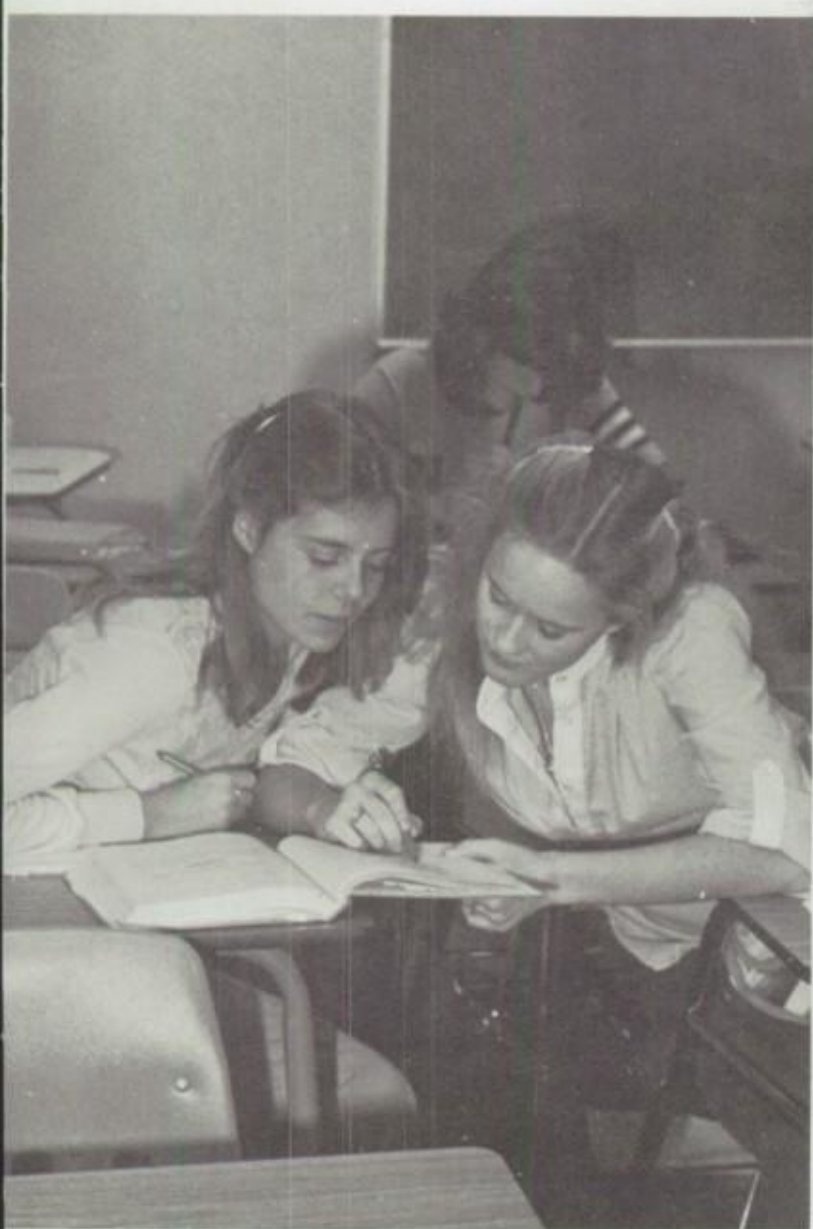

Reflecting the nationwide shift to basics, the school district emphasized minimal skills as the core of every class; the advanced level courses provided instruction in specific academic areas.

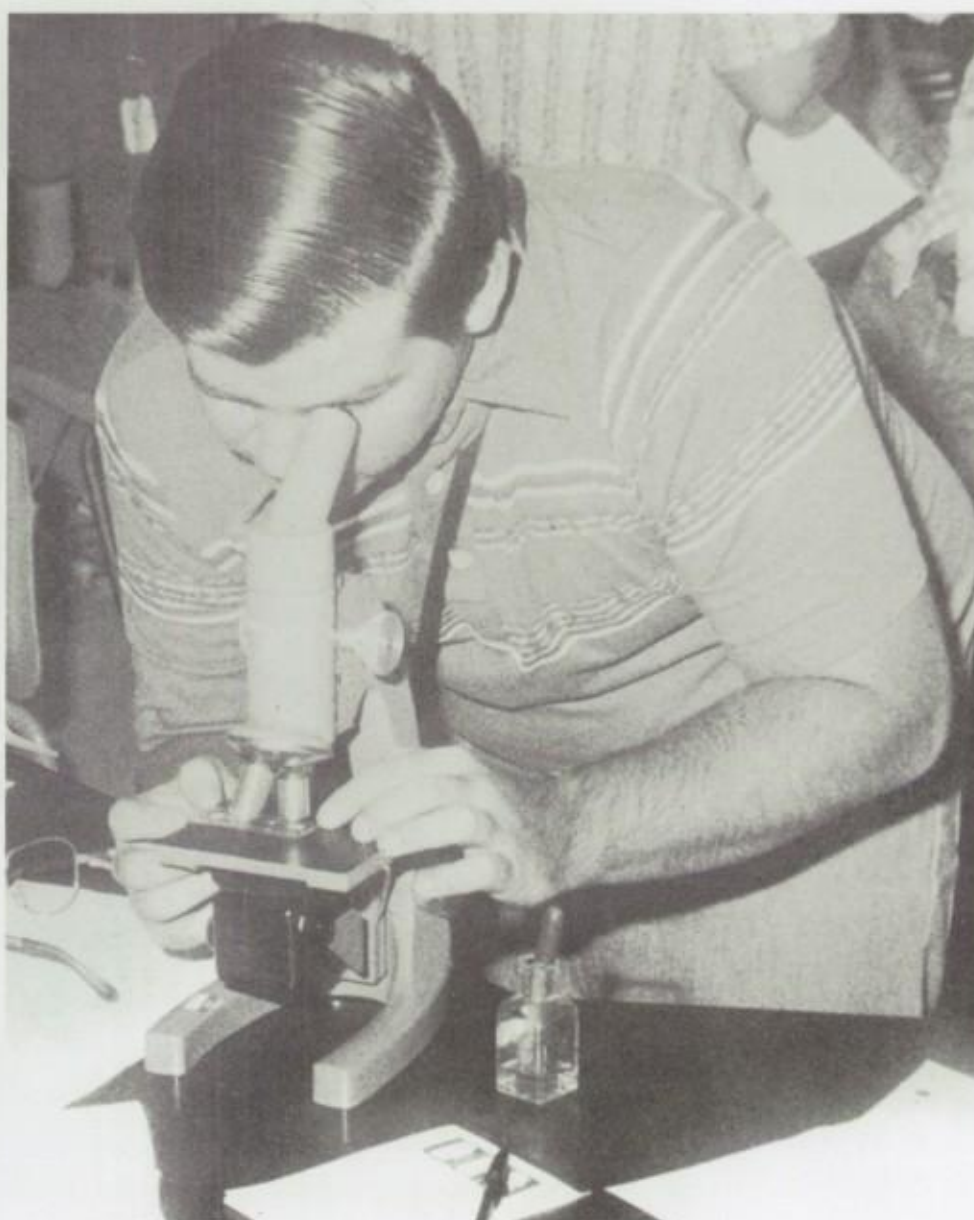

Mr. Louis Wong assists a student with questions about chemistry.

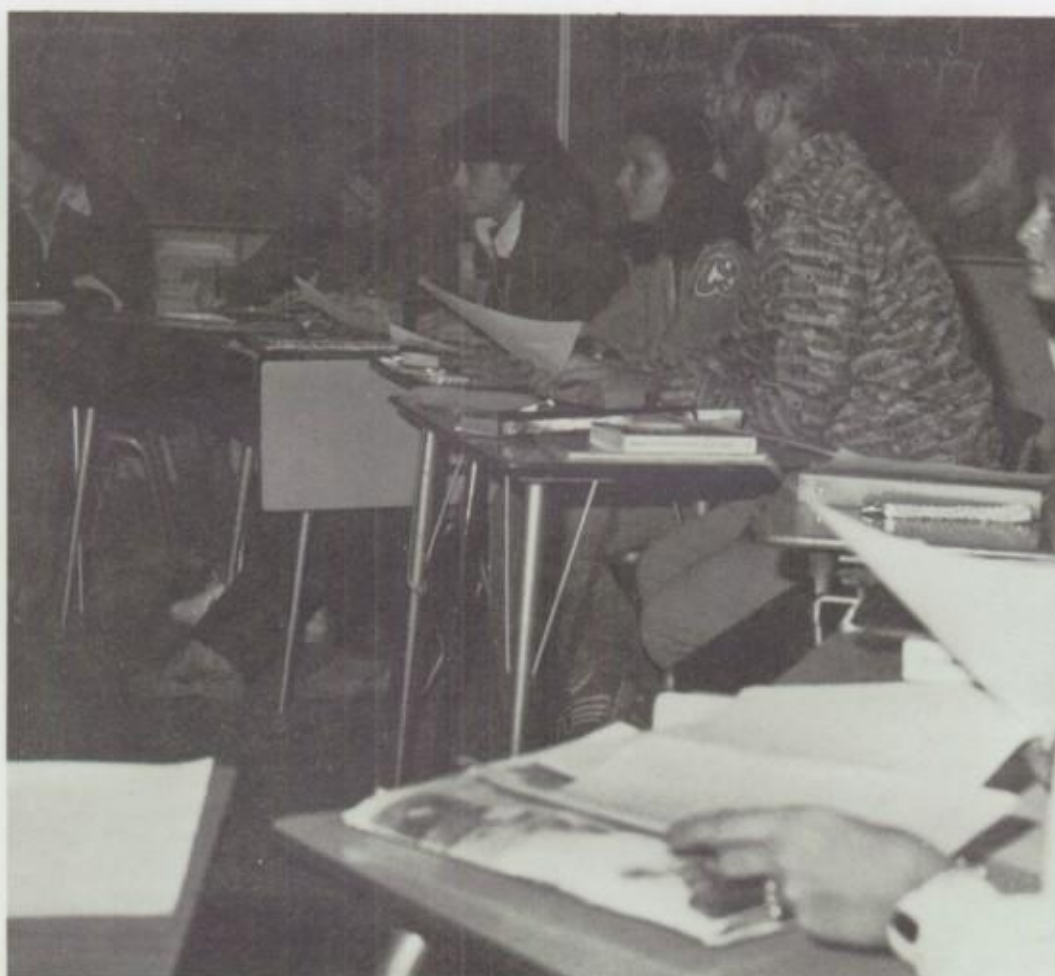

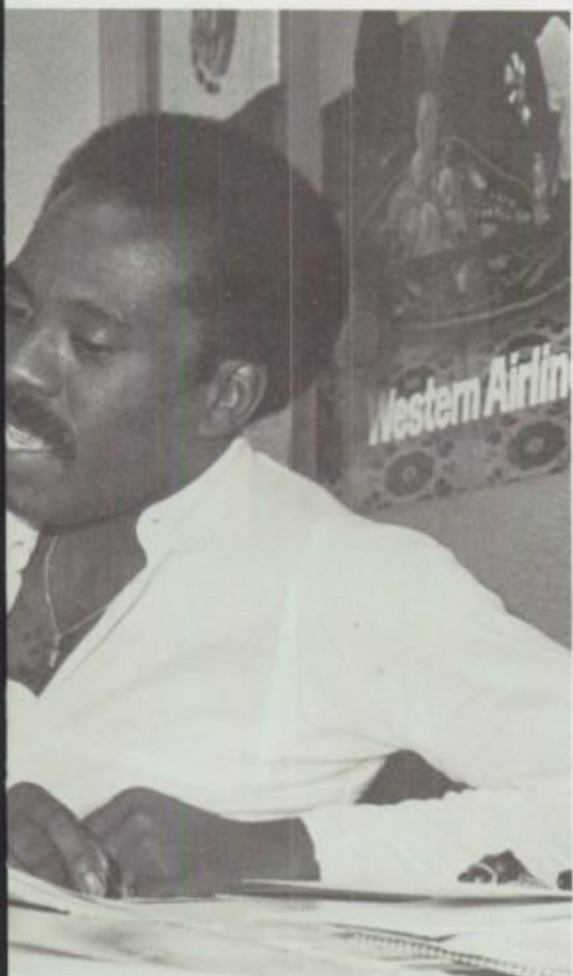

Lance Malone questions Mr. Gordon Hale over the latest Spanish assignment.

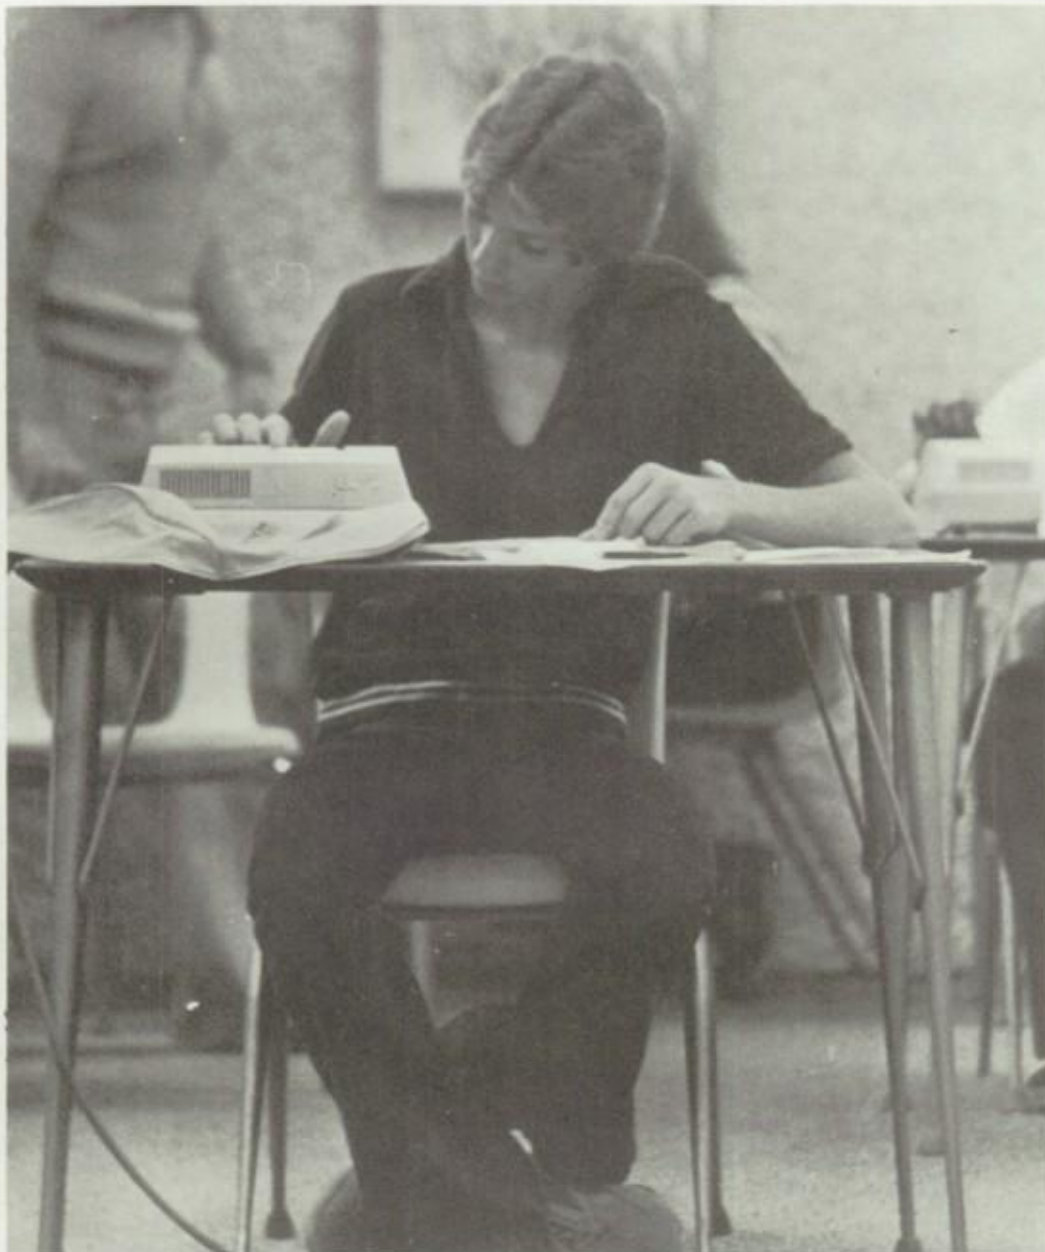

Joint effort produces results.

Mike Richardson looks through a microscope in order to complete his laboratory assignment.

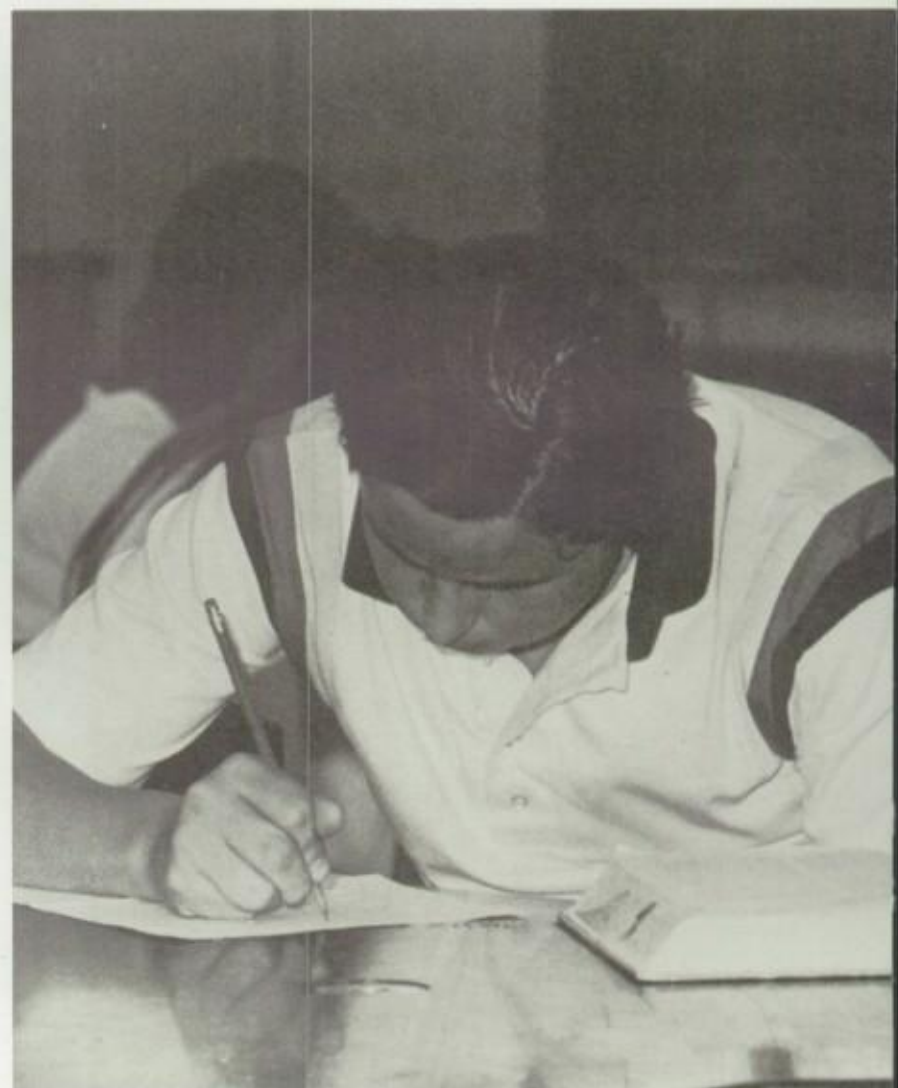

In Mr. John Harrington's rhetoric class accelerated students learn to expand writing techniques.

In office machine classes students learn how to run standard equipment.

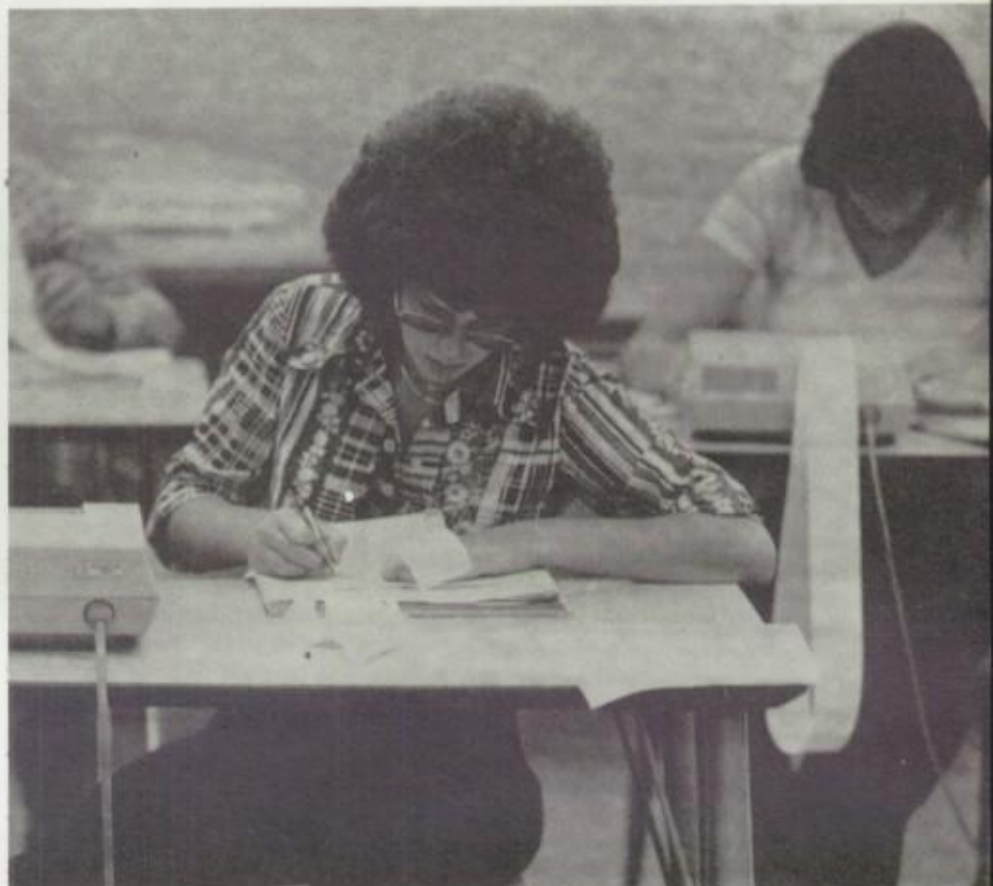

Students learn necessary auto repairs that may prove to be beneficial in later life.

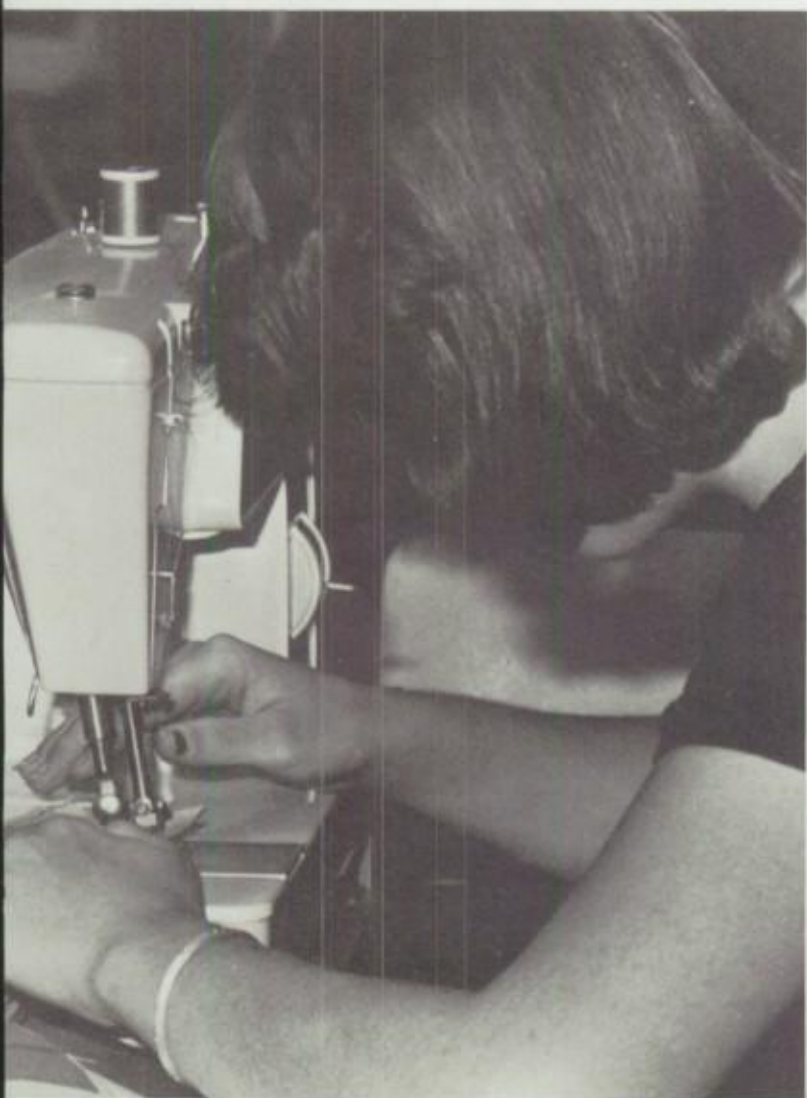

Classroom assignments help students further their knowledge.

In Career Day many representatives of local businesses inform students of employment opportunities.

Students work in order to meet classroom assignment expectations.

Learning to sew with machines is just one of the goals in sewing classes.

Vocational students seek out occupations to fulfill desires

Each year students decide upon some classes which teach specific skills to be used either for employment or for leisure-time pleasure.

Business courses draw enrollment from students who wish to enter the work world directly after graduation; they offer specific training in typing, shorthand, business machines, and accounting. However, many students find these courses to be good preparation for college, as well.

Ceramics, macrame, photography, and painting bring the opportunity for personal satisfaction from creative outlet.

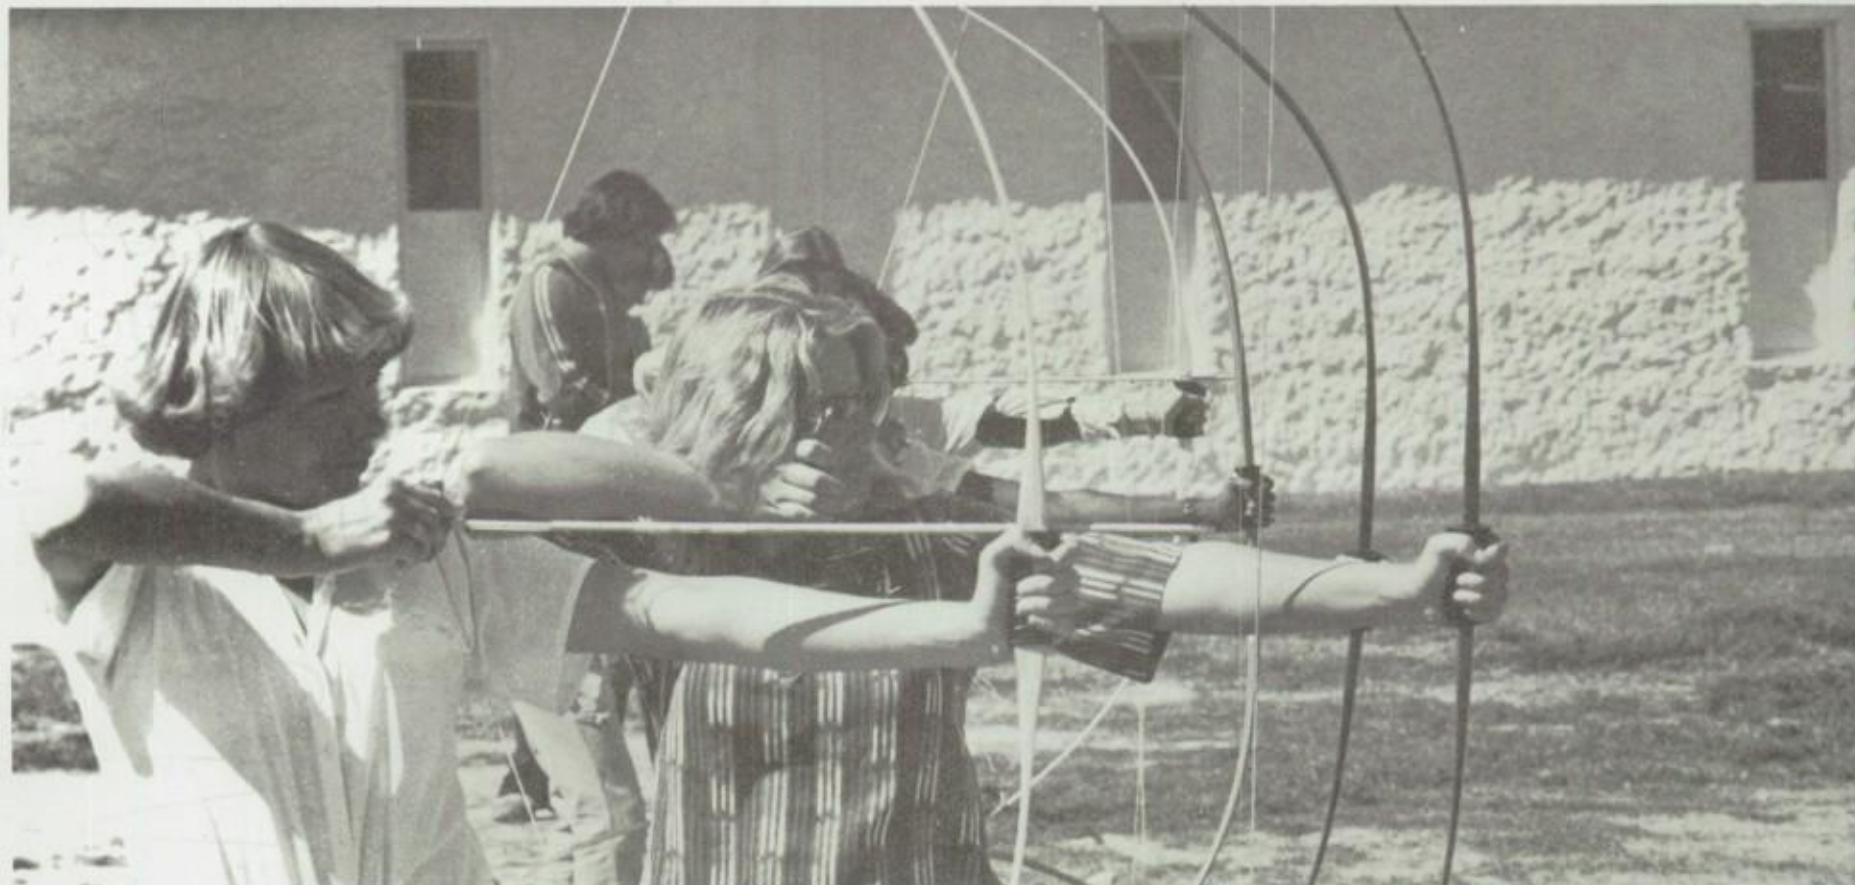

Class assignments prove beneficial for all participants

The satisfaction of doing many new things — such as playing instruments, dancing, singing, and tumbling — is a feature of many classes. Performing for others also plays a big part in the learning experience. Participating in assemblies and concerts, students perform as a group and as individuals.

The Clark curriculum includes a broad range of both elective and required courses which feature doing as the essential part of learning.

Specialized P.E. classes such as gymnastics emphasize balancing skills and exercises.

Physical education students aim to excel in archery, which is a standard unit in the curriculum.

Madrigal members display their musical talents.

Under the direction of William McMosley the saxophone section of stage band works to perfect varying types of music.

Colleen McKnight practices her "baby arm" for the annual drama Christmas Scenes.

Performance is the high point of the year for many classes.

Senior Class works with human interests throughout the year

The Senior Class kept busy this year by sponsoring a wide variety of activities, such as a disco to begin the year, the Sadie Hawkins dance in November, and the annual Child Haven Christmas Party.

Throughout football season the Class of '79 sold balloons, and as an extra fund-raiser during Homecoming week they sold oversized lollipops. At the Homecoming game the senior float placed second in school wide competition. Their display in Christmas Tree Lane won an award for the overall best display. The class also sponsored a foster child named Pascual Rodriguez Valadez through the Christian Children's fund. This project will be continued by next year's seniors.

Plans for the end of the year included a Senior Ball with the theme "Last Dance," a trip to California, and graduation at the Aladdin Theatre of the Performing Arts.

Pascual Rodriguez Valadez was adopted by the Senior Class through the Christian Children's Fund.

Linda,

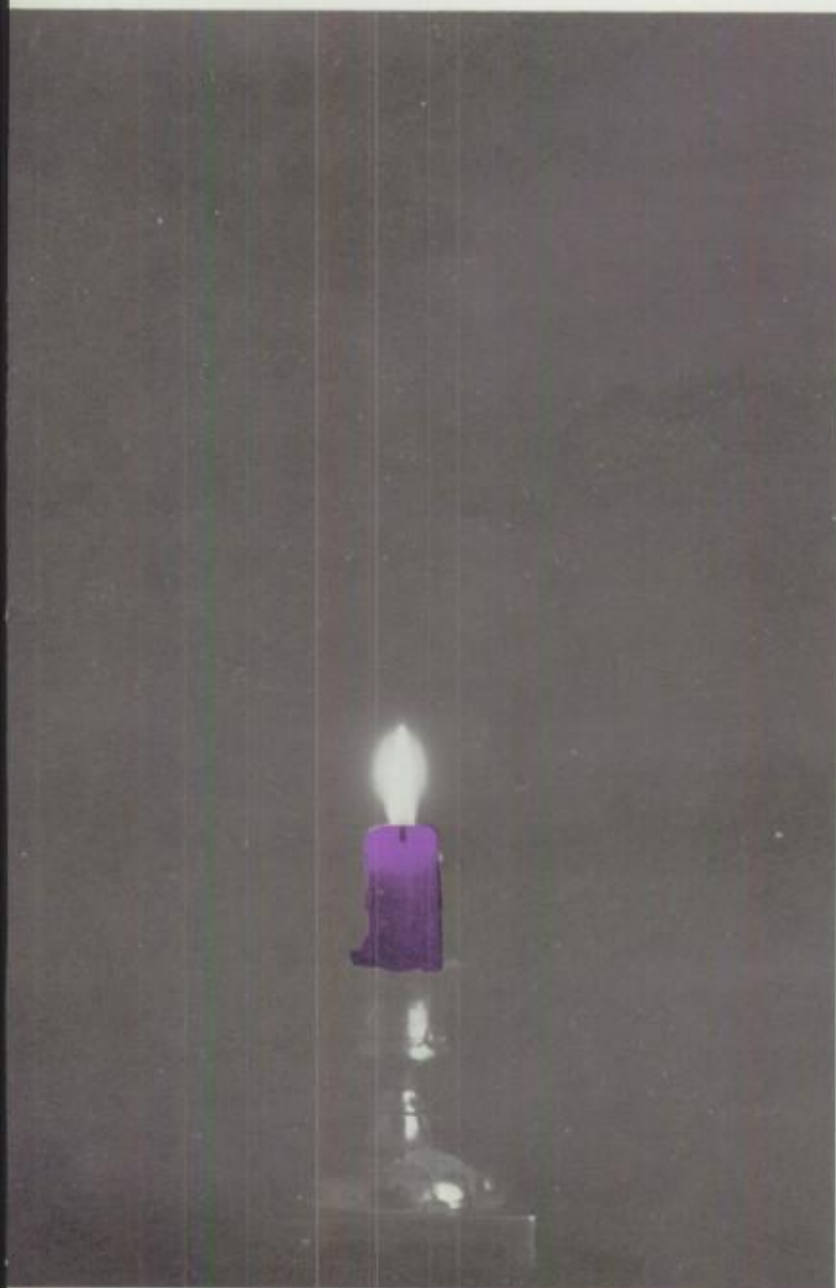

This has been a good year, because we got to be better friends. I will always remember ^{this} ~~these~~ year because it was our first year in senior high, and because all the good times we had and also the bad ones, ^{but} ~~but~~ it will always be fun to remember, hope you remember this year as well as I will. Also hope that you will stay as cute and as sweet as you have been through this year. So Linda when are you going to go out with Danner? Hope we can do all the things that we did all throughout the year. Sometimes I don't know how I put up with you. ^(I guess I put) But I know now, because you ~~are~~ ^{are} my best friends. But then again

I don't know how you put up with me through the year. But I guess I know why, because I am your best friend. (Ha, Ha). Oh well can't think

The year burns low,
leaving memories both good and bad,
but leading always to

CONCLUSION

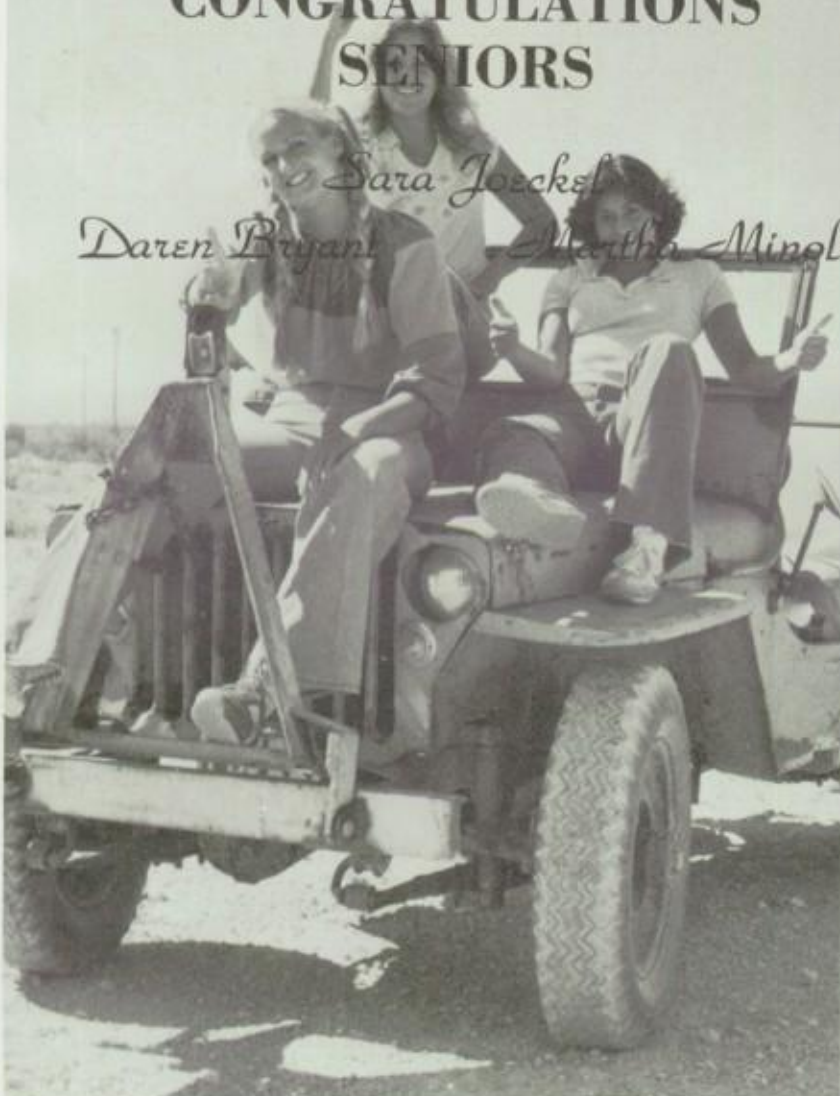

of nothing) else to say, except, hope you have a good summer and I'll see you all the time and I will call you all the time, hope you don't forget my ma number (875 4565).
So have a good summer and I'll see you all the time. Love ya Always.

RECIPE FOR A SUCCESSFUL SCHOOL YEAR

Successful School Year

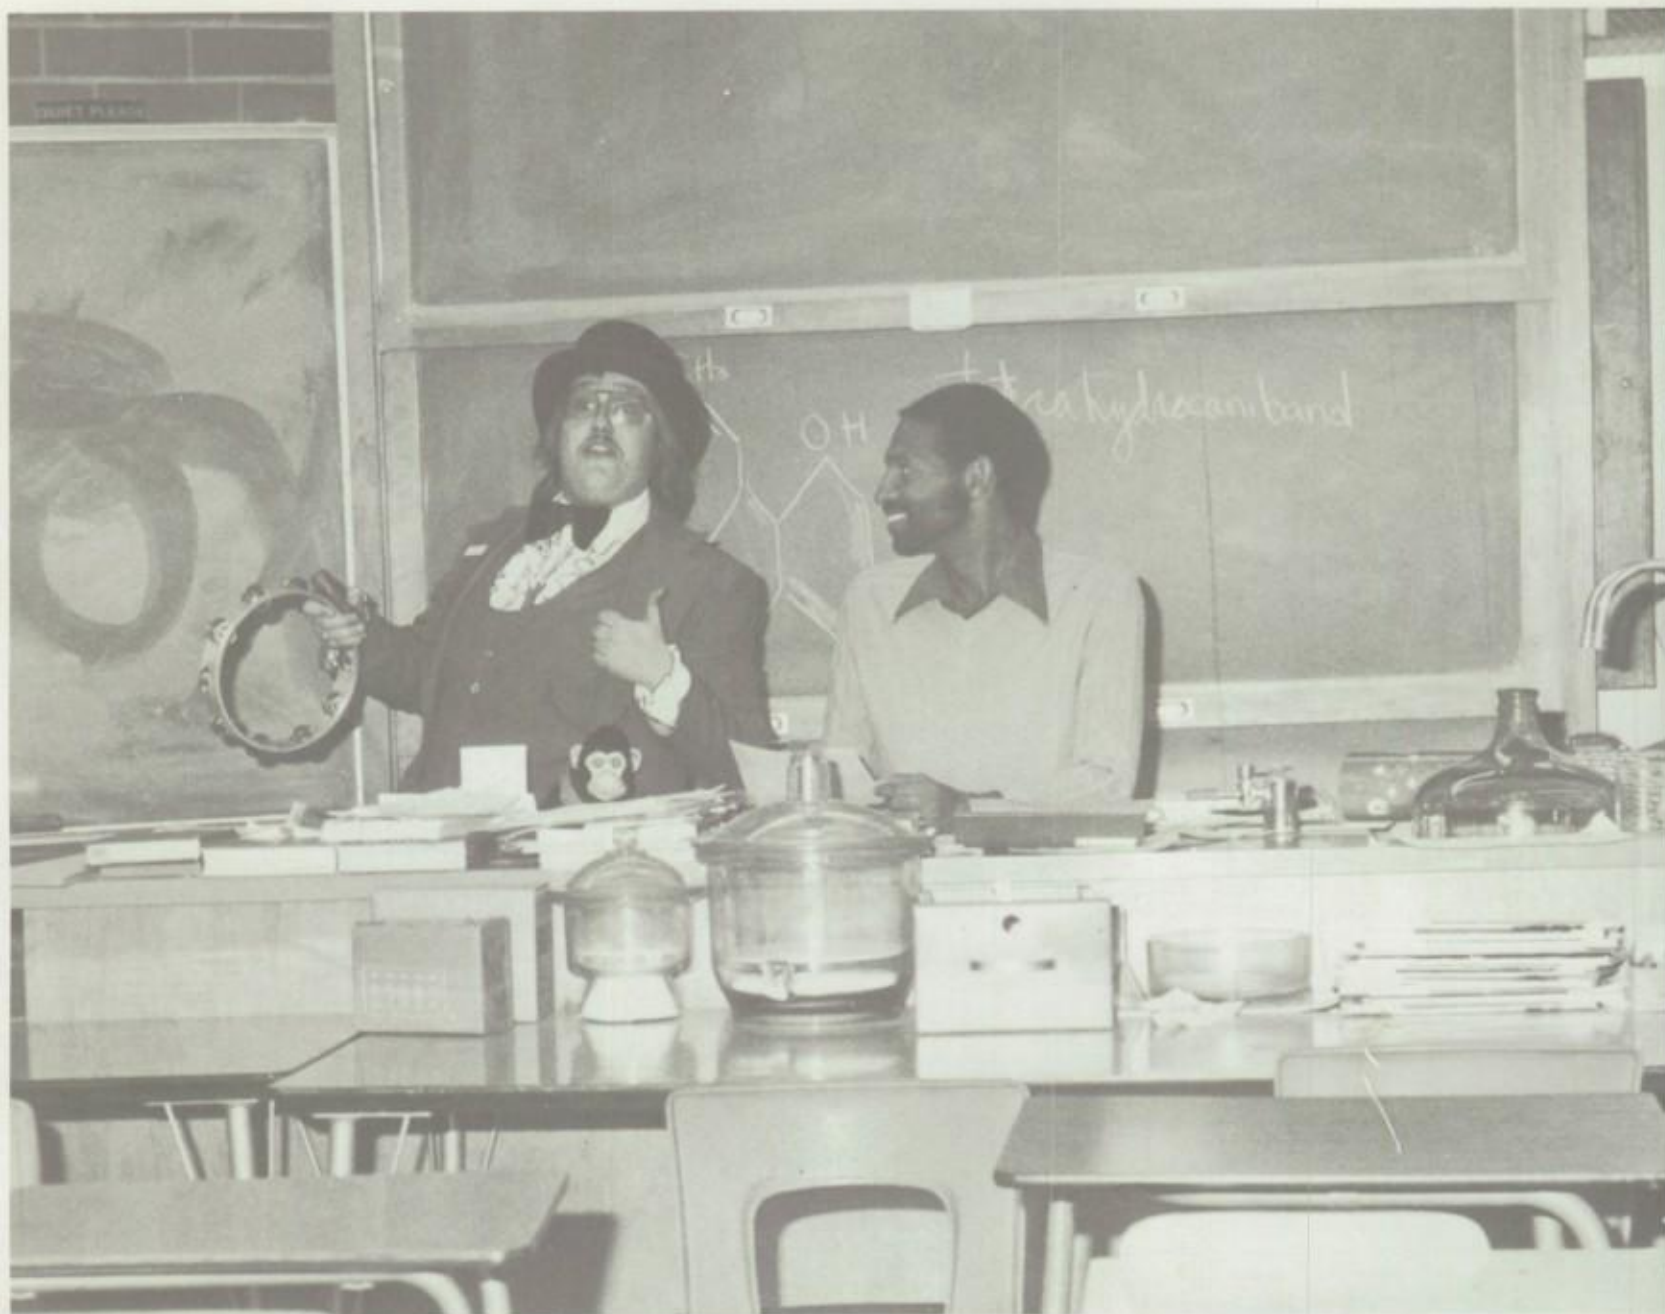

2 quarts Spirit
1 gallon Pride
4 cups Dedication
2 cans Participation
4 tablespoons Administration Cooperation
3 teaspoons Teacher Involvement

In a large school mix together Spirit and Pride
Then add Dedication and Participation Of course this recipe can't be completed without Administration Cooperation and Teacher Involvement A sure way to make this recipe a success is to add a dash of Assemblies.

A collage of special friends,
romance, competition . . .

To: ~~who~~ a girl that I didn't even know she was always nice to other people but a good friend. Sincerely yours
Richard

Once-in-a-lifetime experiences that we will never forget . . .

Acknowledgements

Each year many people in addition to the yearbook staff help to produce this volume. We would especially like to recognize the following contributions:

- Donna Katz for her artistic talent in designing the title page drawing.
- Ms. Young for her assistance in planning the art work.
- Joey Matthews for extra help on so many yearbook pages.
- Mrs. Clinesmith for her photographic contribution.
- Our teachers and administrators for their help with interviews and picture sessions.
- Susan Pomo and Carolyn Gerst for adding humor to third hour.
- Mr. and Mrs. Hale for their devotion and long extra hours.
- Mrs. Mackie and Mr. Collis for smoothing over many bumps during the year.
- Albert and James Studio for photographic assistance.
- Bob Stephenson and Taylor Publishing Company for help with our planning.
- Our advertisers for helping to make this book possible.
- Our family and friends for understanding our demands.
- The student body of CHS for creating the events we recorded.

It is time to light the candle again for a new tomorrow —
every tomorrow

Rhonda,

I'm glad you ~~asked~~ me to write in this cause I want to tell you you've been a good (even though we've had our ups and downs.) Don't ever change, cause you're a really fun & easy to talk to. Well it looks like you have one year left and I have three. Take advantage of ^{your} ~~this~~ last year cause they go so fast - too fast. Well good luck in every thing you do, & I'll see you maybe - this summer and for our next year. A.F.H.

Rhonda - nice to hear you! ~~we~~ knowing you! ~~we~~ had a lot of fun with it that day will do it was great. well next year sometime next year ok. well I gotta go stay ~~in~~ and ~~and~~ enjoy life while you can.

Love
Jeff Carberry

Rhonda,
a weird and crazy person
have a nice summer! See you next year.

friends always,

Laura

from what I just previous ly wrote. Say, have you been out with DAMON? He is just an ugly
fag. I really think he's fat, ugly, and a smelly cowboy. I hate him. Next 'Party' ya know, I had better be invited!

catchain well,
later I got so deeps!

I wuv
ya lots.
Don't ever forget me! ta, ta!

Rhonda,

It has been just great knowing you this year. You are a very sweet person. It has also been a great pleasure to have you in my 6th period
even though I didn't come for 2 weeks stay
as sweet and as nice as you are don't ever change hope to see you this summer and next year at Co tech well I think
I have written enough

good luck

Love Ya
